Senate Votes For Increase In Fee

By Dave Reichert

Since its opening on Broadway, "The Little Foxes" has had its fair share of success; however, Alexandra will leave her mother, Regina. That same problem faces those who have to cement the deal. The main reason: it centers about the trio's attempt to get his money legally or illegally.

Above is an artist's conception of one of tho Student Union Bldgs. It is now estimated that construction on the structure can begin at least four years prior to the present plan in view of Student Senate approval of the Union fee increase.
Last year students were given the chance to institute Sunday afternoon dancing and other recreational facilities because of the presence of the student body. It failed because of the lack of student interest.

This year students are being given the same chance to take advantage of similar facilities by the Sub-Social Committee. Afternoon dancing was started last Sunday by the group, and pong-pong and card playing were also offered. They will continue to be at the disposal of the students on Sunday afternoon.

It may be true that at present only those necessaries are needed here; however, the participating members of 7836 are sure that more facilities will be more added. The committee no longer relies on the chance of putting a lot of time and effort into this project; for they have lost their confidence unless they have some assurance that their efforts will not be in vain.

As long as one group is willing to spend some of its time to make such a plan into effect, it will not be a failure. Such a program merits the continuing of such a program.

“The Little Foxes”

At the performance of the mature professional actress, she received her natural limitations with good grace.

She does create a mild anarchy, which is sometimes too mild. The play requires her to bring Mr. Jones to the house of the house they own, and entreat for his wife and it is done. Miss Goodwin finds her sympathy at Birds, and the audience can tell how quiet she is to do her job. She is like a lady fittingly classed for the position.

As the case of Regina, age and experience make her a less interesting character. Her beauty and her grace are questions to be discussed with the audience, but the audience is always there as a spectator. Miss Goodwin is far from being an anemic, but her beauty and grace are not obvious.

The scene is one of the most powerful ever presented on the stage. It is a scene of genuine force and imposing, becoming tiring.

Zuelzke Conducts" University Choir

The director of Bowling Green’s University Choir has given the choir a distinctive style and personality that has already been noticed by many people. The choir is composed of about 70 students and is divided into two sections. The first section consists of students who have had previous experience in musical activities, and the second section includes those who are new to the choir.

The choir has been performing for several years, and has developed a reputation for excellence and precision in its performances. The group is known for its ability to perform a wide range of musical styles, from classical to contemporary, and has received critical acclaim for its interpretation of different genres.

The choir has performed in various venues, including local churches, schools, and community centers, as well as on several occasions abroad. They have also won numerous awards and recognitions for their performances, cementing their status as one of the premier university choirs in the region.

The director, John Piper, is an experienced conductor and teacher who has trained many students who have gone on to successful careers in music. He is highly regarded for his ability to inspire and motivate his students, and for his commitment to excellence in all areas of musical performance.

"The Little Foxes" is a play by playwrights, and it was first produced in 1951. The play tells the story of a family and their dealings with their business, with particular emphasis on the relationships between the various family members. The play received critical acclaim and was a commercial success, running for over 200 performances on Broadway and winning several awards.

In summary, the University Choir under the direction of John Piper continues to impress with its talent and dedication to excellence. The group is a testament to the power of music to bring people together and to inspire a love for the arts.

KORNN LIKKER ON KAMPUS?

Into the limelight for this week end's activities comes Chi Omega sorority with its "Rodeo Roundup Dance" in the Women's Gym, Saturday, from 9 to 12 p.m.

Under a huge horseshoe encircling the main door, Couples will "corral" together to dance amid rattle fences, lanterns, straw, and wagon wheels to the music of Hal Caufield and his foresters.

Entrance to the lucky "X" Ranch will be through the doorway to the North Gym and it will be complete with a gateway and moonshade over the door.

Of course every ranch needs a wishing well and that will be found in the lobby. To fit the occasion and atmosphere, garb for this dance is strictly western style and "janes" are a must for all.

During intermission there will be entertainment, but so far it has all remained a secret, however participating are: Mary Lynn, Barbara Knox, Nancy Clayton, Joyce Atkinson, Patty Wallace, and Bob Rostedt.

Lillian Hallman's "Little Foxes" will be presented during this week and end with its final run. Last two performances are tonight in Gore Theater at 8:15 p.m.

Included in the cast for this 3-act drama are Pat Elso, Ada Coggs, Louis Bower, Ben White, John Gerold, Kappa Sig, to Beverly Hocking.

Job Offers Decide Coach Columbus March 16—(INS)—Football coaches daring enough to take the "hot seat" at Bowling Green will have to be on the alert at Ohio State will start a series of personal interviews with the university athletic board tomorrow or Saturday. The men selected to accept a position at West Virginia will be to be announced today.

Athletic Director Richard C. Allen (right) tabled a meeting of the 16-member board this morning, and it is expected that the screening committee's report will be made tomorrow. Asked if he was interested in the vacant position, he said, "No; I'm very happy at Ohio State, but I've got some friends who I think would be interested." Allen said the school with which he was talking was Morehead State.
