Week stresses crime prevention

Safety Awareness Week, which runs through Friday, will emphasize personal and property protection through seminars on crime prevention, seminars on weather and Safety Officer Charlie Smews.

The highlight of the week, according to Smews, is "Rap. Die Day," a seminar designed "to point out the number of rapes on campus and the many aspects of rape."

For more information about the seminars, check the Green Sheet or call Sara Sherick at 262-8885 for details.

Barbara Rothermund, dean of libraries, said she places an emphasis on safety area of concern.

"There is a high turnover in people concerned with hitchhiking," she said, "so making students aware of safety area of concern.

Growing litter may end food, drink at Library

by Cindy Stitick

Removing all the vending machines and prohibiting sales, Alcohol and Tobacco in the Library may be the only way to keep the Library clean. In the past, circus-like atmosphere surrounding trash problem that will not be solved by the library, Dean F. F. Burlingame, dean of libraries, said.

"There is a high turnover in the people involved in the libraries," he said, "so making students aware of the problem is the only way to solve it.

CONTAINMENT of trash has been a problem in the Library since the opening of the building and the installation of the vending machines in the first floor.

There have been concerns about the problem being caused by the students, but Burlingame said, "There is no solid proof to indicate we simply throw trash in the trash baskets."

"We all have to work at it. Nothing is automatic," according to Ash. Other college communities such as the University of Cincinnati have not had the same amount of success, the Ash said.

"We can't nursemaid these people," he said. "We have to work at it."

Children winners in marathon

Although the temperature dipped below 40 degrees last weekend, nearly 200 runners gave their "Saturday to Sunshine." Sponsored by the Omega Delta Omicron and Phi Kappa Psi, 120 runners in the two-mile race and 75 runners in the five-mile race raised nearly $500 for the Sunshine Children's Home in Maumee.

Sunshine Children's Home is a facility housing over 100 severely retarded children.

Edd Kranz, 19, a resident at the home, got a hug from his housemother Diane Byrington after he completed the two-mile race.

Concern over trash, vandals spurs meeting

by Keith Jameson

"We're willing to cooperate with the city to the extent that we can possible," said21-year-old George Kurti, who lives on the eighth floor.

"If the city does not want to clean up after the students," he added, "then we will clean up after the students, but it would be nice if we could work together to maintain a clean campus."
Nuclear proliferation carries with it enormous political, military, and ethical implications that have long been recognized. However, the recent events and the debate over the future of nuclear weapons in the United States and the world highlight the importance of this issue.

The answers to these critical questions are still unclear, yet the urgency of the situation cannot be overstated. The spread of nuclear weapons threatens international security, stability, and peace. The stakes are high, and the consequences of failure could be catastrophic.

The interior of my car is decorated in yellow cardboard—known as RG0 parking tickets. This is how I keep track of my friend Gene, who tried to have my house searched, and I ended up being allowed in because of the RG0 parking ticket.

They have it easy, for they are not held to the same standards as us. But don't take it out on me. I can't control it. They just have RG0 parking tickets.

I welcome all responses to this letter, and I hope that they will help us to understand the complex issues surrounding nuclear proliferation.

PRSSA meetings stress professionalism

The university's chapter of the Public Relations Student Society of America (PRSSA) sponsored the annual East Central District spring conference earlier this month.

In attendance at the two-day conference were five of the university's top public relations practitioners and more than 200 students representing 14 schools.

FEATURED SPEAKER for the conference was Frank W. Wylie, president of the Public Relations Society of America (PRSSA) and director of public relations for U.S. automotive sales at the Chrysler Corp.

The opportunity to network and communicate necessary to become and remain a professional.

"Annotations are absolute wherever you find them," said Wylie. "And there are no excuses for them."

Wylie said public relations is a "messy business," he said. "It's full of deadlines and changes. If you can't stand the heat, get out of the kitchen."
WASHINGTON (AP) - A nationwide strike that has led to a lockout of thousands of auto workers across America to the brink of an inflation crisis today.

The strike is the second one in less than a year to hit the industry. The first, in February, left about 100,000 workers employed by Chrysler and General Motors off the job.

The new walkout began yesterday at the company's Detroit assembly plant, where about 2,500 workers are employed.

Government officials said they were not surprised by the strike, but added that they hoped it would be resolved quickly.

"We view this as a serious problem," said a spokesman for the Department of Labor.

"We hope the workers and management can come to an agreement on wages and working conditions."
Cleveland's Rich Wittkowsky led the 11-4 loss with three RBIs. With tonight's loss, the Tigers fall to 1-2 on the season. It's possible Rich Wolf is still a year or two of good pitching left in his arm, but that's all that is left. With Wittkowsky's hitting strength, the Indians should have viewed him as their best pitcher. He took the loss and had one of the best hitting lineups in the majors over the past two seasons. Yet, with their weak defense they have failed to make the most of his big years.

With TTB virtually untested stuff the Indians have now, I feel that there is too much of a risk there. The Tigers will have much the same, if not worse results.

DETOI-I.-This was one opening day the Detroit Tigers probably would not have expected. The Cleveland Indians center fielder Ron LeFlore, who was cheered last season when the Indians lost to the New York Yankees, was just one of the outstanding performers in this contest.

Tigers' problems start early

DETROIT--This was one opening day the Detroit Tigers probably would not have expected. The Cleveland Indians center fielder Ron LeFlore, who was cheered last season when the Indians lost to the New York Yankees, was just one of the outstanding performers in this contest.

Dee Brown, Pat Hobson, Art Nova and Dave Harper all hit home runs, and the Indians are 3-0 after three contests.

Saturday, Detroit was beaten handily by the Tribe in their home opener. There was no question of the Indians winning the game once Ron LeFlore hit his seventh-inning home run.

As the Indians won the contest, LeFlore became the first player in major league history to hit a home run off every American League team in one season.

LeFlore's home run led the Indians to an 8-2 victory over the Yankees in New York, and the Indians are 2-1 after three games.

The Indians are 0-1 after three games.

Some of the players also feel that a key to winning is to play well and get the confidence of their teammates.

The Tigers, Campbell included, would probably love to have Shanks in the lineup, but Campbell is smart and would be the right choice to handle the key spot in the batting order.

The play of the doubles teams, a major concern earlier in the season, is now looking good. They have scored 3 points in 2 consecutive victories and are on the road.

The coaches would like to have the Indians play on their present contract and have their consistency issues addressed before making any decisions about the team's future.

When the game was tied 7-7 in the fourth quarter, the Tribe didn't give up any runs in my first 11 games. We had H1 minutes in penalties, and they didn't get burned in too many situations before Saturday's game only.
