4-11-1988

Monitor Newsletter April 11, 1988

Bowling Green State University

Follow this and additional works at: https://scholarworks.bgsu.edu/monitor

Recommended Citation
https://scholarworks.bgsu.edu/monitor/916

This Book is brought to you for free and open access by the University Publications at ScholarWorks@BGSU. It has been accepted for inclusion in Monitor by an authorized administrator of ScholarWorks@BGSU.
EXTRAORDINARY DANCE COMPANY TO BE FOUNDED AND PERFORMED BY A GENUS OF PHOTO TROPIC FUNGI

Extraordinary dance company to be founded and performed by a genus of phototropic fungi, named after a genus of phototropic fungi "Oligosporos" which are dependent on light for their movement. The company, known for its innovative and avant-garde performances, will be housed in a building donated by the donor's family, and has received funding from a variety of sources, including a major grant from the Department of Education. The company's performances will feature the unique movements of the fungi, which have the ability to move in response to light. The company will be led by a co-founder, who is a member of the genus and has a degree in dance and biology. The company's first performance will be at the Bowdoin green chamber of commerce.

Activities are planned for 1988 African Week

A visit to the University of Michigan, where the company will give a performance at the University's Art Museum. The company will also perform at the Bowdoin Green Chamber of Commerce.

Faculty at work: relieving tension and resistance is key to good morale

In the end, the only thing we are asking is that you respect our professional judgment when it comes to this matter.

"It is crucial to our ability to perform effectively that we are able to relieve tension and resistance in the workplace. By doing so, we can reduce the negative effects of stress on our performance and increase our effectiveness in all areas of our work." faculty at work relieving tension and resistance is key to good morale

Learning to make changes in the workplace

"As professionals, we must learn to make changes in the workplace. By doing so, we can improve our performance and increase our effectiveness in all areas of our work." learning to make changes in the workplace

Firelands grads to hear address by Shevchenko

Andriy Shevchenko, the highest-scoring striker in Premier League history, will be the commencement speaker at 1 p.m. Sunday at Firelands High School's commencement ceremony. With a career total of more than 200 goals, the World Cup-winner will begin his address with the words, "We are very fortunate to live in times when all of our dreams can come true."

Oblituaries

James Adler

James Adler, 65, superintendent at the University electrical shop, died March 29 of an apparent heart attack. Adler was named to the Staff Award Recognition Panel for his work with the University. Adler was a member of the Audubon Society and the Wood County Unit of the American Civil Liberties Union. He is survived by his wife, Abigail, and a daughter, Sarah.

Laureta Brueggemeier

Laureta Brueggemeier, 62, a former University employee, died March 29. Brueggemeier was a member of the University's human resources department. She is survived by her husband, Charles, and a daughter, Susan.

Faculty/staff positions

The university is seeking candidates for a number of positions. Contact the Office of Academic Affairs for more information. The Office of Academic Affairs can be reached at 206-269-3143.

Siegfried Institute for teaching excellence: assistant professor

Contact Eric C. Barlow at 206-269-3143. DEADLINE: April 6

Continued on page 3
Green Mayor Edwin C. Jackson will make an official proclamation and  announce the "Grapes Boycott.""}

When a person tries to handle a problem, he said, "the co-worker to really understand a conversation, people like to know that the other person is not saying something that can build up resentment and that can create a situation where things can be said that are not true."

"Superiority or Equality. Woses said when people are superior to us, it makes us feel inferior and we don't listen to the conversation that is necessary to help the questions to be asked and to get the message across.

The Bursar's office at the University of Toledo is the only office that offers a service for students and employees. Woses said that this service is available for students and employees who are not enrolled in the University's programs. The Bursar's office is located in the University of Toledo Center and can be reached at 336-2523.

The University of Toledo will be the host of the "Graduate College," which is scheduled to take place on April 15 and 16. The event will include a variety of sessions and workshops, which will focus on the needs of the graduate students. The Graduate College will also provide opportunities for networking and professional development.

The University of Toledo will be the host of the "Graduate College," which is scheduled to take place on April 15 and 16. The event will include a variety of sessions and workshops, which will focus on the needs of the graduate students. The Graduate College will also provide opportunities for networking and professional development.
Royer's works express his soul and ethnic perspectives

Throughout the years and even today, the mainstream "white" culture in American society has given up their ethnicity, heritage or culture. Royer, ethnically and artistically independent, represents a whole new generation of people who want to deny the significance of their ethnicity. Royer's work is a reflection of socially and historically, American society has punished people from ethnic minorities their soul.

"Poetry is the theme of Royer, who joined the ethnic studies department last fall, said his poetry "for people who have to deal with confronting with alienation, is.""

Royer's professional career does not mean that his work does not need to be continuing. He said that "Before coming to the University, he taught at设备, a member of the Ethnic Studies Program. He also gives poetry readings and music performances. "Publishing poetry is only secondary though, because the music is how you receive from yourself," Royer said. It is a way for him to express his feelings and his own experiences.

Royer said he has been influenced by the music of Michael Jackson and Prince, who he feels "are a combination of different cultures and expectations of dominant ethnic groups. Today's black music can get published to those who are concerned with what they have to say. Royer, however, doesn't feel that he has a lot of people to write to in poetry. That developed more out of a reaction against something and commenting on his work. "Poetry is something" for me, writing is a spiritual activity to do in order to discover and keep up with your soul," Royer said.

That is why Royer "expected to record it as a poem on a tape." he said. People mask their personal needs and wants on the stage, but Royer wishes to "share something that is a part of him." he said. People need to talk about something they're afraid to talk about.

Another theme Royer's work is "to explore the metaphysical experience of being human." Royer does not play favorites among the races, but he does feel that "all human beings are equal in this world at a given point in time. Generally, he believes people are created, not formed by the "Black man"/"Brown man"/"White man." In his own words, "He's teaching me more about life."

Royer has heard that the relationship between the culture "is not a question of the culture" but an interaction between people. One way Royer tries to make direct contact is to have his works translated in a foreign language. Royer wishes to translate his works because he wants to be able to transmit them. It's something that he "loves to do."

Since coming to the campus, Royer has taken notes in the department. He has been secretary of faculty meetings, has participated in various conferences and was in the planning of the fall Ethnic Studies Conference. Royer also has worked with the English and history departments.

As far as his poetry is concerned, Royer said he very seldom adhering to any rules. "Writer's hands is to write it as if they were speaking. Writers should not be so eager to be like other writing, rather they should want the works that are written in the general sense," he said.

For Royer, writing is a style that strengthens his ethnic identity and heritage. He feels that he has contributed to the development of Afro-American culture as a teacher, writer, editor, and cultural community. Royer believes that he can develop his own style and become a different form of "In his style, he deems adequate to the relationship with the culture."

College honors Ellis as "Alum of the Year"

Crystal Barlow/Staff

Crystal Fajardo

College honors Ellis as "Alum of the Year"

"Alum of the Year" Award, the College of Education and Allied Professionals "Alum of the Year" Award, as present by the College of Education and Allied Professionals, to the person who has been the most outstanding alum, for the year 1987-1988, was given to Dr. Christa Ellis, professor of music education and professor of psychology, at a ceremony in the Farrier Building Atrium, November 15, 1988.

The award was presented to Ellis by Dr. 발 밀, chancellor of the College of Education and Allied Professionals, in recognition of her outstanding contributions to the College of Education and Allied Professionals. The award is presented annually to the person who has been the most outstanding alum, for the year, as determined by the College of Education and Allied Professionals.

The award was presented to Ellis, who has been a member of the College of Education and Allied Professionals, for her outstanding contributions to the College of Education and Allied Professionals. Ellis is currently a professor of music education and professor of psychology, and has been a member of the College of Education and Allied Professionals, for the past 10 years.

Ellis is the recipient of the "Alum of the Year" Award, for the year 1987-1988, in recognition of her outstanding contributions to the College of Education and Allied Professionals. The award is presented annually to the person who has been the most outstanding alum, for the year, as determined by the College of Education and Allied Professionals.

The award was presented to Ellis, who has been a member of the College of Education and Allied Professionals, for her outstanding contributions to the College of Education and Allied Professionals. Ellis is currently a professor of music education and professor of psychology, and has been a member of the College of Education and Allied Professionals, for the past 10 years.

The award was presented to Ellis, who has been a member of the College of Education and Allied Professionals, for her outstanding contributions to the College of Education and Allied Professionals. Ellis is currently a professor of music education and professor of psychology, and has been a member of the College of Education and Allied Professionals, for the past 10 years.

The award was presented to Ellis, who has been a member of the College of Education and Allied Professionals, for her outstanding contributions to the College of Education and Allied Professionals. Ellis is currently a professor of music education and professor of psychology, and has been a member of the College of Education and Allied Professionals, for the past 10 years.

The award was presented to Ellis, who has been a member of the College of Education and Allied Professionals, for her outstanding contributions to the College of Education and Allied Professionals. Ellis is currently a professor of music education and professor of psychology, and has been a member of the College of Education and Allied Professionals, for the past 10 years.

The award was presented to Ellis, who has been a member of the College of Education and Allied Professionals, for her outstanding contributions to the College of Education and Allied Professionals. Ellis is currently a professor of music education and professor of psychology, and has been a member of the College of Education and Allied Professionals, for the past 10 years.

The award was presented to Ellis, who has been a member of the College of Education and Allied Professionals, for her outstanding contributions to the College of Education and Allied Professionals. Ellis is currently a professor of music education and professor of psychology, and has been a member of the College of Education and Allied Professionals, for the past 10 years.

The award was presented to Ellis, who has been a member of the College of Education and Allied Professionals, for her outstanding contributions to the College of Education and Allied Professionals. Ellis is currently a professor of music education and professor of psychology, and has been a member of the College of Education and Allied Professionals, for the past 10 years.

The award was presented to Ellis, who has been a member of the College of Education and Allied Professionals, for her outstanding contributions to the College of Education and Allied Professionals. Ellis is currently a professor of music education and professor of psychology, and has been a member of the College of Education and Allied Professionals, for the past 10 years.

The award was presented to Ellis, who has been a member of the College of Education and Allied Professionals, for her outstanding contributions to the College of Education and Allied Professionals. Ellis is currently a professor of music education and professor of psychology, and has been a member of the College of Education and Allied Professionals, for the past 10 years.
Datebook

Monday, April 11

Undergraduate Student Art Show. Gallery, Lower Auditorium, 8 a.m.-4:30 p.m. weekdays and 2-5 p.m. weekends.

TV in Bookstore. (To order a book by phone, call 225-4131.)

Edna Buchanan. 1986 President's Preceptor, will talk about the College of Education, in Business Administration Center, 3:00 p.m.

Monitor Staff Election. In residence halls, 9 p.m.

Tuesday, April 12

Meet the President. "Open door" session on student concerns, 11:30 a.m., Assembly Room, Macc Center.

Research and Innovation Expo. In the lower level of the library, noon-3 p.m., area of Dayton, Laramie, and West Field.

Meeting of the Faculty Senate. 11:00 a.m., Conference Room, Macc Center.

Wednesday, April 13

Mass Communication Week Lecture, on The Newspaper of the Future, 11:00 a.m., Community Center, University Center.

Thursday, April 14

Mass Communication Week Discussion, on The Changing Nature of the Newspaper, with Bob D'Amico, editor of the Dayton Daily News, residential students lounge, University Center.

Friday, April 15

Earth Day Features Waterman talk

Jonathan Waterman, assistant editor of The Crackerman, will discuss "The Anti-Nuclear Movement." 11:00 a.m., Assembly Room, Macc Center.

Monitor Staff Election. In residence halls, 9 p.m.

Meet the President. "Open door" session on student concerns, 11:30 a.m., Assembly Room, Macc Center.

Saturday, April 16

End of the Season Concert in the Arts Center, 8 p.m.

Television Program, "Child Behavior," continues at 7:30 p.m. on WBGU-TV.

Newspaper, "The 41st Day," will be on the stands Thursday night. Priced at 25 cents.

Monitor Staff Election. In residence halls, 9 p.m.

Classified Employment Opportunities

Applications sought

Nominations and applications are being sought for membership on the Board of Trustees. Nominations must be submitted by May 15. Applications are being sought for membership on the Board of Visitors. Applications are being sought for the positions of president for May 16, 1986, and president-elect. Applications are being sought for the position of director of special services. Applications are being sought for the position of associate dean of library affairs. The positions require that the candidate be familiar with the University's personnel policy, procedures, and programs. The position of president-elect requires that the candidate be familiar with the University's personnel policy, procedures, and programs. The position of director requires that the candidate be familiar with the University's personnel policy, procedures, and programs.

Faculty/staff positions

The following faculty positions are available:

- Associate Professor of Chemistry, 4-year term, tenure-track, University Center.
- Assistant Professor of English, 2-year term, temporary, tenure-track, Division of Humanities.
- Assistant Professor of Mathematics, 2-year term, University Center.
- Assistant Professor of Political Science, 2-year term, University Center.
- Assistant Professor of Sociology, 2-year term, University Center.
- Assistant Professor of Spanish, 2-year term, University Center.
- Assistant Professor of Theatre, 2-year term, University Center.
- Assistant Professor of Women's Studies, 2-year term, University Center.

Trustees' increase summer institutional, general fees

Summer institutional and general fees for undergraduates were increased last week on the Board of Trustees of the University of Dayton, effective May 1. The increase resulted in a $5 increase for resident students and a $4 increase for non-resident students. The increase will be effective for the 1988-89 academic year. The increase is expected to cover the cost of increased operating expenses and the new fees will be effective for the 1988-89 academic year.

The increase in fees will be used to support the University's budget. The increase is expected to cover the cost of increased operating expenses and the new fees will be effective for the 1988-89 academic year.

Staff disadvantages grumbles to deliver service with a smile

It is one of the perks of the peak period that students can be seen standing in line. However, when students are standing in line, they are there to either receive a check or cash. It is a simple yet unique place for people and students to enjoy. Person A stands in line and at the end of time, he or she can come to the front of the line and receive a check. Person B stands in line and at the end of time, he or she can come to the front of the line and receive a check. The line is one source of revenue for the office and by standing in line, you can make someone happy. The line is one source of revenue for the office and by standing in line, you can make someone happy.

In addition, the line is one source of revenue for the office and by standing in line, you can make someone happy. The line is one source of revenue for the office and by standing in line, you can make someone happy. The line is one source of revenue for the office and by standing in line, you can make someone happy. The line is one source of revenue for the office and by standing in line, you can make someone happy. The line is one source of revenue for the office and by standing in line, you can make someone happy.