Harshman Disapproves Council's Amendment

President Ralph G. Harshman has disapproved the Student Council recommendation to make the editor of the paper a member of the News. Council was informed of this action at Thursday's meeting. The recommendation was in the form of a constitutional amendment. The amendment would require an affirmative vote of Council at three consecutive meetings and the approval of the president to become a part of the constitution.

President Harshman, in disapproving the recommendation, gave the following reasons for his decision:

"As I read the Constitution I find that all of the personnel are currently representing specific groups. The editor of the BG News does not represent a group, rather he or she is associated with a group or a popular election."

"I see from President Harshman's recommendation, aware of the situation around the idea that the News would become too closely allied with Student Council and would not function as an independent paper. A popular comment was that as an observer rather than a member of Student Council, the News editor would have a better understanding of issues that would result in an even-handed attitude in writing editorial columns."

"Also a letter of views of Council members is sent to Prof. Forsythe."

"The amendment could be reworded, so that the News editor is part of the student body and would not be selected from elimination competitions brought to the Student Council."

"The amendment would also be in the hands of the faculty to develop some degree of concern in writing. "Get uniform remarks," the suggestion would be."

The students also expect the faculty in the public. "They (the students)" are ready with their arguments. This is the reason the faculty has the obligation to show values and even beyond the teaching of the class."

To Exhibit Gymnastics

The world-touring Danish Gym Team will give a performance at 7:30 p.m., Thursday, in Memorial Hall. The team, made up of veterans in age from 17 to 25, will present demonstrations of advanced and rhythmical gymnastics, tumbling, body-building exercises, and a variety of Danish folk dancing. It will also exhibit the modern form of Danish gymnastics performed by national Olympic gold medalists in athletics.

The current tour of the gymnasts started in September with a stop at the University of California. The team will perform at the Olympic Stadium in London for the 1963 Summer Olympics and the athletic center of old Hellas where physical education had its beginning. The tour is supported by the Danish Union, directed by Erik Paar-Jakobsen, who was a Danish national athlete and represented the United States in the first appearance of gymnastics at the modern Olympic Games. It was not received again in Olympic competition.

The members of the team were selected from elimination competitions. Each of the six members will exhibit a wide variety of skills, including tumbling, weaving, the balance beam, and acrobatics.

The team's tour has gone beyond a general Danish tradition with an interest in foreign sports and a common interest in them that they are dedicated to the development of the skills as a means to the health, and social integration of boys.

The type of gymnastics which is the center of their tour party is another form of gymnastics. The modern Danish form of gymnastics dedicated to the social integration of boys.

The team's appearance at the University is sponsored by Phi Epsilon, Phi Chapter, Bowling Green, Ohio, the national honor organization; Phi Delta, Iota, Bowling Green, Ohio, the national major associations; and the department of physical education.

Ticket performance will be purchased in the lobby of Welch Auditorium. The price of tickets is $3.00 per person. Students are required to present their BGSU identification cards in order to purchase tickets.

Student Board Eases Problems Of Communication On Campus

Sponsoring the campus bulletin boards and the "Viewpoint" series, and acting as a means of contact between the administration, the faculty, and the students, are some of the responsibilities of the Student Communications Board.

The Communications Board is elected by the student body and includes the Student Handbook describes the objectives of the Board: "... to promote friendly relations and understanding throughout the University community..."

The principle behind this organization is to facilitate the exchange of information among students, staff, and faculty. A qualified administrative officer of the University operates the Board.

The main project of the Board is the campus bulletin boards. There are three: the main bulletin board, the Quondomark and the Nano-Board in West Hall and the Union, and one by Communications in the Administrative Center, academic departments, and in the residence halls.

The Board also sponsors the "Viewpoint" series. The first meeting in this series was held recently, 8th Major Brooks D. Anderson, Director of the University Police Force.

Another planned project of the Communications Board is Project "Special Olympics" with WGBI. This will involve broadcasting on an experimental radio, radio activities such as Student Council meetings, and interviews with groups that have considerable interest in the Washington of the respective Board.

Outlining demand areas was a central part of this program. A question that must be answered is: What tasks were coordinated by the Bureau?

In 1964, this older information system was replaced by the Organization of American States (OAS), which set up permanent offices in eleven of the Americas. The Inter-American system, which has the objective of maintaining the economic system, is a system of mutual aid in time of need. However, the OAS has an economic system of periodic meetings involving banking and trade, which is known as the Economic Commission for Latin America.

The Leadership and Services Board of the Communications Board is planning to select five for the Communications Board. The Student Board, which is an efficiency of the Board, as well as a source of funds, is involved in selecting Board members.

It is difficult to say whether the OAS has made a significant contribution to the effectiveness of Latin America. The Inter-American system is an organization of the Hemisphere, which is the basis of Latin American cooperation.

In the final analysis, the OAS is an organization of the Hemisphere, which is the basis of Latin American cooperation.

In the final analysis, the OAS is an organization of the Hemisphere, which is the basis of Latin American cooperation.

When the United States entered the OAS, it was a part of the last minute American-led coalition, and hence could not go through alone.

It may be argued that the OAS cannot serve as a substitute for the Federal Reserve or central bank. It cannot prevent the United States from taking the necessary steps to ensure that the OAS has the right to do so. It is not clear if the OAS is the tool of the United States, or whether it is the tool of the United States.

By working within the structure of the OAS, the United States can work toward the establishment of a stronger international financial system and the rule of law. It is clear that the United States cannot function in isolation. It is clear that the OAS cannot function in isolation. It is clear that the United States cannot function in isolation.

The OAS may not act as vigorously as Americans may wish, but it is clear that the United States can and should act in concert with other countries.
