COUNCIL SETS PLANS FOR ADVISORY BODY

Student Council last night adopted a resolution deciding procedures for the establishment of an advisory body of student council members.

The resolution, drafted by the Vice President of Student Affairs and the Speaker of the Student Council, states that the council will establish an advisory body to assist it in the formulation of policy decisions.

The council's decision was made after a lengthy debate, during which members discussed the need for an advisory body to provide guidance and advice on important issues.

President said nominee will be nonSouthern

WASHINGTON (AP)-President Nixon dramatically announced yesterday he will maintain a non-Southern jury pool. The announcement came as the Senate prepared to vote on the nomination of a Supreme Court justice.

The Senate is expected to vote on the nomination of a Supreme Court justice later this week. Nixon has said he will not appoint a Southern judge to the court.

The Senate's vote is expected to be close, with Democrats opposing the nomination and Republicans supporting Nixon. The issue has become a political battle, with Democrats accusing the president of discrimination.

Inquest file may be released

The Kennedy-Kopechne inquest file may be released in the near future, according to sources close to the investigation.

The file contains evidence and testimony related to the death of Mary Jo Kopechne, who died in a car accident involving Sen. Edward Kennedy.

The release of the file is expected to provide new information about the accident and its aftermath. Sources have said the file contains important evidence that could impact the ongoing investigation.

The investigation into the accident has been ongoing for several months, with several key witnesses having been interviewed.

POSTER DRAWS LI BUIT THREAT

A University student who made an anti-pollution poster featuring a Georgia oil well has been threatened with a fine and other legal action to stop the display of his work.

The student, who requested anonymity, said he was not aware of the legal action until he was contacted by a professor.

The university has not announced the nature of the legal action.

The student said he plans to continue his work and that he is not deterred by the threat.

Staff Reporter

An organization seeking signatures for a referendum on pollution prevention and control has been met with a threat to sue.

The organization, which has identified itself as the "Clean Air Campaign," has been collecting signatures for the referendum, which would give the state legislature the power to enact laws to control pollution.

The organization was met with a threat to sue by a group representing the oil industry, which has opposed the referendum.

The threat has not been made public, but it has been mentioned by sources close to the organization.

Police arrest 3 Kirk aides

BRADENTON, Fla. (AP) - A U.S. marshal was served arrest warrants on three aides of Gov. Claude Kirk last night, after the aides were accused of obstructing justice.

The arrest warrants were served late last night at the home of one of the aides. The aides were arrested on charges of violating the state's anti-obstruction-of-justice law.

The aides had been accused of obstructing justice during a protest against a bill to allow state universities to lease property for commercial development.

The aides were released later last night and are scheduled to appear in court today.

AP POLL

According to the U.S. Public Health Service, 50 percent of Americans seen a demonstration, protest or teach-in over the past month.

Reasons for attending teach-ins are diverse, with many citing a desire to learn more about the war and its impact.

The survey, conducted by the Public Health Service, found that 50 percent of Americans had seen a demonstration, protest or teach-in over the past month.

The survey also found that 25 percent of Americans had attended a teach-in or protest, while 25 percent had not attended any such events.

a purge?

By indicting 13 of the Weathermen faction of Students for a Democratic Society (SDS) under the federal anti-riot act, the Justice Department is again attempting to prevent a trial under a law which has been both unconstitutional and unenforceable.

Such a defendant is a right to cross state lines with the intent of inciting or organizing a riot. The use of the word "intent" makes the law open-ended. How can it be proven in a courtroom what is in a person's mind when he enters a state?

The argument is a duplication of state laws, and is not really new. This is because it is impossible to prove a person actually engaged in an act unless he has already engaged in rioting. Only then would it be arguable that rioting was his intention when he entered the state.

But a person has actually engaged in rioting, he is already held accountable for his acts by state laws, and the federal act is over-worded and need not be used to punish rioters.

According to one Department official, the real reason the Justice Department indicted 12 Weathermen for violating the act is because they believe the Weathermen are behind the rash of terrorist bombings sweeping the country.

This could be viewed as a political purge by the Justice Department, using whatever laws are available to put a group in jail on a reason which has yet to be proven as factual.

The violence advocated by the Weathermen should not be condoned, but laws varying on "thought crime" and the purge tactics of some law enforcement officials are equally undesirable.

right to know

After nearly a year of "suffering and anguish," Ohio Governor James A. Rhodes finally decided to sue Life magazine for its article entitled "The Governor and the Ineptmbcr," which pointed out that the trial will not take place until long after the Flmily has emphatically reaffirmed them.

The case was brought by the National Committee for a Democratic Society for violating the federal anti-riot act.

The publication of the article has made it clear that the Governor and the Mobster are not the only ones who are being defrauded by the government.

The biology department's greenhouse has blossomed under the care of Lab Assistant Dan Hehr. The greenhouse, which is located north of the psychology building, has been expanded recently to accommodate the growing needs of the department.

Hehr said the department has now created a dark room for growing plants in complete darkness. Long day and short day conditions are now being simulated to study various seasonal differences. He also said that the recent expansion has enabled the department to provide more plants for research and educational purposes.

The greenhouse is also being used for research projects using the plants. Hehr said, "The plants in the desert room haven't changed much, but plants in the tropical room are growing quite rapidly."

The greenhouse also serves as a research laboratory, where students and faculty can conduct research and experiments. Hehr said, "The plants in the desert room haven't changed much, but plants in the tropical room are growing quite rapidly."

A good cry cleanses the soul

WASHINGTON (AP) - The House Appropriations Committee recommended Thursday $4,127 billion in new funds to finance expanded federal education programs. In the first of a dozen money bills for the fiscal year starting July 1, the committee approved $744.5 million more than President Nixon requested and $312.9 million more than was appropriated for the current year. The increase over amounts requested by the President included $465 million for education programs for the handicapped, $200 million for education for the elderly, $160.9 million for education of culturally deprived children.

The questionnaires were distributed to dormitory residents. Jewell said the number of replies was disappointing.

House recommends funds for education
Labor disputes go unchecked

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Although Congress has asked to avert a nationwide railroad shutdown Saturday, serious labor disputes continued today in the air travel, office building and newspaper industries.

Congress approved Wednesday a bill signed by President Nixon to impose a nationwide railroad contract that was negotiated last December, but rejected by one small union.

The bill imposes the contract for the rest of 1970 to prevent wildcat strikes. Both houses passed the bill quickly and overwhelmingly minutes before noon yesterday, and escaped with only $100, according to Earl Rife, Wood County sheriff.

Two men, one armed with a .38 caliber revolver, who were described as having been in the vehicle, they were released. But police are continuing their investigation.

Traffic controllers strike was easeing somewhat and planes were making emergency flight restrictions in New York and Chicago.

The agency said the 80 per cent flight quotas in the two cities were expected to be raised to 75 per cent. The normal flight quotas were reduced to 50 per cent Jan. 21 because of a large decrease in passenger traffic since the strike.

The airlines are losing $1 to $2 million a day due to the strike, according to Secor D. Browne, chairman of the Civil Aeronautics Board. Total losses have been described as more than $10 million by the airlines.

The FAA said it would impose the same restrictions on air traffic flows nationwide if the strike continues.

Aeronautics Board. Total losses have been described as more than $10 million by the airlines.

The strikes have developed as a result of wildcat trucker strikes, which have been starting and stopping in various cities. They include 13,800 workers in Detroit, and another 4,000 in Chicago.

"Zabriskie Point'

By Bill Gubbins

In his bid to remember a time when a new film by such a respected filmmaker as Antonioni has been an unutterably thrilling event in cinema history as "Blow-Up" and "The Last Movie", the New York Times has given Antonioni's "Zabriskie Point" the lowest possible score, a "B". The reviewer observes that the film "is more important to see the characters and relationships that Antonioni used in his last film, "River Time" than to remember the fact that the film is Antonioni's fifth film withigu a decade.

Although the reviewer agrees with the view that Antonioni's film is "more important to see the characters and relationships that Antonioni used in his last film, "River Time" than to remember the fact that the film is Antonioni's fifth film withigu a decade.

The reviewer also notes that Antonioni's film is "more important to see the characters and relationships that Antonioni used in his last film, "River Time" than to remember the fact that the film is Antonioni's fifth film withigu a decade.

The reviewer concludes that Antonioni's film is "more important to see the characters and relationships that Antonioni used in his last film, "River Time" than to remember the fact that the film is Antonioni's fifth film withigu a decade.

Leon Russell

The first solo album by Leon Russell has just been released. This offering features many great musicians on back-up, including George Harrison, Ringo Starr, Eric Clapton, Stevie Wonder, Charlie Watts, Bill Wyman, Klaus Voormann and Delaney and Bonnie Bramlett. None of these performers play on all the songs, but work together to form a cohesive album.

Leon Russell has a history of collaborating with biggies. When he was first starting out, his band went on tour with Jerry Lee Lewis and Boz Scaggs, and the Hawks (later to be known as the Band). Then he worked on most of Phil Spector's early '60's hits and stayed in the studio with many others including the Byrds' "Mr. Tambourine Man."

Later on, he formed a two man band with Mark Frechette, playing under the name of the Asylum Choir. Their album, a complex and together project, flapped like too many good ones. Recently, he has played with Delaney and Bonnie and Friends, and on the Rolling Stone's "Let It Blows" album.

His new album, entitled Leon Russell (Shelter Records SHEL 3011) has many good moments and is mainly a happy thing. Leon's voice is nothing special, but he gets his songs across. All the songs are written by him or in collaboration with someone except for one Dylan song, called "Old Masters." On a free, like Delta Lady, his voice sounds like it is ready to fall out of his mouth. "Give Peace a Chance" and "I Put a Spell on You" are two of the songs which are done in the same way as the ones written by Leonard and Kerouac. "Say Brunswick," and "I Put a Spell on You" are Russell originals. On "Give Peace a Chance" Leon plays some soft piano and basses some truly fine words back and forth with Bonnie Bramlett.

In no case is this a superstar album. It is a Leon Russell album. It is cohesive and it is rock, performed by proven rock musicians that know how to turn. All are tied together under the shelter of Leon Russell. In my opinion, this is one of the better new albums.
