As Conventions Take Over
If variety is the deciding factor, Bowling Green State University is undoubtedly the convention center of the country. Groups ranging from accordian players to Federal and State Fruit and Vegetable Inspectors will arrive in our city this week.

At present, the Youth Workers Conference is on campus. Forty nine strong, from ten different states, the contingent is receiving two weeks of experience in leadership activities of the youth program of the Lutheran church.

On July 30, the Lutheran Service Volunteers, over 50 young people from local congregations, will arrive not only to have some fun, but also to consider problems of local organizations and also to try to solve them.

The Farm Bureau youth group will arrive Aug. 4. While the Federal and State Fruit and Vegetable Inspectors will make their headquarters here throughout the summer. SUMMElR CHOIRUS, PIANIST PRESENT CONCERT FRIDAY
The Summer Chorus, under the direction of Dr. James Paul Kennedy, will give its last concert this Friday, Aug. 3, at 8 p.m. To add a touch of informality, the group, which consists of nearly 100 students, faculty, air force personnel, and townpeople, will sing in the PA Auditorium.

Nancy Gross, a sophomore in high school in Toledo, will be guest soloist. She studied piano under Dr. Kennedy for three years and chose the opera, "The Desert Song," in state-wide competition a music contest in Columbus. Miss Gross will play Grieg's Concerto in A minor for piano and orchestra.

Arne Beards, Marilyn Merker, and Donna Gillette will sing solos. Zo Ann Duke and Margaret Wapler will provide piano accompaniment for the soloists.

The choir has been practicing Monday and Thursday evenings since summer session began, and under the direction of Dr. Kennedy a well rounded and varied program has been prepared.

The program includes religious numbers, folk songs, and a program of popular music by British composers. America's favorite folk songs will be presented, as well as material from the great orchestras of the world.

The folk song selections are: "Song of the Volga Boatmen" arranged by Gustav Holst, "O, Holy Night," by Charles H. Gabriel, and "Auld Lang Syne" by Robert Burn.

New Poems Reveal Cummings Status As Major American Poet

By LOUIS E. BERTONI

Dylan Thomas, the Welsh poet, remarked in a recent article in the "Atlantic" that the best advice he could give reviewers was always to keep on whom the reviewer could base the type of literary criticism which the serious critic will avoid as the most dangerous. Thomas seems to have been guaranteed to make the reviewer immensely popular with the pseudo-intellectuals.

Fortunately, the book of poems being considered ("Vaio") by E. Cummings is so unlike other poetry that it must be taken by itself or, only incidently, with the author's previous work. Cummings is so unique that literally no one with whom he can be compared. He stands quite alone in the roster of contemporary poets and his position is so impenetrable that he has never been plagued with a host of imitators. One look at Cummings' poems is sufficient to make over the subject poet look adequate.

The uniqueness in Cummings is twofold: technical skill and insight and a happy alliance of these two elements into a harmonious whole. The greatness of Cummings is his ability to knit these two opposites without sacrificing either.

Skilled Technician

His experiments with technique, the use of language as language, are not mere academic exercises as grammar, the consistent employing of the vowel sounds, the endless divisive work with words, the searching out of the hidden in the integral component parts of word, and the realization of words into sounds all testify to his skill as a technician.

Is the sum of these technical abilities evident in Cummings' poems? No, the real picture is that, with the poem will look on the page, with the relationship between the poet, the written page, the reader and the poem. This is as vital a part of poetry as the material of the poem itself. Keen insight.

No other living American poet has Cummings' insight, an insight into the whole. The greatness of Cummings is his ability to unite these two opposites without sacrificing either.

ROTC Cadets Hit Training Mid-Point At Summer Camp

Today marked the half-way point of the summer six-weeks' training program for the 42 Bowling Green students at the Field Artillery ROTC Camp at Fort Bragg.

For many of the cadets, it was their first taste of Army life. Evidence of the tough training could be seen on their sun-bronzed faces, bared by their remarks during off-duty hours, and felt by the men themselves as their informal muscles were put to work.

The training that the cadets are receiving is designed to give them the practical and tactical application of the life of an artillery officer.

During the training period, the cadets receive actual experience in order to enter the service with the background of both classroom and practical experience to enable them to have general working knowledge of the Field Artillery.

Three Army Areas, the First, Second and Third, are represented in the 1951 camp. Following completion of the cadets' training, the cadets will return to their homes and prepare to enter their senior year of college. After graduation, they will be commissioned Second Lieutenants in the Reserve Corps.

Parents Attend Clinic; Watch Speech Therapy

Twelve children and three adults, who have some hearing defects, are enrolled in the University's summer speech and hearing clinic.

The clinic, under speech faculty supervision, has cases which include articulation and stuttering problems and repaired cleft palates.

The clinic children attend a parent education program once a week to observe their children and hear presentations on the clinic.

University Develops Rapidly In 27 Years

Starting on a $10 plot of ground in 1914, the University has grown so that now the buildings alone are estimated at between 10 and 11 million dollars. At the time of its inception Bowling Green's faculty numbered 14 persons including Dr. Rea McCain, present chairman of the English dept., and Dr. Robert Overman, dean Emeritus. Last semester the faculty numbered 103.

The student body has grown from a mere 304 persons to 3700 students enrolled for academic work last semester. This figure represents a four year loss for enrollment.

First president was Dr. H. B. Williams, who administered the University from 1914 to 1927. President Roy G. Offenhauer became president in 1937 and served until 1949. After his death Offenhauer was followed by Dr. Frank W. Froehlich, the first president to have been graduated from Bowling Green. WILLIAM WILLIAMS will assume the duties of president on Sept. 1.

A building program was launched in 1914 with the construction of the Administration bldg., William Hall, and the Gymnasium. In 1916, the old Science and Agriculture bldg. were built. The new Library addition was completed by the first of the year. In 1927, the Library and Men's Gym were built. The new Library addition is scheduled to be completed by the first of the year. In 1931, the Practical Arts bldg. was erected. Last Spring the new Chase and the Chemistry bldg. were dedicated.

The auditorium was enlarged in 1937, and the Stadium was also built that year. In recent years the men's and women's dormitories were built along with the Administration bldg., Gate Theater, Fine Arts bldg., and the Heating Plant. Merrill Hall is being repaired at the present time and should be finished by Sept. 1. The Delta Zeta Sorority house should also be finished by that time. The men's dormitories southeast of campus have been completed and plans are being drawn for the new women's dormitory, which will be located in the old Heating Plant.

Official Announcement

Any person who has not now a member of the Hospital Service Force of Toledo and who may be interested in joining should call on Dr. Mays, local secretary, at 123 E. Zears Ave, on Thursday, Aug 2, from 8 to 10 p.m. His phone number is 24641.

Kraft Beats Bates in Golf Tourney

The campus golf tournament ended this week with Frank Kraft defeating Art Bates 2 and 1. The match was close all the way with both boys finding the range on the short approach shots. Kraft was helped by virtue of a lost ball on the ninth hole. His drive was to the left of the green and when the men approached the spot for the second shot they were unable to locate the ball. The scores indicate the close of the match:

Par: 4 3 3 3 3 3 3 3 29
Bates: 4 4 4 4 3 3 3 3 33

Fare-well Formal Will be Friday

"Bon Voyage" will highlight this week-end and bring to a close the summer season's social activities. Under the sponsorship of Alpha Delta Pi and Theta Chi the formal dance will be Saturday in the Rec Hall from 9 to 12 p.m. Centering around a nautical theme, the Rec Hall will be decorated as a ship and decorations will include life preservers, port holes and palms. For this farewell to the graduating seniors John Christian and his orchestra will furnish the entertainment.

One of the dance's special features is the 2 a.m. permits given to all the girls attending. All students, graduates, Cleveland Browns and members of the Air Force are invited. Tuxes will be optional. Headlining the dance are: Carol Kraynak, Jerry Jones and Joanne McCue, Dave Bingle, Ed Newby and Nick Millet.

"Bohemian Girl" starring Stan Laurel and Oliver Hardy will be featured at the campus theater on the Friday night in the Main Aud. at 8 p.m. There will be an evening comedy hour with three comedy short subjects shown.

Young Organist Has Successful Concert

The Sunday evening organ recital of Bowling Green State University sophomore Arthur Kurtz, Jr., lifted the sagging summer spirits of Bowling Green music lovers. The youthful organist from West Haven, Conn., presented a program of almost all religious numbers and the entire program showed the many hours of intensive practice which went into it.

Best presentation of the evening was Couperin's "Suite for Organ" in which his deliberate style of playing seemed very much at home. The piece was a number of Pièces en un Style Bourgeois arranged and had an easy touch.

His presentation of Bach's "Prelude and Fugue in G" seemed a trifle too much for him to handle. It appeared to much better advantage on two other Bach chorals which included "O Mensch, Dewein" and the familiar "Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring!"

The recital closed with an organ prelude, "O Mensch, Dewein" and "Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring!"

Air ROTC Outlines Study Curriculum

World Political Geography and Air Power Concept will be two of the courses included in the Air Force ROTC study curriculum which will be offered on this campus next September.

The World Political Geography course is designed to show the relation of Air Power to the earth's material resources, facts of space, history, economics, and government. Air Power Concept, which will be offered in the sophomore year, deals with the strategical and tactical appliance of air power in various geographical areas.

The Air Force ROTC program, which is supervised by the Continental Air Command at Mitchell Air Force Base, N. Y., is a principal source of officer procurement for the Air Force.

This fall, Bowling Green will be one of 187 colleges and universities in the United States offering such a program.

Official Announcement

A lookbook from the Gal- ley Hacker store of New York City, will visit the campus on Wednesday, Aug. 8. The cargo will be solely books on the military and war stories which rate in price from $51 to $2000.

Graduating seniors who ordered announcements may pick up their orders in the office from 10 a.m. to 12 a.m. and from 4:30 Monday through Friday. Bachelor extras announcements should contact C. J. Westhaven, 156 Maitland Ave., or call 7542.
