For Decorations Rules Announced

Rules for the annual Christmas student campaign were announced Monday afternoon.

The Student Government announced that one-third of the points will be awarded on the Christmas theme, one-third on the originality of the work, and one-third on the neatness.

OCS applicants are needed. Also, displays must be suitable for any such problems. An organization, has a solution.

Seniors To Order Gowns Next Week

Gowns next week will be ordered as the law postponement until June as the law in explaining what is Open now.

In explaining what is open now to college students, Major Steele said that both Aviation Cadets and OCS applicants are needed. Some direct commissions are being given to qualified students in the aviation arts, electronics, and chemistry.

However, the majority of our candidates for OCS have been men with at least bachelor's degrees, usually masters.

A few of these men have made an impression of 250 points on the 578 offered in the nation, the latest highest being asked for the class of 1953.

He added that the majority of these men have made an impression of 250 points on the 578 offered in the nation, the latest highest being asked for the class of 1953.

Another suggestion was that he be permitted to remain in college until June 1953, only three or four men who hold the status as a result of the critical situation in Korea, Mr. Bunn said, however, to defray the normal expenditures of the music groups.

And so uttered Robert St., the Lady's College debate team to the security and in the guest at the debate. Speaker in Chicago to debate with the Chicago Tournament, the debate team is comprised of Pat Tait, Delta Sigma, men's Women's, journalism honorary and Sigma Phi Epsilon respectively.

Debating Excellence...

Batting for their second straight bid to the National Invitational Debate Tournament, the varsity debate team enters what has all indications of becoming a highly successful season.

Having won all but one of their debates thus far, the team is in a very favorable position in regards to the bid. Last year the tournament would hold at West Point, New York, and the team faced a strong showing, going to the quarter-finals before being defeated, and finishing sixth in the nation.

Rivalled first in the state last year, the team has done much to further the reputation of Bowling Green. Matching pace and com with such schools as Ohio State and DePaul, and many others with a much longer enrollment and previously held in higher esteem, the team has gained the respect and admiration of debaters throughout the country.

As a result of this promising record, Bowling Green has attracted two high school state champions to enroll here. Competing in their first year of college debate, they have thus far done very well and promise to take up the step which will be left after the graduation of Lou Fernandez and Bill Pump this year.

Both were varsity state champions last year.

All things considered, it appears that Bowling Green can look forward to continued success in the field of debate.

Maybe our little over-water friend is just fishing for a compliment. On the other hand, he may have reference to all these quick-trick cigarette tests you hear about nowadays.

Joyce In Third Year

Joyce, one of the Falcons’ two senior guards, has moved up the ladder to a starting role this season. Joyce, a 5-foot 7-inch senior guard at Akron where he played at Akron College of Business Administration, was a teammate of Jim Gerber, who was previously signed to play in the NBL.

Joyce is a de-facto shooting guard and has earned a reputation for his accuracy from the outside, often cutting into the defense with his quickness and ability to get to the basket.

Falcon Home Games Roll

Falcon home games have brought in large crowds this season, with fans packed into the Sports Arena to support their team. The Falcons have maintained a strong home court advantage, earning several important victories.

Ohio University Bobcats

The Bobcats are a tough opponent, and the Falcons will need to be at their best to come out on top. With a strong defense and a balanced offense, the Falcons are confident they can secure a victory.

The 1957-1958 Edition of Men's Basketball was filled with exciting games and memorable moments, and the Falcons are looking forward to continuing that tradition this season.
