Outstanding juniors, Master Teacher to be named at April 23 banquet

The tenth annual Outstanding High School Junior Awards program, which will bring 111 juniors, each representing a different high school, will be held at an evening banquet in the Kent Student Union on Monday, April 23. At the 1983 banquet, 109 juniors were honored.

The students, from 16 area high schools, will be guests of the Undergraduate Alumni Association. Banquet tickets will be sold by their high schools in the form of junior awards.

In addition to the scholastic awards, the Alumni Association's annual Master Teacher Award will be presented at the banquet.

Two to receive 30-year awards

Banquet to recognize long-term service

Two employees who each have more than 20 years of service at the University will be honored at this year's Outstanding High School Junior Awards program.

Phyllis A. Johnson, postal service, laundry, temporary, and clerical service, will be honored with the 20-year award.

The other employee, who has served 30 years or more, will receive the 30-year award.

Johnson began her employment service to the University rather than temporary service. All employee records have been reviewed and all full-time employees have been given credit for prior full-time service.

The 30-year award is based on the basis that a year's work is equivalent to 1,200 hours.

The service of permanent part-time employees also has been provided on that same basis.

If you have questions about the Outstanding High School Awards program or the Master Teacher Award, you should call the Office of Personnel Development at 330-1072.

Education programs cited for national reaccreditation

An evaluation committee representing the National Council of Accreditation in Teacher Education was on the Bowling Green campus May 7-9 in a final review of Bowling Green State University. NCATE is the only nationally recognized accrediting agency in the field of education and has been reviewing the programs of institutions of higher education every 10 years. NCATE is now revising its reviewing procedure every 10 years. NCATE is now revising its reviewing procedure every 10 years.

Bowling Green’s education-teaching programs are subject to extensive scrutiny by NCATE for reaccreditation. "It assures the public that Bowling Green is producing quality teachers," said Sandra Packard, dean of the College of Education.

"National accreditation requires a great deal of time and effort by an institution in preparation for the review," said Packard. "But for us, it is well worth it. It provides a level of confidence for students, students’ parents, and the community." Packard noted that NCATE standards have been revised and" revised every five years. NCATE has integrated the Standards of Quality Teacher Education into its review process, and Packard noted that the College of Education has had to extensively revise its education programs in order to meet these standards.
