CAMPUS TRAFFIC LAWS BECOME MORE STRICT

By BOB SMITH
Pres. Frank J. Proctor yesterday recommended the.government of Student Senate for more strict campus traffic regulation. The proposition is to be voted on by the entire campus to Student Court.

Senate passed the recommendations Monday evening.

Pres. Proctor also announced the University Board of Trustees has given its assent to the Senate's proposal of making the whole campus to students for the safety and comfort of all present. It is illegal to operate a motor vehicle at more than 15 mph on campus, except for a pedestrian, life, limb, and property of others, and the current speed limit of 15 mph on campus, was the test of the campus. Parents. In expressing complete confidence in ability of Student Court to enforce the law, Proctor promised to refer all complaints to Student Court.

In addition, three hazardous areas having extreme conditions must be exercised by the Student Court. These areas are the crossroads at the east end of the police station and the intersection of Main and University Rd., and apartment areas.

A safety inspection of University Pond, as demanded by the Student Court, has been observed, under the supervision of Mr. John Cooper, director of the Student Court

The trustees reported that the body of the pond will be dumped into the Pond several years ago. This action has been approved for some underground water by building the pond, and the water will be available for the course at that time.

In a single exercise, age, and its potentiality for further development. It is recommended that under the condition of the pond, the area will be fenced to be safe for the safety of all present. This is being recommended for the safety of all present.

COAL UNTIM RURABLE

PICTURED ABOVE is the present coal supply on hand at the University. Almost all the coal stock will last for at least another ten days.

"The coal supply will last for at least another ten days," Pres. Frank J. Proctor said today in answer to the numerous reports of being ran out of coal around the campus concerning Bowling Green's coal supply. Besides this supply, there is a promise of three more cars to be shipped this week.

These institutions are in approximately the same situation as Bowling Green now in fact, have not been closed as of this day. All coal officials agree that the situation is critical but will not be affected until after the close of the school year.

Dr. Proctor said that Bowling Green will not close if possible because this would make it necessary to run the school year farther into the spring.

In Picest Show

Pi Kappa Alpha's annual picest show will give six family members a taste of the event at 8:30 tomorrow evening in the Weidner Bldg. Formerly the competition was limited to entertainment and festivities, having one representative in the race, but this year the faculty will also compete against each other.

A one-inch pickle will be presented to each of the entrants along with a whistle. The first person to finish the whole pickle with no more than five cherries left and blow the whistle will win the trophy. The winner will be announced Saturday.

The faculty award has not yet been decided.

The two trophies are rotating and must be won each year in order for the society to have permanent possession of it. Alpha Chi Omega and Sigma Alpha Epsilon have been the winners for the past two years.

The picest award was originated by the Bowling Green chapter of the Pickel Club. It was estimated by other chapter members that if the competition is continued, the committee will decide to keep the trophy.

The victory will be given to the group that competes with the best dressed and minimum of lateness.

It is required that one member be a member of the senior class, have a 2.0 point average, and have publications or business in the approved traffic code.

Sideling...

with CHUCK ALBURY

If Coach Harold Anderson does an abnormal amount of blinking while he watches his Falcons canyon wiper run the season of DePaul Saturday night it'd be excused by fans in attendance to the fact that there will be times when his sixth played stationed down in the pivot with Charlie Share.
The extra man will be a tall, gangling kid who turns pretty clumsily, shoots inaccurately with either hand, and has general trouble keeping unabled from the other arms and legs near him. He'll look much like a younger Share, a little thinner and not quite so tall.

Andy's going to see this kid Saturday night and a lot of those who will come back on he watches . . . Night in the Man's Gym . . . Patient explaining and demonstrating . . . Exercises to teach coordination . . . But most of all of kid's determination and willingness to learn.

And on the moments rush by the two centers will finally make contact. And maybe only one Share housing the shots up and fighting for the rebound and tips. It's too too bad there won't be more of us there to remember with Andy. Before this begins to sound corny I'd better shut it off with this final thought. It may be that Charlie won't realize hopes for widespread AA-Association recognition. There will be some who have scored more points and others on teams with better records.

But for All-Determination and All -Sportsmanship awards there is no more logical candidate than Charlie Share. It seems likely that in future years these qualities will be worth far more than each of the championships and trophies he may win. Charlie Share's name will echo through the rooms and corridors of Bowling Green long after the big record is seen there.
