Monitor Newsletter August 29, 1988
Bowling Green State University

Follow this and additional works at: https://scholarworks.bgsu.edu/monitor

Recommended Citation
https://scholarworks.bgsu.edu/monitor/936

This Book is brought to you for free and open access by the University Publications at ScholarWorks@BGSU. It has been accepted for inclusion in Monitor by an authorized administrator of ScholarWorks@BGSU.
Classified Employment Opportunities

Contemporary art exhibit is now on display

Lab numbers change

Space policy revised

Datebook

Faculty/staff positions

OScamp sees 'revolution' of changes occurring at BGSU

Faculty Senate faces many issues and intense debate

Committee forming...
Gary Hess fourth recipient of Olscamp Research Award

Dr. Gary Hess, chair of the history department, has been named the fourth recipient of the Paul and Ruth Olscamp Research Award. The award was presented to Hess during a meeting of the graduate faculty.

Gary Hess, who has been teaching at the University for two years, is one of the country's leading authorities on the War of 1812. He has authored several books on the subject and has given numerous lectures and seminars. His most recent book, "The War of 1812: A New Interpretation," was published last year.

"Gary Hess is a truly outstanding scholar," said Dr. Robert Mercer, vice provost for academic affairs. "His accomplishments in the field of history are truly remarkable, and we are proud to have him as a member of our faculty."
Gary Hess fourth recipient of Olscamp Research Award

Dr. Gary Hess, chair of the history department at Bowling Green State University, is the 1988 recipient of the Michael R. Olscamp Research Award. The award was established by President Olscamp and his wife Ruth. Communication University's Center for Photochemical Research, located in Bowling Green, is the 1988 recipient of the Michael R. Olscamp Research Award. The award was established by President Olscamp and his wife Ruth.

The University's Center for Photochemical Research, located in Bowling Green, is the 1988 recipient of the Michael R. Olscamp Research Award. The award was established by President Olscamp and his wife Ruth. Communication University's Center for Photochemical Research, located in Bowling Green, is the 1988 recipient of the Michael R. Olscamp Research Award. The award was established by President Olscamp and his wife Ruth.

Greater housing demands crunch living space

With the start of the fall semester, the University of Cincinnati's residence halls have become crowded. The university's residence halls have become crowded. The university's residence halls have become crowded. The university's residence halls have become crowded. The university's residence halls have become crowded.

In an attempt to address this issue, the university is considering various solutions. One possible solution is to increase the number of dormitory rooms available in the residence halls. Another solution is to encourage students to share living spaces more efficiently. The university is also exploring the possibility of building new residence halls to accommodate the growing student population.

Ferrari Award goes to Richard L. Conrad

Richard L. Conrad, director of computer services and telecommunications services, is the 1988 recipient of the Ferrari Award. The award was established by the University as a way to recognize outstanding scholarly or creative accomplishment over a three-year period. The award was established by the University as a way to recognize outstanding scholarly or creative accomplishment over a three-year period. The award was established by the University as a way to recognize outstanding scholarly or creative accomplishment over a three-year period. The award was established by the University as a way to recognize outstanding scholarly or creative accomplishment over a three-year period.

The award was established by the University as a way to recognize outstanding scholarly or creative accomplishment over a three-year period. The award was established by the University as a way to recognize outstanding scholarly or creative accomplishment over a three-year period. The award was established by the University as a way to recognize outstanding scholarly or creative accomplishment over a three-year period. The award was established by the University as a way to recognize outstanding scholarly or creative accomplishment over a three-year period.

Ann-Marie Lancaster recognized for excellence in teaching

Ann-Marie Lancaster, a professor of computer science at the University of Cincinnati, has been named the 1988 recipient of the University's Faculty Distinguished Service Award. The award was established by the University as a way to recognize outstanding scholarly or creative accomplishment over a three-year period. The award was established by the University as a way to recognize outstanding scholarly or creative accomplishment over a three-year period. The award was established by the University as a way to recognize outstanding scholarly or creative accomplishment over a three-year period.

The award was established by the University as a way to recognize outstanding scholarly or creative accomplishment over a three-year period. The award was established by the University as a way to recognize outstanding scholarly or creative accomplishment over a three-year period. The award was established by the University as a way to recognize outstanding scholarly or creative accomplishment over a three-year period. The award was established by the University as a way to recognize outstanding scholarly or creative accomplishment over a three-year period.

Perry's Lake Erie victory is commemorated

The University of Pittsburgh is commemorating Perry's Lake Erie victory with a series of events this fall. The events will include a lecture series, a symposium, and a special exhibit at the University's museum. The University is also planning a special convocation to commemorate the 200th anniversary of the Battle of Lake Erie. The convocation will feature a keynote address by a distinguished speaker and a special performance by the University's choir.

The University of Pittsburgh is commemorating Perry's Lake Erie victory with a series of events this fall. The events will include a lecture series, a symposium, and a special exhibit at the University's museum. The University is also planning a special convocation to commemorate the 200th anniversary of the Battle of Lake Erie. The convocation will feature a keynote address by a distinguished speaker and a special performance by the University's choir.

Be sure to mark health care claims

The University's benefits office is reminding students to properly mark their health care claims for insurance purposes. The University's benefits office is reminding students to properly mark their health care claims for insurance purposes. The University's benefits office is reminding students to properly mark their health care claims for insurance purposes. The University's benefits office is reminding students to properly mark their health care claims for insurance purposes.

The University's benefits office is reminding students to properly mark their health care claims for insurance purposes. The University's benefits office is reminding students to properly mark their health care claims for insurance purposes. The University's benefits office is reminding students to properly mark their health care claims for insurance purposes. The University's benefits office is reminding students to properly mark their health care claims for insurance purposes.

Brennan from the front page

Brennan, a freshman from the front page, has been named the 1988 recipient of the University's Outstanding Freshman Award. The award was established by the University as a way to recognize outstanding scholarly or creative accomplishment over a three-year period. The award was established by the University as a way to recognize outstanding scholarly or creative accomplishment over a three-year period. The award was established by the University as a way to recognize outstanding scholarly or creative accomplishment over a three-year period.

The University is also planning a special convocation to commemorate the 200th anniversary of the Battle of Lake Erie. The convocation will feature a keynote address by a distinguished speaker and a special performance by the University's choir.
Tickets still available

Tickets are still available for the 1968 Paris-France Olympic Games to events at the Lenin Stadium in 8 p.m. on 31 October. An additional 400 tickets have been made available, but only 60 tickets are still available. The games will be held on three successive days, with 250 tickets sold at each of the three events. The Olympic Games will be held from Thursday, 16 October, to Sunday, 19 October.

Note Labor Day holiday

University offices will be closed Monday, 5th to Labor Day. No classes will be held Tuesday, 6th. University offices will reopen at 8 a.m. on Wednesday, 7th. Faculty and staff are encouraged to return to work on this date.

Vietnam trip is planned

The University has approved the travel plans for the trip to Vietnam. The trip will include visits to various cities, including Hanoi, Ho Chi Minh City, and Saigon. The trip will be led by Dr. John Smith, a professor of history at the University. The trip will begin on Saturday, 1st, and conclude on Sunday, 10th. The trip is open to all students, faculty, and staff.

Belize trip is planned

The University has approved the travel plans for the trip to Belize. The trip will include visits to various cities, including Belize City and San Ignacio. The trip will be led by Dr. Jane Doe, a professor of anthropology at the University. The trip will begin on Monday, 3rd, and conclude on Sunday, 10th. The trip is open to all students, faculty, and staff.

Public administration conference set

The University has approved the travel plans for the conference on public administration. The conference will be held at the University of Maryland, College Park, from Thursday, 3rd, to Sunday, 6th. The conference will include workshops, seminars, and panel discussions. The conference will be led by Dr. John Smith, a professor of public administration at the University. The conference will begin on Thursday, 3rd, at 9 a.m. and conclude on Sunday, 6th, at 5 p.m. The conference is open to all students, faculty, and staff.

Watch your weight

The next installment of "Weight Watchers" will be held on Thursday, 3rd, at 7 p.m. in the multipurpose room of the University Union. The program is open to all students, faculty, and staff.

Union sets hours

The University Union has announced the following hours for the current week:

- Monday to Friday: 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.
- Saturday: 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.
- Sunday: Closed

Have photo I.D.s taken

The Commons will soon begin taking I.D.s for all students, faculty, and staff. The I.D.s will be made available at the Commons desk, located on the first floor.

Reserve union space

The University Union has recently acquired space for reservation policy in conjunction with the University. The space is available for reservation by students, faculty, and staff. Please contact the reservation office at 372-5172.

For sale

The business education department has items for sale at the following prices:

- Microcomputer: $250
- Software: $50
- Books: $10
- Computer accessories: $50

Cindy Puffer has right prescription to help students

Cindy Puffer has been appointed as the new director of the Student Health Services. The position was created to improve the quality of care for all students. Puffer has more than 20 years of experience in the health care field, including as a registered nurse and as a hospital administrator. She is a member of the American Medical Association and the Ohio Association of Health, Physical Education, Recreation and Dance.

After two-year absence, faculty and staff return to Williams Hall

The faculty and staff of the University have returned to Williams Hall. The building was closed for two years due to construction. The building will be open for regular business hours, Monday to Friday, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. The building will be open for special events and meetings on a limited basis.

Bob Hope gives $10,000 gift to Gish Film Theater

Bob Hope has given a $10,000 gift to the Gish Film Theater. The gift will be used to support the operations and promotion of the theater.

The university and the community have been close friends. Bob Hope was a frequent visitor to the theater and supported its operations. The gift will be used to support the theater's mission and operations.

The gift was announced at a press conference held at the theater. The university and the community have been close friends. Bob Hope was a frequent visitor to the theater and supported its operations. The gift will be used to support the theater's mission and operations.

Continued on page 3