International meeting: first crack at balancing energy, economy

By The Associated Press

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger said today that next month's meeting of oil-consuming countries would be the first in a conference series aimed at stabilizing the world's energy balance and economy.

Kissinger said diplomatic effort of unprecedented scope is needed to deal with a global problem of unprecedented sizes and energy crisis far more serious than, and basically independent of, the present Arab oil embargo.

Kissinger said this effort seeks international agreements or understandings on the sharing of energy technology among nations; efforts to determine demand for energy; and measures for conserving energy.

Beyond immediate problems, Kissinger said, lay greater problems for which "we have not even the beginnings of an answer."

ONE SERIOUS problem, he emphasized, was the fate of developing energy-consuming nations, all of whose foreign aid would be wiped out by the recent price increase of foreign oil.

"Our estimate is that their bill may approach $30 billion, which of course far exceeds any of the aid flows that anyone has ever projected," Kissinger said.

He said economic experts believe that bill "cannot be paid."

He said the United States is in a strong position, with its own energy resources and a strong economy, to take care of its own energy needs independently and through bilateral agreements—for example, by making separate arrangements with Arab nations.

However, he said such a narrow approach, lacking regard for other nations' energy patterns, would not be wise in the long run.

"It could be that we will be driven to this," Kissinger warned, but he said it would be far better for the world's nations to solve the energy problems together.

Self-centered policies, he said, would only weaken the economies of other nations and in time the world economy would suffer and the nations would learn that "no nation can prosper in isolation."

KISSINGER said the United States could achieve self-sufficiency in energy, and perhaps even an energy surplus, within 10 to 15 years.

Once that happens, he said, the United States would consider sharing its energy with others.

To develop the long-range, global energy policy, Kissinger said a series of meetings was envisioned, beginning with the Feb. 11 meeting announced Wednesday by the White House.

He said the United States would not object if the European nations already invited ask other European governments to participate.

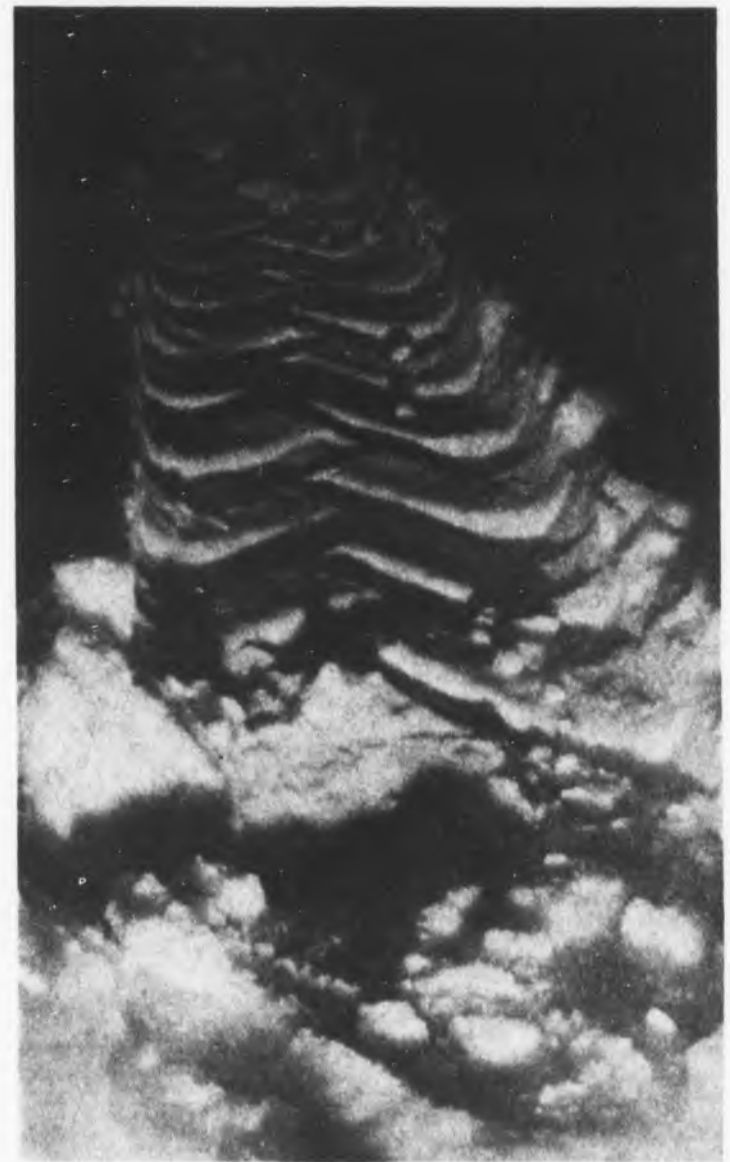

The second stage, Kissinger said, would be a larger meeting of oil-consuming nations, including the developing countries and "other interested parties."

The third step, Kissinger said, would be a meeting of the oil-consuming and oil-producing nations, to take place within three months after the Feb. 11 meeting.

KISSINGER was asked whether this diplomatic plan, aiming to create a framework for managing the world's energy flow and thus the global economy, had any precedent.

Kissinger replied there was "no precedent for this approach" and added, "there is no precedent for this problem."

He said the global energy problem was not caused by the Arab Embargo on oil shipments to nations considered friendly to Israel, although the embargo highlighted it.

Gilligan finalizes plans; to moderate open forum

Plans have been finalized for Gov. John J. Gilligan's visit to campus today.

Beginning at 3 p.m., the governor will serve as a moderator for a panel of four students and a representative from WBGU-TV, Channel 57, in the studios of WBGU-TV, Troupe Street. He also will entertain questions from the audience. The studio seats about 200 persons.

The session, open to the public, will be taped and telecast live and also shown at 10:30 p.m. on Channel 57.

Previously scheduled for the Grand Ballroom, Union, the location was changed at the request of the governor's office.

At 4:15 p.m., Gov. Gilligan will meet in closed session with the Board of Trustees in the Alumni Room, Union, and at 5:30 p.m. he will attend a social hour with administrators in the Ice Arena. The School of Music will provide entertainment.

The governor also plans to attend tonight's hockey game at 7:30 against Ohio State University.

States taking own initiative to probe increasing gas prices

By the Associated Press

A growing number of state and city governments are investigating rising gasoline prices and no longer are relying only on the federal government to monitor the oil industry.

The survey of 20 states showed that more than half are looking into charges of diluted gasoline, price irregularities and antitrust practices. Until recently they had left these tasks to the Economic Stabilization Office of the Internal Revenue Service.

Some states are considering new legislation dealing with the oil industry. In Missouri, Asst. Atty. Gen. Harvey Tettebaum said he is proposing a state law which would empower him to obtain oil industry data on fuel supplies and pricing practices.

SEN. JOHN V. Tunney (D-Calif.), was the latest public official to criticize William E. Simon, head of the Federal Energy Office, for his reliance on oil industry figures.

WASHINGTON (AP) - Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger said yesterday he expects his trip to the Middle East to produce a basis of negotiations between Egypt and Israel on disengagement of their forces near the Suez Canal.

Kissinger agreed at a news conference with the suggestion that there is a danger that he would eclipse the role of the countries in reaching an agreement. But he said "in this crucial phase it's most important to get the process started."

KISSINGER was scheduled to leave at midnight for Egypt with a brief stop along the way in Spain. He said he will take to President Anwar Sadat of Egypt some "general ideas" about disengagement and then, in Israel, see whether a concrete proposal for disengagement can be reached.

Offering himself as willing to shuttle between Sadat and the Israeli Cabinet, Kissinger said he would then gladly go to Aswan, where Sadat is recovering from bronchitis to nail the proposal down.

After flying all night, Kissinger will reach Madrid in mid-afternoon for a two-hour meeting with Pedro Cortina, the Spanish foreign minister. The talks are likely to focus on continued use of an air base outside Madrid and a nuclear submarine base at Rota.

Kissinger is due in Aswan tonight and will stay over until tomorrow evening when he flies to Jerusalem to see Premier Golda Meir and Israeli cabinet ministers.

ON OTHER matters Kissinger said:

-The administration would seek in a series of meetings with consuming and producing nations a global approach to sources of energy supply and the pricing of gasoline and other products.

-France, in working out an agreement with oil rich Saudi Arabia may be helping itself, but in the long run faces the prospect of being sucked into an international depression as demands for energy escalate beyond supply.

Interpretations of tenure policy clash

By Curt Hazlett
Staff Reporter

Provost Kenneth W. Rothe and members of the Faculty Senate apparently are not seeing eye-to-eye over a recent interpretation by Dr. Rothe of the University's tenure policy.

The disagreement surfaced this week when a Faculty Senate ad hoc committee issued a seven-recommendation report calling the provost's action "an infringement on (Faculty Senate's) rights."

THE INTERPRETATION, given in a memorandum to University deans and department chairmen Dec. 4, states that the provost may have to begin "a more careful evaluation of recommendations" for approval of tenure than in the past.

It cited changed circumstances within the University as the reason.

University policy says tenure may be granted to instructors and professors after completion of probationary periods—either five or six years, depending on rank—provided their academic standards have proven high.

BUT DR. ROTHE said that, until now, faculty members have assumed probationers would receive tenured appointments by merely performing satisfactorily.

But the new interpretation by the provost says that will not be the case in the future.

It states that tenured faculty of each department should "admit their colleagues to tenure after a careful and reasonable examination of the needs of the department and the interests, qualifications and performance of the probationer."

Dr. Rothe said the assumption made by many faculty members that a satisfactory probationary period automatically leads to tenure does not have a basis in fact, and is not in the written University policy.

"No dean, no provost, no chairman ever wrote that down," he said, "because it couldn't be written down. If you read the policy, a probationer is a person that, after some period of time, you make a judgement about as to whether or not he or she will have tenure."

BUT MANY members of Faculty Senate disagree with that interpretation.

A spokesman for the ad hoc committee said until now it has been assumed that when a candidate signs a probationary contract there will be a tenured position available after the period of probation.

Dr. Kenneth W. Rothe

But the Provost's interpretation suggests that tenured appointments in the future may be based on department and student need, as well as the probationer's achievement.

"The committee is not saying the probationary contract automatically leads to tenure," the spokesman, who preferred not to be identified, said.

"We're saying the University has got to have some sort of serious intent to hire someone, provided they prove themselves academically to be the kind of person we want," he said.

"You can't be bringing people here with the intention that they are to be permanent additions and then tell them at the last minute there aren't any positions."

Dr. Rothe said more discrimination in granting tenure may be necessary in the future in order to assure that the University's resources are allocated properly.

USING THE EXAMPLE of an undermanned department with too many students, Dr. Rothe said it could be aided by reallocating resources from a department with too many faculty members and too few students.

One way this might be done, he said, is by removing a tenured position from the overmanned department and shifting that position to the undermanned one.

"When student demand shifts around so that a department requires fewer people, we will take it into account when we make a tenure appointment," he said.

"The University has already written into its policy that permanent tenure shall continue until death, retirement, resignation or discontinuance of the teaching position as a consequence of financial exigency," Dr. Rothe continued.

"Which is to say you could shift faculty around, or deny tenure—or even fire somebody—if you could show there was not sufficient need in that position."

"Clearly, taking the size of the faculty and the enrollment into consideration is perfectly within the policy in its present state," he said.

BUT THE COMMITTEE spokesman disagreed, saying the provost's interpretation is an attempt to change the tenure policy by reinterpreting it, "which constitutes a change in the meaning of the policy, and therefore a change in the policy itself."

Under provisions of the Faculty Charter, only Faculty Senate can change the tenure policy, a right the committee claims has been abused by the provost.

The first recommendation of its report suggests "that Faculty Senate regard the Provost's memorandum...as an infringement on its rights as stated in the Faculty Charter and take the position that to be effective any interpretive statement regarding faculty tenure policy must be based on consultation and agreement between the Senate Executive Committee and the Provost."

That recommendation was approved after lengthy debate at Tuesday's Faculty Senate meeting, as was the second recommendation. It read:

"Recommendation Two—That the Faculty Senate support the idea that probationary candidates for tenure be evaluated solely on their academic merits without regards to financial considerations, unless the University administration can clearly demonstrate that funds for this position have not been diverted to other projects and are therefore not currently available to support the position."

LENGTHY DEBATE about the meaning of this recommendation delayed discussion of the other five, although Recommendation Three was quickly passed at the end of the session.

It recommended "that Faculty Senate reject any notion that the number of faculty persons on tenure must be limited to some predetermined percentage of the total faculty."

The other four were:

"Recommendation Four: That Faculty Senate affirm that persons presently probationary candidates for tenure are not to be confronted with extraordinarily demanding criteria that are invoked as a means of limiting the percentage of tenured staff."

"Recommendation Five: That Faculty Senate recommend that normal attrition and careful limitation on newly-created positions and programs be the primary modes for adjusting the size of the faculty in times of financial stringency."

poor planning

When the governor visits one of Ohio's largest universities to speak with administrators, students and townspersons, the request that he speak on campus certainly is not asking too much.

Today's open forum, originally scheduled for the Grand Ballroom, Union, will be moved to the studios of WBGU-TV on Troupe Street. The change of plans announced by the governor's office on Wednesday offers no implication that Gilligan is willing to meet with as many students as possible.

The Union would have been the most convenient location for everyone. But instead, persons will be forced to brave the snow and cold weather to make it to the TV studios.

If today's turnout is poor, the governor has no one to blame but those who planned his visit.

And if persons are turned away, the governor's visit will be one fine example of poor planning and a great political game.

court rules against indiana state statute

The rights of political parties were wisely given a boost Wednesday by the U.S. Supreme Court.

The court held that states may not bar political parties from the ballot for refusing to renounce violent overthrow of the government.

An Indiana state law requiring an oath to renounce violent overthrow of the government was challenged by the Indiana Communist party.

The law accepted no difference between the doctrine that is part of a party philosophy and what the party actually advocates.

As one justice quoted from an earlier court decision: "...The mere abstract teaching...of the moral propriety or even moral necessity for a resort to force and violence is not the same as preparing a group for violent action and steering it to such action."

The unanimous decision was the first time the court has challenged a loyalty oath regarding access to the ballot.

It remains to be seen what effect the ruling will have on other states having similar loyalty oaths. It has been estimated that between one-fourth and one-half of the states have similar oaths for access to the ballot.

These states must accept the ruling and erase their statutes requiring such an oath from the books.

It's a question of holding back freedoms guaranteed by the Constitution.

Every party that is not actually formulating concrete plans to overthrow the government has an unquestionable right to be on the ballot.

looking for justice

By Tim Smith

Guest Columnist

A major tragedy developed in April of 1973. A Teamster official signed "sweetheart" contracts with California grape growers whose farmworkers had been represented by United Farmworkers of America and AFL-CIO for the last three years.

Demands for free elections were refused. Thousands of farmworkers manned the picket lines, yet in a few months two UFWA strikers were brutally killed, dozens injured and over 5,000 arrested.

Rather than expose our people to more brutality, Cesar Chavez recalled us from the picket lines.

THE WORLD is being torn apart by senseless and sterile brutality but we are committed to non-violence in the tradition of the great Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., Gandhi and Bobby Kennedy.

We're convinced that we will win justice in the fields and vineyards, but not with violence.

With this in mind the executive board of the union met and immediately suspended all picketing. The lives of the strikers were no longer safe on the picket lines.

united farm workers

On Sept. 15, 1973, 500 people left their homes in Delano, California. Many more would leave their homes before the month was to come to an end. They left their homes to travel across the country to tell their story to the American and Canadian peoples.

They are determined to add to the economic impact of their strike by mounting a powerful boycott campaign.

THE BOYCOTT is the way we take our cause to the public. For surely if we cannot find justice in the courts of rural California, we will find support with our brothers and sisters throughout the nation.

"We do not boycott to put anyone out of business; we boycott to put justice into business."

We need the boycott to be successful. We need the stores in America to remove these grapes and scab lettuce. This in turn would put pressure on the growers in California to go back and renegotiate the contracts that we have struggled so many years for.

When we first went on strike in 1965, we thought that we had just one force opposing us—that of the grape growers who were striking.

NEVER DID we dream that in the years to come we would be opposed by the International Brotherhood of the Teamsters, the large Agribusiness Co. in California, the American Farm

boycott a desperate move

(Editor's note: Ohio D.R.I.V.E. is the political voice of the Ohio Teamsters Union).

Why are the people of Ohio being pressured to support a boycott that is really anti-union?

The agitators and pickets with their signs are insulting not only union food store employees, but our Teamster Union brothers and sisters who labor in the produce fields of the Far West.

They are also insulting the public's intelligence.

THEY HAVE distorted the simple facts of the situation—because the farm workers' battle has turned into a disastrous defeat for the boycotters.

The boycott supporters recently started up again when they realized that the Chavez forces had lost practically all their farm workers to the Teamsters Union on the West Coast.

The Teamsters won the workers over by providing better representation for them. The Teamsters obtained improved contracts which were rigidly and fairly enforced.

special!

Three columns presenting the viewpoints of three different organizations that are involved with the current boycott of grapes are presented on today's editorial page.

GREAT SCOT Food Stores, The United Farm Workers and Ohio D.R.I.V.E., the political voice of the Teamsters Union have each presented their views on the grape boycott.

The three viewpoints stated in the columns provide an insight into the problems and aims of each organization.

The old union simply couldn't get these results, so it lost its grip.

THE EFFORT to revive the boycott was a desperation move. It has been practically a total failure—and it will be a 100 per cent failure when the food shopping public realize what a phony it is.

The only final solution to the farm worker impasse, as Teamster International President Frank E. Fitzsimmons testified before the Congress of the United States, is to legislate secret ballot elections under which the farm workers themselves could decide the union of their choice.

The National Labor Relations Act now excludes farmworkers from this privilege. Yet Chavez has always opposed granting them this freedom.

IF THE boycott backers had the good of the farmworkers uppermost in mind, they would turn their pressure on the Senate and House of Representatives to grant the farm workers their basic organizing rights.

However, it is probably more fun for them to exploit women and children and to picket food stores for handling certain foods, even though the foods are union-grown, union-processed, union-transported, union-received and union-sold in the stores.

Let not the public be deceived. The boycott cause is not just and it will not prevail.

Do not boycott freedom.

WE WILL be happy to answer the questions of any individual or attend the meeting of any group that wants to understand the truth about the farmworkers dispute.

obligation to consumer

By Roy J. Kerscher
Executive Vice-President
Great Scot Food Stores
Guest Columnist

Like all other supermarkets, Great Scot has an obligation to you, the consumer, and that obligation is to offer you, at the best possible price, the widest selection of quality foods that are available in the market.

We take this role seriously and believe if we meet this obligation, you will continue to shop with us.

Currently, we carry about 8,000 items in our store for you to select from. Someone or some group is nearly always angry with the people who grow, process or distribute at least one of these items.

TODAY IT is California grapes. Before grapes, it was lettuce, Polish hams, imported beef, salad oil and many other products.

What product will be next? What if they wanted us to stop selling Ohio agricultural products? Would that meet with your approval?

Because we believe food stores serve the consumer in total—not causes—we have refused to surrender any product from our shelves that a group, such as that of Cesar Chavez, or an individual might demand we remove.

No group or union, whether it be the United Farm Workers, or the Teamsters or others has the right to dictate what we offer for sale in our stores.

IF WE went along with these demands, we would, in effect, be supporting individual causes and settling complex issues to which we are not a party.

We do not want to be judge and jury in these cases, and we don't believe you want us to be.

The current grape boycott stems from a jurisdictional dispute between the United Farm Workers and the Teamsters in California and has nothing to do with Great Scot nor Bowling Green, Ohio.

We believe in freedom of choice under our democratic system. No group of workers should be forced into belonging to a union or particular union.

CONTRARY TO some popular assumption, the California farm workers have never been given the right to vote by a secret ballot on their choice or rejection of union representation.

great scot food stores

On May 11, 1973, the California Conciliation Service confirmed that Chavez has rejected its offers to conduct a secret ballot election.

We think this is wrong and urge Congress to take action which would provide for farm labor legislation that would grant the worker an election to settle the grape issue.

Congressional legislation provided workers in industry this right over 30 years ago. We also feel that further legislation is needed to extend the prohibition of secondary boycotts to agriculture as it is in all other phases of labor.

This would prevent opportunists from further using retail stores as a means to their personal end.

In conclusion:

1) WE must continue to operate the Great Scot Stores in the best way we know how in order to provide you with your total food needs.

2) There is a dispute in California that needs to be settled. Since the parties involved have not been able to come to an agreement, legislation should be passed that would provide a democratic process for settlement.

3) If you, as an individual, feel strongly one way or the other, your right is to act accordingly—you can buy grapes or let them rot on our counters.

HOWEVER, BEFORE you support or comply with any boycott, take a little time to examine the authenticity of the charges and the documentation of the facts.

Then make your decision. Don't give even a little bit of your democracy away. No one ever offers it back.

I sent an inquiry to your respected newspaper last month and haven't received any response.

Again I plead for some correspondence.

MY NAME is "Chet" Spain (No. 126441). I'm a white male, 29 years old, five feet, 10 inches, brown hair, brown eyes and medium build.

I have many interests and am very open minded and would love to share any and all ideas in correspondence, preferably with females, any age.

Although I will answer all letters sent to me, my present desire is to write a biography concerning my particular case and could use some assistance of a concerned individual in making this possible.

I'M PRESENTLY serving an "unusual amount of time" on a charge of "grand larceny." Like six years and two months on a seven year sentence. Big ripoff!

However, my sentence expires in Dec., 1974 and then I will be released.

Please have all concerned females write and send photos if at all possible. Again, all letters will be answered promptly.

INCLUDED IN my interests are music, "rock" and all the "now sounds." I'm a barber and a stylist. My hobbies are sports, stamp collecting, playing music, blues, rock guitar and some drums.

In the closing of this letter I wish to express my appreciation for your time rendered for this request. Thank you.

Messenger service proposed

Post office plans improvements

"Many post office improvements are in the planning stage, but the basic purpose of these proposed improvements is to use people's working talents to the best of their ability," J. Ingram Milliron, director of auxiliary services, said yesterday.

Two services discussed include a campus messenger service and the establishment of two mail deliveries to campus offices and departments.

"The purpose of these new services would be to save time for those University employees who must take time out from their regular jobs to pick up mail," Milliron said.

Milliron said the ideas are not definite.

"None of these ideas have been firmed up," he said. "We have no idea what we'll do."

If implemented, the messenger service would include such items as time cards and regular mail, excluding bulky items such as packages.

Milliron said a study group has been sent to Case Western Reserve University to investigate an envelope stuffing system used by that university.

"We have been allocated funds for the purchase of stuffing machines," Milliron said. "If the study group feels there is a cost savings, we will use them here."

Envelope stuffing now is done by hand, he added.

John Sockman, manager of postal services, said there has been a delay in moving the post office from Commons to University Hall because of construction difficulties.

"Construction people use the old post office for storage and office space," he said. "But we feel we can give better service in University Hall."

Sockman added that the loading dock at Commons was inadequate because it is too high for trucks to load or unload.

Tenure policy undergoes debate

• from page one

"RECOMMENDATION SIX: That Faculty Senate recommend that the University Administration make public and explicit the statistical bases and models being employed to predict the future size and structure of the University faculty. All implicit assumptions in drawing up such models should be clarified."

"Recommendation Seven: That the Senate Executive Committee be instructed to maintain a continuous observation of the administration of the University's tenure policy in the interest of fairness, equity and consistent adherence to stated policy."

The last four items are expected to be acted upon at the Jan. 22 Senate meeting, and the ad hoc committee spokesman predicted all would be approved.

Dr. Rothe, while saying he expected an unfavorable reaction from the faculty, said his interpretation was nevertheless necessary.

"I didn't expect to please everybody, and I'm not pleased myself. But I believe we have to do it," he said.

"By screening future probationary candidates and by applying this criteria to tenure appointees from now on, we will have the opportunity to go carefully into the next three or four years, not getting ourselves into the position where we will have to fire—or redistribute—tenured faculty members," Dr. Rothe said.

HE CITED THE CASE of Ohio University, where enrollment cutbacks have forced the administration to fire tenured faculty.

The committee spokesman said he, too, believed some restrictions will have to be applied in the future to avoid financial problems.

"There should be a much more conscientious approach to creating new positions and programs," he said. "There should also be much more thought and restraint, and I think caution, about creating new positions on probationary contracts."

But he added that he thought careful administration—without denying tenure—could help solve the problem of scarce financial resources.

Bread prices

WASHINGTON (AP) - A bakery industry prediction that the price of bread could soar to $1 a loaf by spring has been discounted by a top Agriculture Department official.

The official, Asst. Agriculture Secretary Carroll G. Brunthaver, called the prediction "an irrational statement" and said wheat would have to cost $60 a bushel for a one-pound loaf to cost $1 at the retail level.

The bakers based their claim on a forecast that the price of wheat, now at about $5.80 a bushel, would rise to $12 a bushel, primarily as a result of wheat exports to foreign nations that they said would create domestic shortages.

Phony graves

WASHINGTON (AP) - Recent intelligence reports indicate Communist troops have been ordered to prepare phony graves to lure into ambush unarmed U.S. teams searching for remains of American servicemen missing in South Vietnam.

These reports say the Communists believe the U.S. teams are really trying to spy on them and that the hunt for missing Americans is only a cover.

All searches have been halted since Dec. 15 when a U.S. Army captain was killed and four other Americans were wounded in a rocket grenade attack on a search helicopter near Saigon.

U.S. diplomat

TOKYO (AP) - A diplomat at the United States Liaison Office in Peking is leaving China because his car struck and killed a Chinese, the Liaison Office reported yesterday.

A statement issued by David Bruce, head of the U.S. mission in China, said Nicholas Platt, 37, a political officer, is preparing to leave Peking shortly on transfer to a new assignment.

Platt was not immediately available for comment.

Bruce's statement, read by a U.S.

Marine guard in an overseas phone call, said Platt was involved in an automobile accident resulting in the death of a Chinese.

FCC, AT&T

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Federal Communications Commission (FCC) has ordered an investigation into a major rate revision sought by American Telephone & Telegraph Co. (AT&T) in its leased line rates.

AT&T had sought permission to put the new rates into effect Jan. 14. But the FCC delayed the move at least until April 14 while it probes what it termed "substantial questions of lawfulness raised by the revised tariffs."

The AT&T proposal involves those lines reserved by businesses for their exclusive use. These lines generally are used for teletype or computer communications and not for telephone conversations.

The rate change was opposed by microwave transmission companies which compete with AT&T and by large news agencies, including the Associated Press.

Ohio House passes new divorce bill

COLUMBUS (AP) - The Ohio House passed yesterday and sent to the Senate a limited version of "no fault" divorce before both houses recessed for the week.

The vote was 70-18.

'Datebook' offered to viewers

WBGU-TV is now offering non-profit and civic organizations in its viewing area the opportunity to have announcements of events aired on the station.

The calendar of events, called "Community Datebook," will be aired each day at sign-off and at 3:25 p.m. Monday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday.

Items submitted for the calendar should include the name or description of the event, the sponsoring organization, date, time and place. The person submitting the item must sign it and include his address and phone number.

Announcements must be in writing, preferably on a postcard, and must be received by WBGU-TV five days before the event. WBGU-TV reserves the right to edit or reject those items which do not meet the requirements set up by the station.

All items should be sent to Community Datebook, WBGU-TV, Bowling Green, Ohio 43403.

Eliminated from the measure on the floor was a provision that would require schools to teach a course in family planning and another requiring 18-21 year olds about to get married to have counseling.

Although the bills permit partners who agree on a divorce to get one, it retains Ohio's one-partner-at-fault provision in contested cases.

In other action, the House passed two other bills and the Senate approved one. Ten bills were introduced into the House, three in the Senate.

BOTH HOUSES are to reconvene at 1:30 p.m. Tuesday.

Rep. Alan Norris (R-27 Westerville) carried the divorce reform bill on the floor. The measure was the result of a four-year legislative study that began in 1969.

It had the backing of the Ohio Bar Association and the state's domestic relations judges.

Correction

The Outreach Singers will present a concert of contemporary gospel music at 8 p.m. tomorrow in the Grand Ballroom, Union.

An 8-piece band will accompany the group. The News yesterday reported that the Gospel Choir was presenting the concert.

Norris said it represented "a middle ground between ground positions of 'no fault' divorce advocates and defenders of Ohio's one-partner-at-fault divorce laws."

No fault concepts, however, come into play when partners want a divorce or if the couple has been separated for two years.

IN THE case of extended separation, either party could apply for a divorce in a non-adversary situation. A divorce by agreement would be a "dissolution of marriage" request.

Norris called the present law, in which a couple wanting a divorce must prove one of the partners guilty of either desertion, adultery or gross neglect, "cruel, hypocritical."

New lounge occupants adjust to living quarters

By Rick Bensman

What would it be like to live in a television lounge?

"I didn't think it would be that bad, but when you live here it's a lot different," said Bill Grekian, freshman (B.A.), one of about 40 men still living in a dormitory lounge.

However, Tom Maddox, freshman (B.A.), said, "We don't mind it at all."

Grekian lives with six men in a Bromfield lounge and Maddox has three roommates in a Conklin lounge, two of the nine lounges converted into living quarters for men in need of housing.

Bill Morrison, sophomore (A&S), living in a Conklin lounge, said they are really living in two, two-man rooms.

Morrison said the wall between the rooms was knocked down when the rooms were converted into a study room, so they are getting the same amount of space as those in two-man rooms.

He said they are not overcrowded but "some guys are really hurtin' and I'm sure they want out, but we don't."

Jim Lehman, sophomore (A&S), a roommate of Morrison, said, "If six or eight were in their lounge I would feel we should have a refund but with just four of us, it's alright."

Grekian said, "If somewhat compensated financially, it would be more acceptable since we do not receive what every other student receives."

"In a two-man room," he continued, "all you have to deal with is the other person but in here you have to deal with six others."

Charles Zeller, freshman (A&S), who shares an Offenhauer lounge with five other men, said, "The guys in Rodgers (those with three men in one room) are getting $5 per week back in refund and we aren't getting anything."

Another complaint raised by some was that the letter sent by the Housing Office giving the men a choice of either living off-campus, delaying admission until spring quarter with a full refund or accepting whatever accommodations the University provided, came too late.

Grekian said, "They didn't tell us until about one and one-half weeks before we came here."

"I had already quit my job two weeks ahead of time," Grekian continued, "so it left me nothing to do but come here."

Zeller said, "I've waited long enough and couldn't get my job back. I was making good money and had already quit when I got the letter."

Concerning the choice to move off campus, Matt Swysgood, freshman (A&S), Zeller's roommate, said, "I wasn't going to move into an apartment because I didn't have any friends (at Bowling Green) to live with. I wasn't going to live by myself."

Robert G. Rudd, director of residence services, said refunds would not be granted to students living in the lounges.

Only a creative eye could capture winter's wonders frozen in such a fantastic display. These icicles, formed by drainpipe water, are almost fang-like in appearance, and will remain symbols of the season's strength, at least until warmer weather. (Newsphoto by Michael G. Grone)

Students hurt at Kent testify

CLEVELAND (AP) - A federal grand jury's secrecy-shrouded probe of a death-marred antiwar demonstration nearly four years ago turned yesterday to those wounded in the Kent State University incident.

The jurors probing the May 4, 1970, confrontation of student demonstrators and the Ohio National Guard called for testimony from a number of the nine students who were wounded during the flareup.

Meanwhile, Dr. Robert E. Matson, the man in charge of Kent State at the start of the series of demonstrations that culminated in the death of four students, recalled it as "a topic of great sadness."

Matson, former vice president of student affairs at Kent State, said before testifying to the grand jury that he hopes the jury "can come out with a complete story" when its investigation is finished.

"THERE HAVE been too many bits and pieces over the period of years," he said. "I don't think any one person that was there has the complete story."

The students were protesting U.S. military involvement in Cambodia.

Among the wounded students who said they were called to testify yesterday were John R. Cleary, 22, of Scotia, N.Y.; Donald S. MacKenzie, and Alan Canfora. All said they were sent away without a jury appearance and were told to return today.

Survey to study off-campus housing

Considering moving off-campus next year and wondering what to expect?

A survey to be conducted this quarter of students presently renting houses or apartments in Bowling Green may provide needed information.

The survey will ask off-campus students to rate their living conditions, landlord and the relationship between themselves and their landlords.

Kris Eridon, senior (B.A.) and member of the Student Housing Association, said the questionnaires will be mailed to students in the middle of the quarter.

The surveys are intended to aid students interested in finding out how off-campus students feel about their housing.

Eridon said the survey results will present the facts to students so they can decide for themselves on where they would like to live.

Battle

Falcon skaters Mike Bartley (18) and Rick Costello (20) scramble for the puck in last week's action with Western Ontario. The icers will be doing some more scrambling this weekend as they play a two-game series with arch-rival Ohio State at the Ice Arena. (Newsphoto by Joe Darwal)

Rival Bucks encounter Falcons at Ice Arena

By Mark Glover
Assistant Sports Editor

Let's begin by throwing the records right out the window. The Buckeyes are coming to town.

The Falcon skaters host their greatest rival, Ohio State, for a two-game series this weekend at the Ice Arena. In 18 meetings with OSU, Bowling Green holds a 10-8 margin in victories. The two squads split in six meetings last season.

The rivalry with the Buckeyes has always been highlighted with exciting and aggressive play, some of it a little more aggressive than the officials would like it to be. Penalties have frequented the encounters.

THE FALCONS and the OSU squad have had very similar seasons up to this point. Both have played tough schedules and both have suffered numerous losses.

BG and the Bucks have played teams that would make an impressive college hockey honor roll (Michigan Tech, Denver and Boston University). The Falcons sport an 8-12 mark while the Bucks stand 6-7-2 on the season.

The disappointing records are usually discarded in a series as intense as the BG-OSU showdown. An "adrenalin factor" must be taken into account.

Ron Mason has been experimenting all week in practice to find some additional factors to give his Falcons an edge against the scarlet and grey.

An aggressive game plan is the basic strategy with some offensive changes to bolster the attack.

DOUG ROSS will move on the line with John Stewart and Rich Nagai. Freshman Jack Laine will team up with Bob Dobek and Steve Ball to form another line.

A new trio has been formed with Mike Bartley centering for Bruce Woodhouse and converted defenseman Bob Schlitts.

Mason hopes the new lines will provide some depth in the already potent offense (Dobek, Stewart, Bartley and Ross lead the Central Collegiate Hockey Association in scoring respectively).

Mason remains unsure whether Brian Celentano, who is working to make weight, will be back in the lineup for the series.

OHIO STATE features a strong defense led by Jim Witherspoon and John Israel. Goalie Dan Stergiou has a solid reputation as top-notch puck rejector.

Freshman Bruce Allworth

leads the OSU scoring attack with 28 points so far this year.

This showdown of Ohio schools will be attended by Ohio's chief citizen, Gov. John Gilligan. It is unknown whether the governor will root for the Bucks or the Falcons. He lives in Columbus but the game is at BG.

Fans also will be able to vote for the game's most valuable player beginning Friday night. Ballots will be enclosed in the programs and fans can deposit their personal choice for the best performer in ballot boxes at the exits. Results will be released in the Wednesday edition of the News during the following week.

The Kink Rats, the hockey enthusiasts who sponsor the program, will give a special award to the top vote-getter at the end of the season.

Action will begin at 7:30 p.m. tonight and tomorrow at the Ice Arena.

Lumpkin engineers Redskins

By Kenny White
Sports Editor

After taking a glance at the Falcons' record, it would appear they are in need of a doctor.

According to this week's schedule, they have an appointment with a healer who could add more ills than comfort.

The Falcons, losers of their last three games, have an appointment with Miami, losers of its last four games in a three o'clocker at Millett Hall in Oxford.

"Doctor" Phil Lumpkin will preside as the head practitioner.

Lumpkin, probably one of the best guards in the nation as well as in the Mid-American Conference, has established a reputable practice on the basketball court, especially against the Falcons.

Last year, Lumpkin alone dealt the Falcons two league defeats while leading the Redskins to the championship. He tallied 27 points in the first meeting between the two teams and tallied 20 (16 in the second period) while pacing Miami's comeback decision in Anderson Arena.

Even though the Big Red Machine has been having their problems on the court, Lumpkin has been playing super ball from his guard position.

In a game against nationally ranked Indiana on Tuesday which the Redskins lost 71-58, Lumpkin hooped 25 points with highly rated Quinn Buckner shadowing him during the evening.

"Phil Lumpkin is an extremely complete player. He's got to be one of the best players in the nation," assistant BG hoop coach Bob Hill said after viewing his Tuesday night performance.

"I've seen them (Miami) twice this year and what they do is let Lumpkin go one-on-one if they are down and need to get back into a game," Hill pointed out.

During the first Falcon-Redskin encounter last year, Lumpkin hit nine buckets for 19 points in the first period with Jeff Montgomery defending him.

"I can't say enough about him. We'll just be glad when he graduates because I don't know of a man in our league who can stop him," Hill said.

Tomorrow's clash will be the second conference tilt for both clubs. Both teams were pre-season picks to contend for the conference crown but wound up losers in their first league encounters. BG lost to Toledo 77-59 and Miami lost to Western Michigan 72-60.

In addition to Lumpkin, Miami will start Gary Dees, Dave Elmer, Steve Fields and Rich Hampton.

The Falcons will counter with Jeff Montgomery, Kevin Brake, Skip Howard, Brian Scanlan and Mark Cartwright.

Wrestlers to entertain Miami

By Jerry Masek

A new attitude may be evident when the Bowling Green Falcon wrestling team hosts Miami at 2 p.m. tomorrow in Anderson Arena.

The Falcon matmen held a special meeting last weekend after losing to Ohio University, 25-15, senior Dave Wolfe said.

"We (the team) decided to have a meeting," Wolfe said. "Everyone on the team is getting mad because we keep losing. We decided to bear down and start pushing ourselves."

There are no captains on this year's squad, and Wolfe said the team looks to the senior lettermen for leadership.

He said no coaches attended the meeting, and at least one coachless conditioning session for the starters was held this week in the Men's Gym.

With 10 starters returning, the season outlook for the Falcons looked good, but so far BG has managed only a 3-4 mark and is 0-2 against league competition.

Falcon mat tutor Bruce Bellard acknowledged that the grapplers were working harder this week. He blamed last week's loss to Ohio University on lack of conditioning.

"We weren't ready for OU," Bellard said. "We've had more injuries this week, but that usually happens when you wrestle full go."

Bellard noted that Steve Taylor, who returned last week from a one month layoff, re-injured his knee Wednesday. He also reported that Wolfe and heavyweight John Jacquot tore shoulder muscles on the same maneuver Monday while wrestling each other.

All three are probable starters tomorrow, Bellard said.

Senior Dennis O'Neil, top BG grappler this season with a 6-0 record, will return to the lineup at 158 lbs.

O'Neil missed the OU match because of a broken nose.

Miami comes to Bowling Green after pulling a 21-15 upset over Toledo last week in a Mid-American Conference (MAC) meet. Miami boasted strength in the lower weights, winning the first five matches.

Lead-off man in the Redskins' lineup is Bob Dalton, last year's MAC champ at 126 lbs. Paul Schonauer, third at 118 lbs. last year, has moved up to 126 lbs.

Bellard noted that Miami also had a pair of strong men in the middle weights. Larry Sullivan, now at 150 lbs., finished fourth at 142 lbs., and Rick Cousino, a product of Toledo Central Catholic, at 158 lbs. Miami finished fourth in the MAC last year.

Bellard rates Miami as one of the top three teams in the MAC, along with OU and Central Michigan, and added that he is optimistic about the meet.

The Falcons' starting lineup for tomorrow's match is: 118 lbs., Tim Carnahan; 126 lbs., Bill Frazier; 134 lbs., Tom O'Neal; 142 lbs., Tom Hall; 150 lbs., Taylor; 158 lbs., O'Neil; 167 lbs., Mike Metting; 177 lbs., Dave Nieset; 190 lbs., Wolfe, and heavyweight Jacquot.

Swimmers to face OU

One point—it means the difference between victory and defeat.

For the Bowling Green swimmers, a match with Ohio University last season ended in defeat as they found themselves on the short end of a 57-56 decision.

The Falcons tankers will be out to avenge the one-point setback when they host the Bobcats at 1:30 p.m. tomorrow in the Natatorium.

"Of course, we'll have some incentive going into the meet, and I expect it to be close again," remarked BG coach Tom Stubbs.

The Falcons have a 1-1 record while Ohio is 0-2, with both losses coming on the road. This will be the third of five consecutive away meets for the Bobcats.

Stubbs will be looking towards Joe Klebowski, Dave Ryland and freshmen John Watts and Dean Ackron to continue their outstanding efforts. The veteran mentor also singled out backstroker Bill Bradburn and diver Jed Cole for the improvement they have shown.

The season's opening meet ended in a 63-50 victory for the tankers over Central Michigan, but the Falcons were the victims of a 81-32 trouncing inflicted by a strong Eastern Michigan squad in the following match.

"It will take an outstanding effort, and we will need to gain some key second and third place finishes to win," Stubbs said. "I think we can beat them."

Colorado seeks Mallory

OXFORD (AP) — The University of Colorado has reopened its negotiations to hire Miami of Ohio mentor Bill Mallory as its next football coach, a Miami athletic official said yesterday.

"I don't rule out the possibility Mallory will take the job," the Miami spokesman said. "We just haven't heard anything here yet."

Mallory, 38, who has a 39-12 record in five years at the Mid-American Conference school, at first turned down the Colorado job. One of the major stumbling blocks was the hiring of a coaching staff.

"The only way he'll go is if he can take his whole staff here," the spokesman said. He said he understood Colorado was making this concession to Mallory now.

Mallory, who has been attending the National Collegiate Athletic Association convention in San Francisco, was unavailable for comment. He is due home Friday night.

Colorado has been searching for a successor for Eddie Crowder, who will devote fulltime to the Big Eight school's athletic directorship.

Mallory, a Miami graduate, led the Redskins to the 1973 Mid-American title, a Tangerine Bowl victory over Florida and an 11-0 record, best in the school's history.

Ticket information

About 500 general admission tickets are available for the Bowling Green-Ohio State hockey games tonight and tomorrow.

Ticket sales will resume today at 9 a.m. at the Memorial Hall ticket office. A student ID ticket exchange will continue today.

Any tickets not sold by 5 p.m. today will go on sale at the Ice Arena tomorrow beginning at 6:30 p.m.

About 50 reserved seats at $2.50 each are available for each game. General admission tickets are $2 for adults and $1 for students.

Faceoff each night is 7:30.

Warfield sustains injury

HOUSTON (AP) — Paul Warfield, Miami's ace wide receiver, pulled a hamstring muscle in his right leg in practice and became a questionable quantity yesterday for Sunday's Super Bowl football game against the Minnesota Vikings.

"We can't afford to lose a player of that magnitude," lamented Dolphin Coach Don Shula at his morning news conference, making the first disclosure of an accident that happened the day before.

Warfield, a perennial All-Pro receiver, was going down on a straight pass pattern with no one near him, in a rehearsal against Minnesota defenses when he felt a stab of pain.

"I knew it was a tear or a spasm," the 10-year veteran out of Ohio State said. "It certainly dampens a guy's spirits before the big game. I hope I can get back."

Gymnastics

The Bowling Green gymnastics team will hold its first home meet of the season at 2 p.m. tomorrow in the Men's Gym.

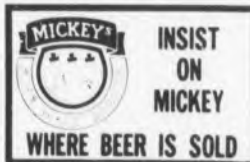

Eastern Michigan and Eastern Kentucky will supply the competition. The meet is free and open to the public.
