Miss Bland In Beauty Contest

Melissa M. Bland was chosen as second runner-up of 10 finalists in competition for the 1964 Carnation Queen title at the Phi Mu sorority's national biennial convention at Mackinac Island, Mich.

Each of the 10 candidates was chosen from among 88 other women on the basis of personality, scholarship achievement, and outstanding contributions to college and the sorority.

Miss Bland is a junior at the University and an honor student. She has a 3.89 accumulative grade point average. She serves her sorority as news reporter, librarian, and rush counselor. She attended the national convention as an alternate delegate.

PROSPECTIVE FRESHMEN will meet with academic and personnel deans during the pre-registration sessions to select their course of study and to learn how to adjust to college life.

Summer Commencement, scheduled for Aug. 22, will be held at 10 a.m. rather than at 3 p.m. as previously announced.

Alumnus Receives $10,000 Fellowship

Craig R. Humphrey, who graduated from the University on June 7, has been awarded a $10,000 National Defense Education Act fellowship to do graduate work in sociology at Brown University, Providence, R. I.

Humphrey, a resident of Mansfield, is a member of Alpha Kappa Delta, national sociology honorary society; Pi Kappa Delta, national forensics honorary society; Phi Sigma Tau, national philosophy honorary society; and Alpha Tau Omega social fraternity for which he served as rush chairman last year. For the past two years Humphrey was a member of the inter-collegiate varsity debating team.

In addition to full tuition, the fellowship pays a cash stipend each year to cover expenses. His studies will include demography, human ecology, statistics and methodology.

New Key Supplement Will Be Mailed Soon

The 24-page supplement to the 1964 Key soon will be mailed to its 5,600 purchasers, James R. Gordon, adviser to the Key and director of the University News Service, has announced.

The supplement, which contains both color and black and white photographs, will be mailed sometime between July 27 and July 31 to those who purchased the regular edition of the Key.

This is only the second time in the history of the Key that a supplement has been added. Last year's supplement was the first. An adhesive strip on the last page of the supplement will enable the owner to fix it permanently to the regular edition.

The supplement will feature spring events and activities which, because of the time element, ordinarily would be included in the 1965 Key.

Library Changes To Aid Commuters

To accommodate commuters attending the second session of summer school, several changes have been put into effect by Dr. A. Robert Rogers, director of the University library.

1. Books on two-hour and overnight reserve may be borrowed at 5 p.m. and are due back within one hour after the library reopens the next day.

2. The reserve room and the current periodicals room will remain open until 6 p.m.

3. Service for current periodicals may be obtained through the reference desk when the periodicals room is closed.

4. Service for reserve books may be obtained from the circulation department when the reserve room is closed.

Pre-Registration Starts For Frosh

More than 500 incoming freshmen and their parents already have participated in the University's fall pre-registration program since it began Monday.

From now until Aug. 21, approximately 2,800 prospective freshmen are expected to take part in the 20, one and one-half day sessions during which time they will take placement examinations, discuss the various academic programs with the deans of their colleges and select their individual courses of study. They also can purchase their textbooks for the fall, try out for campus musical organizations and the men can learn about Army and Air Force ROTC programs.

These sessions will provide an opportunity for the parents to meet with the academic and personnel deans and discuss with them the problems that face students and parents alike in adjusting to college life. Parents also will be shown a slide show of the campus and taken on a tour of the campus.

All incoming freshmen are required to attend one of the 20 pre-registration sessions. If a student has a summer job, the office of admissions, secures permission from the employer for the student to attend a session.

A special program has been arranged for those students who are unable to attend one of the regularly scheduled sessions. This program will be held on campus on Sept. 17 and 18.

Each session is being limited to approximately 140 students. Gerald M. Arndt, assistant dean of men, is in charge of the program.

'Germany' Film Due Monday

Theodore R. Bumiller will present "Germany," an all-color film of Germany from its picturesque past to modern times, at 7:30 p.m. Monday, July 27, in 105 Hanna Hall.

"Germany" presents a contrast of the old with the new: medieval walled towns and the ultra-modern cities; ancient crafts and the bustling industries; the amazing progress in West Berlin and communistic East Berlin. The magnificent scenery in the Alpine villages and the grandeur of the Koenigsee are all portrayed in color in the motion picture.

Mr. Bumiller is a native of Cincinnati. He is a graduate of the Applied Arts College of the University of Cincinnati with a degree in architecture. He has traveled extensively all over the world and has produced three all-color films: "By Jeep around the World," "Four Seasons of Scandinavia," which was seen on campus July 6, and "Germany." The film and commentary will last about an hour and a half.

Mr. Bumiller has lectured before the National Geographic Society of America and before many college and civic groups.

Entrants Wanted For Fair Contest

The Wood County Fair Board has invited all interested University women between the ages of 18 and 28 to participate in the competition for the title of Miss Wood County.

The fair recently received the franchise to hold a Miss Ohio Preliminary Pageant for this area and the winner of the county fair title will be eligible to compete in the Miss Ohio Contest. Since the fair is held after this month's judging at Cedar Point, where Miss Ohio is chosen, Miss Wood County of 1964 will enter the competition in the spring of 1965.

The entrant, in addition to the evening gown and swim suit competition, must give a talent presentation. The maximum time allowed for this event is three minutes.

Further details can be obtained by writing Post Office Box 3140 or calling Bigelow Music Shoppe. Deadline is Aug. 7. The fair will be held Aug. 10 through 15.

Education Professors Do Magazine Article

Dr. Ronald D. Jones, assistant professor of education, and Dr. Willard Fox, associate professor of education and chairman of the department, have written an article entitled "Don't Let Principals Sit Out Tenure in One Place, Say Two Districts."

The article, appearing in this month's issue of "Nation's Schools," appeals for the administrative device of principal rotation to change the leadership in a building or system. The men contend that this change will broaden the understanding of the principal and give him a system-wide, rather than a building-wide, perspective.

Letters To The Editor

Criticizes 'Rhinoceros'

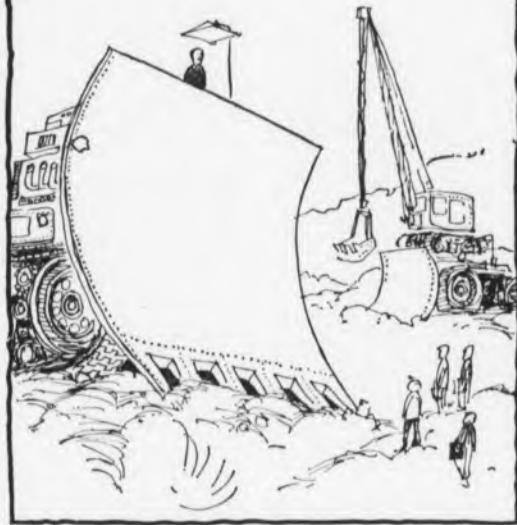

To the Editor:
I have been a student here at the University for almost three years, during which time I have seen practically every play that this school has produced and have read every criticism published by the News. But never have I read a criticism by a faculty member or student and have concluded that no one really cares whether a play is good or bad. After seeing last Saturday's performance of "Rhinoceros," I feel compelled to give my opinion.

"Rhinoceros," was, as most of our plays, mediocre. I realize that we are dealing with an educational theater, and that student actors cannot be expected to perform with the finesse of professional actors although professional actors sometimes don't come through brilliantly either—witness O'Brien in "Richard the Third."

The problem seemed to be the pacing of the play—to be blunt, it dragged. In addition, the actors and actresses seemed to have little understanding of the play's meaning nor of their function in it. Some individuals were good. Jean came off well, particularly in Act II. The girl with the dead pussy in Act I was unforgettable, and Daisy finally began to come across in Act III, but until then I was worried as to whether her smile was a permanent fixture.

I felt disturbed also by Clarence Bahs' interpretation of Berenger. It was like watching the Three Stooges who I really don't think are quite capable of worrying about whether they should or shouldn't join the crowd and become a rhinoceros. As to his slapping his hand to his forehead, I presumed it meant that he too was sprouting a horn, but it looked more like he had just discovered that the rhinos were trying to sing Handel's "Hallelujah Chorus."

PROFESSION: BY DAVE MATHENY ACP STUDENT

"GOOD MORNING. I'M PROFESSOR BYERS, AND THIS IS EXPERIMENTAL GEOGRAPHY 121."

Act II was probably the best of the play in regard to pacing and acting. The stage set was one of the more interesting I've seen. I enjoyed its simplicity and enjoyed having something left to my imagination.

In general, I found Dr. Boughton's production of "Rhinoceros" interesting but uninspiring. I understand Dr. Boughton is capable of producing a good play, if so, this production is not up to his capabilities.

Story Gets Correction

To the Editor:
Permit me to make one correction in your fine story on the library in the July 9 issue of the News.

We are trying to serve a student body of 9,000 in a building designed for 1,500 and opened in a year (1928) when the enrollment was less than 800.

Branch Registration Schedule Changed

In order to avoid conflicts with the inauguration of University President William T. Jerome III, it has been necessary to change the dates for branch registration in Bryan and Sandusky for fall semester, 1964-65. Dr. Ralph H. Geer, director of off-campus programs, has announced.

The correct registration schedule for the branches is as follows.

Saturday, Sept. 12 Guidance tests required of all new students from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. (New students in each branch should report for registration at 5 p.m.)

Monday, Sept. 14 Registration in the Fostoria High School, 3:30 to 7 p.m.

Wednesday, Sept. 16 Registration in the Bryan High School, 7 to 9 p.m.

Thursday, Sept. 17 Registration in the Fremont Ross High School, 3:30 to 7 p.m.

Monday, Sept. 21 Registration in the Sandusky High School, 3:30 to 7 p.m.

At the beginning of the 1963-64 academic year, 9,185 students were enrolled in Bowling Green State University. These students represented 81 counties of Ohio, 43 states and the District of Columbia, and 22 foreign countries.

New Trees, Shrubs Provide Refuge From Summer Sun

By Marjory Blandin News Reporter

Baking bodies fill the park behind Overman Hall to overflowing. Sunshine is pouring out of the sky. Over there, under a tree, lie a few refugees from the burning rays. These are the people who prefer a little shade with their sun.

Up on the third floor of Hayes Hall, a sweating, sweltering class is meeting in a room that seems to have humidity seeping through the cracks in its walls.

Are you a person who prefers a little shade with your sun? Are you tired of sitting in hot, sweltering classrooms? Do words like ice, lemonade, lake, Alaska, trees, and shade sound pretty good to you?

If so, perhaps you can find some comfort in the fact that during the spring semester of 1964, about 2,800 trees and shrubs were planted on the University grounds.

"The trees and shrubs that were planted in the spring," said F. Eugene Beatty, director of the department of Buildings and Facilities, "are just one phase of a continuous project. We will be adding to this each fall and spring, when planting can be more easily and safely done."

"Of all the trees and shrubs planted so far, about 1,200 of them are located around the athletic areas and the golf course. Others are located around Kohl Hall, Hanna Hall, the Administration Bldg., the University Union, and in the inner campus area, which many of the classrooms face," said Mr. Beatty.

There are about 90 different varieties, ranging from shade trees, to evergreens, to flowering shrubs. Mr. Beatty said that three things had to be considered when the varieties were selected.

First of all, they have to be able to grow well in this climate. Also, biology and botany classes were kept in mind, so that the varieties selected would be an aid to education.

In addition, the general over-all appearance, contrast, and shapes were considered, as each kind of tree grows differently.

The botanical addition created a job for a graduate horticulturist, who is responsible for taking care of the trees and shrubs. Also a few groundsmen had to be added to the regular crew.

Said Mr. Beatty, "approximately $30,000 has been spent on this program already, and as there is no set figure, we do not know what additional amount will be used."

"This is also part of a planned replacement program," stated Mr. Beatty. "As the older trees die out, the newer ones will be there to replace them."

He stated that elm trees are particularly vulnerable to disease. "Everything humanly possible is being done to save the older trees," said Mr. Beatty, "but some of them simply cannot be salvaged."

When the new trees were planted, none of them had a trunk above 3 inches in diameter. "Trees with trunks above 3 inches in diameter," stated Mr. Beatty, "are difficult to transplant."

Just think. As the diameters keep growing, and the years roll by, 2,800 patches of shade will be expanding, potential shade will be planted, and the Bowling Green campus will have more protection for sheltering refugees from Ohio's hot summers.

Who knows, maybe there will even eventually be enough shade to go around, so that all of the summer school classes will be able to meet outside under the soothing boughs of a cool, green tree.

University Alumni Known 'From Berlin To Hollywood'

"From Berlin to Hollywood, Bowling Green alumni in all walks of life are building careers that in a subtle way make the Bowling Green State University name more well known," commented James E. Hof, director of alumni affairs.

Mr. Hof was talking about the achievements of some of Bowling Green's more prominent alumni in fields from international diplomat to actress to nuclear chemist to "best BG supporter" according to a Distinguished Alumnus Award data sheet.

Kempton B. Jenkins, who was graduated from the University in 1948, is now one of the United States' State Department experts on Berlin. He participated in talks between the Union of Socialist Soviet Republic and United States ambassadors in Moscow on the Berlin crisis in early 1961.

Moving from Berlin to Hollywood, alumna Mrs. Jeffery Hayden, better known to motion picture fans as Eva Marie Saint, appeared for Bowling Green last winter on the television program Alumni Fun.

Miss Saint, a 1946 graduate, has appeared in Hollywood productions as well as nation-wide television programs. She received an Academy Award Oscar for her performance in "On the Waterfront." Miss Saint was awarded one of the University's first Distinguished Alumnus Awards in 1960.

In still another field, a former Bowling Green student is now senior chemist of the Oak Ridge National Laboratory. Dr. Clarence J. Hochanadel has been with the Tennessee Laboratory since 1940. Dr. Hochanadel was an official

US delegate in 1955 to the first United Nations' International Conference on the Peaceful Use of Atomic Energy in Geneva. He also has served as associate editor of Radiation Research, a journal of the Radiation Research Society.

Traveling back to California, Ivan E. Lake, a 1923 graduate of Bowling Green, is the deputy director of public information for the San Diego County Civil Defense and Disaster Organization. Although Mr. Lake may not be as well known on the world-wide scale, Bowling Green supporters stated on a data sheet for the Distinguished Alumnus Award for him that he "has done more" without recognition for Bowling Green State University than any other person living or dead.

Facts can back up Mr. Lake's fans' statement. Mr. Lake was a member of the News when it started. Because the athletic department kept no record of results of intercollegiate games, he went through newspaper files in Bowling Green, Findlay, Bluffton, Defiance, and Toledo digging up a record of Bowling Green athletic events from 1916 to 1925. He then kept the record up to date until after World War I when the athletic department took over the job.

Mr. Lake is responsible for the nickname the Falcons. While working with the Sentinel-Tribune, he announced it in 1928 and no one ever disputed the tag name still in use. As president of the Win-One-Club in his senior year, Mr. Lake helped direct the first annual homecoming in 1922.

Summer Playhouse Featuring Berlin's 'Annie Get Your Gun'

Irving Berlin's musical comedy hit, "Annie Get Your Gun," is now playing at the Huron Playhouse, Ohio's oldest summer theater. The show opened Tuesday and will close Saturday.

Annie Oakley is familiar as the gun-toting gal who could outshoot any sharpshooter of her day. She was the star of Buffalo Bill's Wild West Show in the early years of this century.

"Annie Get Your Gun" takes Annie, a Darke County, Ohio mountain girl, through a story-book show business career, an up-and-down romance with marksman Frank Butler, an adoption as Sitting Bull's daughter, a triumphal tour of Europe, several shooting matches, and a galaxy of hit tunes such as "There's No Business Like Show Business," "Doing What Comes Naturally," "You Can't Get A Man With A Gun," "The Girl That I Marry," "Anything You Can Do," and many more.

Miss Byrum Plays Annie
Beverly Byrum of Dayton is featured in the production as Annie. A member of the playhouse company four years ago, she has held roles in "Visit To A Small Planet" and "Pajama Game." She performed earlier this season as Madge Fuller in "George Washington Slept Here."

John Soliday of Lancaster plays Frank Butler, the lady-killer marksman who is defeated by Annie in shooting contests as well as in the contest of love. This is his third performance of the season.

Others featured in the cast are Jack Winget, Circleville, as the fast-talking show manager, Charlie Davenport; Neal Fenter, Holgate, as the colorful and fatherly Buffalo Bill; Christine Berline, Bowling Green, as the saucy Dolly Tate; Mike Flanagan, Chicago, as the loveable and laughable Sitting Bull; Diane Gosnell, Pittsburgh, as the sweet and talented Winnie Tate; James Cain, Xenia, as Tommy Keller and Yasukiyo Hayakawa of Tokyo as Pawnee Bill, Buffalo Bill's competitor. Annie's brother and two sisters are played by Bill Klug, Faye Stoffer and Patte Emmert, all of Huron.

Kepke Is Director

Allen N. Kepke, instructor of speech at the University, is the general director of the production and John H. Hepler, assistant professor of speech is the scene designer. The musical direction was supplied by Huron resident Norman Noe and Jann Graham choreographed the special dances.

Curtain time for "Annie Get Your Gun" is 8 p.m. Admission price is $1.50 for adults and $.50 for children. Reservations may be made by mail or by calling Huron 433-4744.

SIGN OF THE TIMES. Prospective freshmen and upperclassmen browse through the stacks in the University bookstore in search of needed textbooks for second session and for the fall semester.

An all-campus record hop will be held from 8:40 to 11:30 p.m., Friday in the recreation area behind Conklin Hall. Ronald H. Heames, a senior in the College of Liberal Art, will act as disc jockey. In case of rain the dance will be held in the Raths Keller.

Basketball Tourney Will Start Aug. 3

An all-campus three-man basketball tournament will begin Monday, Aug. 3, Maurice O. Sandy, intramural director, has announced.

Entries are due in the Intramural Office by Wednesday, July 29. The type of the tournament will be determined by the number of entries. If there is a sufficient number, the tournament will be divided into a freshman division and an upper-class division.

All games will be played on the courts behind Conklin Hall beginning at 6:30 p.m. Three men will constitute a team. Only one player over 6' 3" is permitted on each team. No substitutions will be allowed. Varsity basketball players are ineligible.

A game is 21 baskets. If the score is tied at 20-20, the winning team must win by 2 baskets. The possession rule will be in effect. (The team on offense keeps possession of the ball if it scores a basket.)

There will be no officials. Players must call fouls themselves. On all fouls, the ball will be taken out of bounds by the team that was fouled. In all cases not covered official N.C.A.A. basketball rules shall prevail.
