Peace Pipe Feature
Of Annual Migration

Deadline for the purchase of seats to the Peace Pipe game, Feb. 22, on a special bus has been advanced until Dec. 15. Students planning to go on the special bus are reminded to see the ticket office, Central Hall, for admission-counter seating arrangements as seats are sold on a first-come-first-served basis.

The Peace Pipe game with Bowling Green is the annual basketball contest between athletic relations in the Southwest Conference. The game will be played in the new fieldhouse at Bowling Green, and only students of the University will be permitted to attend.

Pres. Frank J. Prout announced today that the coal supply at Bowling Green is in near exhaustion. Two carbons of coal have been burned in less than three days and there is a prospect that six carbons are in the way. The supply has been much reduced as a result of the mining strike in the area.

Several recent developments the University has been making are: the construction of the new Fieldhouse, the development of the new library, and the expansion of the athletic facilities.

Student Named
Editor of Magazine

Michael Cheng named as editor of the magazine "The University Times." His appointment is effective immediately.

Mr. Cheng has been a member of the University Times staff for two years. He has been responsible for the layout and design of the magazine, as well as for coordinating the work of the various departments.

In his new position, Mr. Cheng will be responsible for the overall direction and operation of the magazine. He will be assisted by the editorial board, which consists of five other students.

Pres. Frank J. Prout said today that there has been complete progress in securing the necessary legal permits for the site of the new Student Union. Because of the legal procedures, the building will not be completed as early as originally planned. In the meantime, the University has been supplying temporary facilities on the site.

Senate Misses
Monopoly Meeting

Student Senate did not meet Monday evening after only eight of the 18 members made an appearance at the student lounge of the Nook.

Pres. Liddy Engle said that it was not clear why so few members appeared. It was suggested that there was "not enough business" to warrant a meeting Monday evening.

The other six officers were also absent Monday. The members who are required to be present included a foreman, clerk, and librarian.

A special meeting was held Wednesday in the student lounge of the new Student Union building.

Important item on the student issues agenda for the special meeting was a report of the University president on the progress being made on the plans for the new Student Union building.

News Meeting

There will be an important REA meeting and evening tonight at 6:30 in 315A. New students are invited.

Plant Under Construction

Although growing competition for job opportunities, a steady demand for labor has been created by the presence of professional, technical, and skilled workers in many parts of Ohio.

A recent survey by the Bureau of Labor Statistics showed that the demand for specialists is highest in the fields of engineering, exploration, and educational background. The University of Ohio is an important role in determining the labor market in the state.

An industrial engineer was quoted upwards from $5,000 a year to $7,000 a year. A non-technical engineer was quoted upwards from $5,000 a year to $7,000 a year.
Kampus Kopp Created By Eaton
From Spare Time 'Doodling'

By RALPH VILLERS

Beo Gee may have a number of campus zooms but there is only one Kampus Kopp — the Bee Gee News. It has amused NEWS readers and provoked much comment about the fluff and the fun part of the student's existence.

The nameless Kopp came about as the result of spare time 'doodling' last spring on the part of his creator. Having come up with a funny look, Kopp decided to build a strip around him.

Don Taylor, Delta Tau Delta fraternity brother strongly encouraged Kopp to send in his strip to the BEE GEE NEWS, where it was accepted as a regular feature.

Creating the material which takes only a few minutes during his spare time takes hours. The writer has to go back and check his ideas for a part of the next strip. Don must draw roughs and then finish the drawings.

Don Eaton

The strip's take on each week's campus developments, and final product can be submitted for several weeks in advance.

Ideas for future strips are jogged down on note cards. Eaton depends on reference in planning his next themes. He relies on the big hat and ideas to think of dawn ideas. His favorite characters are Frankly Fraternity brothers or friends so the cartoons created on his ideas provide a source of human interest.

The Kopp is not Don's only art interest. He is majoring in art and hopes to enter the commercial art field, or to pursue studies during the past semester, students during the past semester.

The Bee Gee News published material with Don Eaton's strips. The first column was published in the first News of the year. The second part will be a worship service

Letters To The Editor

In accord with the policy of the BEE GEE NEWS, letters should be brief. The Owners of the NACA is primarily in research.

It is not known at this time but it is certain that the Ac Card will be confiscated and the owner of the card will probably be with it for the rest of the year.

Cost Of Living

Recently these students were fined and arrested for being drunk, disorderly, and destroying city property in the form of church directional signs. No votes have been found on these persons or the two others believed by police to have been uprooted by church directional signs (one having been found on their person.

President Dutt also stated that an advisory board, to be composed of seventeen of the college faculty and twenty of its members, is included in the constitution of the club but he did not obtain either of these.

Articles Unclaimed

At Book Store

Two pair of shoes are among the many unclaimed articles which can be redeemed upon identification at the University Book Store. Paul Stephens, book store manager, says that shoes, scarfs, wallets, glasses, and other articles are slowly filling up available storage in the bookstore. Mr. Stephens urges students to claim their lost articles.

Don also said he received a letter from an Akron man who returned a pair of glasses which he thought might be Don's. Mr. Dutt, however, stated that he did not obtain either of these.

Two high spots of the faculty's "Oily Ohio" were Lee Holk's rendition of "Brother, You've Got It" and, of course, Howard Kane's dancing which just about brought down the house. They ought to go on the road and help vaudeville make its comeback. Also putting themselves into their roles and making the audience love them were Mary Lyons and Tom Evans, as reported.

POST-MORTEM

Looking back from a sole distance, last week was surely the most hectic in the history of Bowling Green basketball and one of the most disastrous. Within the space of six days the Falcons came back from their first Pacific Coast invasion, had an opposing team roll up 103 points, had their home win streak broken after nine games, and were dumped conclusively from any post season contention. There was also a Cleveland story to the effect that Harold Anderson was going to enter out of football coaching after another season, although this was later denied.

Most climatic of the developments was the loss to Loyola here Saturday. Actually, it’s no disgrace to lose to Loyola, especially when you have a two point margin, but after six straight successes on the local boards an air of invincibility had grown up and when the armour suddenly cracked it was bound to be at first.

This was the first home loss the Anderson coached Falcons ever suffered at the hands of a collegiate foe, the only others being inflicted by service quintets. Perhaps the BG win out of the Loyola court should have been more prophetic since that was the initial Falcon victory there.

The Wandy City five has a way of even more things up with the locals over the seasons and Saturday was their only chance. They didn’t waste their opportunity.

In some ways the postponement at Cleveland with Western Kentucky and Loyola as the breakers of arena scoring records, BG actually had one set opportunity to clean up the mess they had made of their attack, but it was not to be.

With a 63-22 victory over Michigan State and a 66-20 win over Toledo, the Falcons met Detroit U there last night and the Falcons tasted victory on the Arena floor by a considerable margin. They didn’t happen to be at the Loyola court because that “nothing much worse could happen to them.”

Shearer and hurdled after last week’s loss, Bowling Green could have the necessary motivation to make Ray Bates and his boys wish that they would be a long way from the Cleveland Arena come Friday night.

Still feeling the sting from last year’s bitter 77-68 upset, there wasn’t anything that Chuck Shaw and Company might have that a dollar job and leave the Tide to Tide with a two point margin.

But now there is a new game at the Loyola court should have been more prophetic since that was the initial Falcon victory there. The Wandy City five has a way of even more things up with the locals over the seasons and Saturday was their only chance. They didn’t waste their opportunity.

Sports In Shorts

By JOANNE SCHIRMERT

Bowling Green and University of Kentucky met last night in a contest that was a battle of two of the country’s finest athletic programs. It was a contest of two schools that have been trying to establish themselves as major powers in the world of college sports. The game was played at the University of Kentucky’s Memorial Coliseum, and the attendance was approximately 8,000.

The Falcons, under the leadership of Coach Bob Lavoy, were the home team for the game. They were led by senior forward Bob Lavoy, who scored 21 points and 13 rebounds. The University of Kentucky’s team was led by senior forward George Reck, who scored 18 points and 12 rebounds. The game was a close one, with both teams putting up a strong effort.

In the first half, the Falcons led 31-29, but the University of Kentucky took control in the second half, outscoring the Falcons 32-25. The game was filled with exciting moments, and both teams showed their dedication and determination.

The Falcons were able to keep the game close, but in the end, the University of Kentucky was too much for them. The final score was 59-54, with the University of Kentucky winning.

Chicag0 Loyola Ends Home Streak at 63

By HANK BUSSEY

It was a long time, four years, and a little over a month. And when Loyola of Chicago smashed over Bowling Green Saturday, (2:40), it was the first big loss in the home floor since Jan. 4th, when another contingent from Illi- nois, Great Lakes NTS, stopped the Falcons 44 game run.

That was the year Don Ot- tone captivated the Bee and went in a 2-4 record, the year Bowling Green still played service teams, the tall-talented NIT sec- tion when Rhode Island State made good on a 100 to 1 shot in to down the Falcons.

It was a tired Bowling Green club which had seen its best efforts go unanswered all too often this year that tried vainly to halt the lightning Loyola Ramblers.

Still plagued by his ince/ical and physical fatigue after setbacks on their western trip and to Western Kentucky, the Falcons were un- able to stave off the inevitable while Loyola's Ed Earle and Ben Bluitt demonstrated efforts to rally to keep that magic time the spark appeared.

Center Charlie Shahe turned in his usual All-American per- formance by scoring 21 points on 12 field goals and 7 free throws, but Loyola was ofering a small and versatile bunch of centrers in the northeast corner of the gym and was overlooking the work of the big boy in the paint. The Falcons could not hold that one top.
