Monitor Newsletter April 25, 1988

Bowling Green State University

Follow this and additional works at: https://scholarworks.bgsu.edu/monitor

Recommended Citation

This Book is brought to you for free and open access by the University Publications at ScholarWorks@BGSU. It has been accepted for inclusion in Monitor by an authorized administrator of ScholarWorks@BGSU.
AIDS: The key to prevention is to promote education

AIDS was first reported in New York City in 1981. Since then, it has spread throughout the United States and has become the leading cause of death among people between the ages of 25 and 44. The Surgeon General's office has declared that AIDS is a serious public health threat.

The primary mode of transmission of AIDS is through sexual contact with an infected person. Other modes of transmission include perinatal transmission (from mother to child), and the use of contaminated needles or other drug paraphernalia.

The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) estimate that there were 40,000 new cases of AIDS in the United States in 1991. This is a significant decline from the peak of 98,000 new cases in 1987.

There is no cure for AIDS, but there are treatments that can slow the progress of the disease. The most effective treatment is a combination of antiretroviral medications. These medications suppress the replication of the virus and can help prevent the progression of the disease.

In order to prevent the spread of AIDS, it is important to understand the modes of transmission and to take steps to protect oneself from infection. This includes using latex condoms during sexual activity, avoiding sharing needles or other drug paraphernalia, and avoiding contact with the blood or body fluids of an infected person.

Project will test freshen AIDS attitudes

How much do freshmen understand the impact of AIDS on their lives? Many people have misconceptions about the disease, including the idea that it is not really a threat to most people because they have not had sexual contact with an infected person.

AIDS is a serious public health threat, and everyone needs to be aware of the risks and take steps to protect themselves. This includes avoiding high-risk behaviors, such as unprotected sexual activity and the sharing of needles or other drug paraphernalia.

CSC seeks self-nominations for technical positions for 1988-89

The Committee on Student Recruitment and Placement (CSC) has opened its annual search for technical positions for 1988-89.

The CSC is responsible for recruiting and placing students in technical positions. These positions are available in a variety of fields, including electronics, computer science, and engineering.

The CSC seeks self-nominations from students who are interested in these positions. Students are encouraged to contact the CSC office to discuss their qualifications and to learn more about the available positions.

Faculty/staff presentations

Several faculty and staff members will be giving presentations this semester. These presentations will cover a wide range of topics, including the history of the internet, the latest advancements in computer science, and the impact of technology on society.

The presentations will be held in the afternoon and will be open to all students. Students are encouraged to attend these presentations to learn more about the latest developments in their field of study.

Allergies

The topic of allergies is a common one for many people. Allergies are caused by the body's immune system reacting to foreign substances, such as pollen or dust.

The symptoms of allergies can vary from mild to severe and can include sneezing, itching, and trouble breathing. In severe cases, allergies can be life-threatening.

There are several ways to manage allergies, including the use of medications and avoidance of allergens. Students are encouraged to talk to their healthcare provider about their allergies and to develop a management plan.

The recipient of the award is chosen by the faculty and staff who have observed the recipient's hard work and dedication. The award is presented at the end of the semester.

The recipient of the award is chosen by the faculty and staff who have observed the recipient's hard work and dedication. The award is presented at the end of the semester.
University establishes protective guidelines

AIDS: The key to prevention is to promote education

AIDS is considered a national health crisis by the American Medical Association, the Surgeon General, and the National Institutes of Health. However, AIDS has yet to be fully understood, and educational efforts are needed to prevent its spread.

The Surgeon General's Office recently published a report called "AIDS: The Key to Prevention is to Promote Education." The report emphasizes the importance of education in combating AIDS and outlines several recommendations for prevention.

The report includes the following recommendations:

1. Educate the public about AIDS and its transmission.
2. Promote early detection and treatment of HIV.
3. Inform all Americans about the importance of safe sexual practices.
4. Encourage the use of condoms and other barriers to prevent transmission.
5. Reduce the stigma associated with AIDS.
6. Support research to find a cure and treatments for AIDS.
7. Promote accurate and up-to-date information about AIDS.

The report also highlights the importance of education in reducing the spread of AIDS and improving the quality of life for those affected by the disease.

CSC seeks self-nominations for top church positions for 1988-89

The College Student Council (CSC) is seeking self-nominations for top church positions for the 1988-89 academic year. The positions include the President, Vice President, Secretary, Treasurer, and Student Usher.

The President is responsible for leading the Student Council and overseeing the operations of the organization. The Vice President assists the President and takes over in their absence. The Secretary is in charge of记录 and maintaining minutes of meetings. The Treasurer manages the finances of the council, while the Student Usher attends to the needs of the congregation.

The council encourages self-nominations for these positions, and interested students are invited to submit their applications.

Faculty and staff presentations

Several faculty and staff members will be giving presentations throughout the year. The presentations will cover a range of topics, including student affairs, academic programs, and research initiatives.

Alligier from page 1

involved the topic of a new book she is working on. The book is about the impact of technology on society.

She also discussed the importance of staying informed about the latest developments in the field.

The event was well-attended, and attendees left with a better understanding of the complex issues surrounding technology and society.

309 from page 6

The meeting will be held at 3 p.m. on May 4 in the McAllister Assembly Hall.

The decision of the classified staff employees' bargaining representative was controversial. The bargaining representative had recommended in favor of the proposed contract that both the institute and the employees had been working towards.

The employees had expressed concerns about the proposed contract, and the decision was made to hold further negotiations to address these concerns.

The decision of the classified staff will continue to be examined and debated, and the parties will seek to reach a resolution that is fair and acceptable to all parties involved.
Summer hours just two weeks away

Summer hours will officially begin at the Library on Monday, April 27. Beginning May 5, through August 11, the office will be open 9 to 10 a.m. Monday through Saturday. All general circulation desks and vice presidents, admissions and bookstore, will be open 9 to 10 a.m. Monday through Thursday, and 9 to 5 p.m. Friday. In addition, most faculty will be available for regular office hours from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday. The architecture office will observe summer hours for the month of May. All Continuing Education hours will be observed as usual during summer hours. However, there will be no two-week vacation coverage after 11:30 a.m. on Friday.

Applications sought

Nominations and applications are invited for the position of assistant dean for student affairs in the College of Arts and Sciences. The position, which reports to the dean, is a fiscal year appointment. The position begins immediately and is available in August.

The ideal candidate will be a student-oriented professional with a background in counseling and student relations such as advising, pre-orientation, pre-registration and other services. The ideal candidate will be encouraged to apply. Knowledge of academic regulations and systems is a plus. The candidate should be a student advocate and remain informed of all changes in student-related matters such as advising, pre-registration, pre-orientation, etc. The candidate should be a student advocate and a communicator.

Send applications or nominations to the following address: Assistant Dean for Student Affairs, 205 Administration Building, Bowling Green State University, Bowling Green, Ohio 43403-0001. The position will be open until filled. Applications or nominations should be received by May 15, 2023.

Lata and Durrani to be honored at commencement

Nearly 2,100 students will march onto St. Pat’s Field (May 5) at 9:30 a.m. to begin commencement exercises.

University hosts summer program to aid minorities

The University is offering 25 black and minority students the opportunity to participate in special courses that will provide academic training to minority students. The Pre-College Program for Black and Hispanic Students will be held at the University of Cincinnati and at Ohio University in Athens. The program will be open to minority students who wish to attend the University and who have been accepted for admission.

Cold spring native Latta has been inducted into the University of the Pacific's College of Business Administration and has been awarded an honorary degree of Doctor of Laws.

O'Sullivan nominated for final Oscar

Edward James O'Sullivan, president of the university, is the only Ohioan to be nominated for an Academy Award this year. O'Sullivan was nominated for Best Actor in a Leading Role for his role in the film "A Man and a Woman." The Academy Awards will be presented on April 16.

Dahm named as President of the National Association of Hispanic Students in Higher Education

The National Association of Hispanic Students in Higher Education (NAHSEE) has named Jennifer Dahm, assistant professor of philosophy in the College of Arts and Sciences, as its new president. Dahm has been an active member of the association since 1992 and has served as vice president and secretary-treasurer.

Dahm named as President of the National Association of Hispanic Students in Higher Education (NAHSEE) has named Jennifer Dahm, assistant professor of philosophy in the College of Arts and Sciences, as its new president. Dahm has been an active member of the association since 1992 and has served as vice president and secretary-treasurer.

O'Sullivan nominated for final Oscar

Edward James O'Sullivan, president of the university, is the only Ohioan to be nominated for an Academy Award this year. O'Sullivan was nominated for Best Actor in a Leading Role for his role in the film "A Man and a Woman." The Academy Awards will be presented on April 16.

Dahm named as President of the National Association of Hispanic Students in Higher Education (NAHSEE) has named Jennifer Dahm, assistant professor of philosophy in the College of Arts and Sciences, as its new president. Dahm has been an active member of the association since 1992 and has served as vice president and secretary-treasurer.

O'Sullivan nominated for final Oscar

Edward James O'Sullivan, president of the university, is the only Ohioan to be nominated for an Academy Award this year. O'Sullivan was nominated for Best Actor in a Leading Role for his role in the film "A Man and a Woman." The Academy Awards will be presented on April 16.

Dahm named as President of the National Association of Hispanic Students in Higher Education (NAHSEE) has named Jennifer Dahm, assistant professor of philosophy in the College of Arts and Sciences, as its new president. Dahm has been an active member of the association since 1992 and has served as vice president and secretary-treasurer.

Dahm named as President of the National Association of Hispanic Students in Higher Education (NAHSEE) has named Jennifer Dahm, assistant professor of philosophy in the College of Arts and Sciences, as its new president. Dahm has been an active member of the association since 1992 and has served as vice president and secretary-treasurer.