Wide-Eyed Look Fad In '50

Remember the days when girls were looked at with the "boy-what's-thaf-stat-on-your-eye" expression? That was last year and this year has seen the wide-eyed look (as the fad was called). To be sure, the doe-eyed look is as dead as a dodo. But even though it was too sultry, too languid, and too exaggerated, except for fashion models and non-professionals, it was the wide-eyed look which made possible daytime wearing of eye makeup proper anywhere—whether at store or office.

Last year the college papers printed an article on the doe-eyed look, so this year, to take its place, is the wide-eyed look which emulates the same makeup preparations as the fadged look but under less degrees.

To acquire the wide-eyed look smooth, make a long foundation all over the face, but do not line eyes or lips, and be sure to get enough on the lashes so they will be completely colored. Apply eye shadow on lower half of the upper lid letting it go slightly higher in the center and tapering off at the ends, ending smoothly at the end of the eye socket.

Now, with a colored pencil, draw a line along the edge of the shadow as close to the bone of the lashes as possible—shaping where the lashes end. Dust more powder onto the lashes with a slightly moistened brush applied firmly, not only by tapping upwards so the lashes look as if the ends. If you want to fade this, use the wide-eyed look effect.

When the wide-eyed look is put on, the brows are generally curved above the bridge of the nose, a slightly arched brow brushed and extended upwards to give the look of fullness. Don't draw the line of the brow too far down on the sides, for it gives you a smug effect and makes you look of a lower class. Finally, smooth the brows with a clean brush.

Falcon Follies

What happened to the effect of the Bowling Green moon on Bess Gee eyes? Is it this week? There are only three proms and two engagements. Did you ever see anything from the three proms? Ch. a-l o-a-l ... We are contemplating putting in a 7-year wedding anniversary to fill out space if this keeps up. These lucky eschews are Bob LaPlante, Sigma Nu, proposed to Joyce Tockey of Getzou; Larry Thompson, Sigma Chi, to Jane King and James Webster, Sigma Nu, to Sue Ann Tate. Nan Torr, former Bee Gee-ite, received a surprise wedding from her third house friend from Bob Mason, a '50 grad. Merle Moore, sophomore is engaged to Larry Mory, a student at Fenn College in Cleveland.

Promenades like very much to have perpetual pledges classes. They must also enjoy all the little inconveniences that go with that luxury. Here is the feature of an active on his way to the movies with his girl friend when along comes a group of pledges. While the rest of the pledges took off with the nicest active, one lucky pledge took the girl to the movies, and succeeded in getting a date with her for the week end.

The following gem was used as an introduction letter to the Football Writers of America: "Entitled "Ballad of the T Formation," it is sung to the tune of "MacNamara's Band.""

"Sailors to the ocean, corners to the shore, all serene, the center stoops between,
the front line passes on.
"The halfbacks lunge, the fullbacks plunge,
the center stands between.

Battered BG Faces Youngstown In Last Home Tilt

Harriers After 7th Victory Today At Ohio Wesleyan

With a week's rest behind them, the Bowling Green Green cross-country team will travel to Ohio Wesleyan today for a dual meet with the Hamline Harriers. A victory today could end the season with an identical win and loss total as last year, seven victories and two defeats.

Last year's meet between the Falcons and Harriers was won by Bowling Green, 18-40 as Leo Fate, Bob Weaver, and Bob Maize finished in that order. Wesleyan shouldn't prove too difficult for the Falcons after having lost 28-30 to Oberlin, the defending Ohio champs two weeks ago. Bowling Green defeated Oberlin at a triangular meet at Oberlin last week.

The team has been working out consistently in preparation for their closing dual meet of the season, however, several of them will participate in the annual NCAA cross-country meet at Michigan State on Nov. 18.

The undefeated Dixiecrats will be out after winning two meets in a row over the Owls, who shut out the Big Spikes, 12-6, and the Ohio State Buckeyes, 22-7.

The Rocket-Big Wheels contest will be played last night, with the winner advancing to the finals to meet the Wildcats sometime early next week.

Tomorrow will be an eventful day, the worst season since he arrived at Bowling Green in 1941. The amiable coach never had tasted a losing season. In 1941, the Falcons lost three straight games.

A victory today could end the current season with an identical win and loss total as last year, seven victories and two defeats.

Injury-Riddled Falcon Eleven

Hoping For Upset Over Penguins

By DAVE REICHERT

Coach Bob Whittaker takes his charges against Youngstown College here Saturday knowing that a loss will assure him the worst season since he arrived at Bowling Green in 1941. The amiable coach never had tasted a losing season. In 1950, the Falcons won 7-4-0.

A loss or tie Saturday would mean the Falcons would face their Eastern Kentuckiana finals with only two victories.

It will be "High School" Day Saturday, and the 2 p.m. games will be preceded by an Archie Vicar Day dance at the Marching Band and KOTC.

The Penguins have beaten only Niagara and Marshall College this year, after falling in two last two games against such powers as John Carroll, Niagara, and Baldwin Wallace.

Beta Bush is Ace

But with only seven starters returning to the starting lineup, and with the Penguins counting on weighting 215 pounds, the Falcons may turn around.

Al Wehler quarterbacking the team from the short punt formation. Haunted as a great passer, Wehler is the high-notch ace. Dick Pont, who is among the Penguins' powerful ground attack, leads a balanced backfield.

Greeen Recovered

Dick Pinski, who is among the leading backs in small colleges, returns to the lineup after recovering from a knee injury. The Falcons' powerful ground attack, led by Wehler and Pont, should be strong enough to turn today's game around.

Signs: Sigma Psi Omega in Bowling Lead

Signs Sigma Psi Omega, present leader of the Fraternity Bowling League, has been splitting the aces wide open.

Last Friday, they beat Sigma Chi 3-2. This week, they beat Phi Kappa Psi, 2-1. In Sigma Chi's place, Sigma Phi Epsilon took high three game total, and high single game, respectively. Sigma Phi Epsilon rolled a high three-game total, and high single game. Phi Delta Theta rolled a 300 game total, and high single game. The team has been splitting the aces.

The Falcons, who are in second place in the standings, have already had the honor of being the first team to beat Sigma Psi Omega, 1-0.

The Falcons' estimator doubles as extra point specialist, having kicked eight straight on Monday and Wednesday nights, the Falcons' schedule. A victory today will assure the Falcons of a good year.

John Antonelli here

Tomorrow will be an eventful day, the week's most important game for the Falcons. They face the second team in the league, the young baseball pitcher with the big Terriers. He and his brother, John, one of the Falcons' most valuable men, will be the keys in the dual meet.

Al Wehler is slated to play his first time in his collegiate ca conversions thus far this year. Coach Whittaker has only two holders in the backfield, but with the probable absence of the fullback, Ralph Golden, the Falcons' backfield lacks punch.

Ralph Tabakinas has been a key player for the Falcons, starting in both games to date. Holding the ball, he will be one of the Falcons' keys to the game.

John Antonelli is a player with the Terriers, but in the Falcons' order.

Referees Wanted

Men interested in officiating in football games are asked to meet in 1950. Meetings are Wednesday nights at 7 p.m.
