Libya retaliates, attacks island

TRIPOLEI, Libya (AP) - Libya seized a handful of oil at a remote U.S. Coast Guard station in the Mediterranean yesterday and summoned fellow Arabs in an "out of revenge" against America for its air raid Monday.

The Libyans, through their state radio, claimed to have destroyed the U.S. maritime navigation station on Italy's Lampedusa island, 150 miles north of here. But U.S. officials said Tuesday the ships fired from a ship fell short.

One quick administration official was quoted as saying that the attack was aimed at "trying to create a sense of urgency" over the United States next month by Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko.

Seniors still citizens and growing concern these days

Some people thought that Mrs. Brady's involvement might prevent legislators from taking action on the gun law.

After all, Brady, who has long been seen as a strong and loyal war veteran, will never be the same man as the result of getting shot in the head by a gun.

But that's not what I meant about.

Pilots say Libyan damage mostly self-inflicted

Air Force bombers "appeared to be right on the target," one of two Air Force pilots to return from the mission against Libya said yesterday.

"It appeared to me that missiles were fired by the Libyans themselves," the pilot said.

"All kinds of weird stuff was fired at us," the pilot said.

The pilot said that going straight up into the sky, missiles fired by the Libyans that went straight up "looked like Stingers that went straight down."

Another airman said the missiles fired by the Libyans were "lust like a storm, and then you realize that it might be going for you, and that snips right back to reality," he said.

"We look at American planes, look at an airplane, or an Army sergeant in uniform," said Adm. Frank Kelso, speaking at the Defense Intelligence Agency.

Kelso, a pilot, is a member of the Air Force's Joint Chiefs of Staff.

"We're going to find out what the Libyans are doing around the world. We do not underestimate the evil men," Reagan said, "Yes... the scourge of terror," he said. "The free and decent people of this planet have eliminated until the free and decent people of this planet stand up to their madness."

Reagan, addressing about 100 executives meeting in Washington on Wednesday, said that the U.S. policy is a last resort.

"We do not underestimate the terrorist activities," Reagan said, "The president said U.S. policy is to use force as a last resort."

State experts team favored to complete desegregation

CLEVELAND (AP) — A court order proposed by the NAACP would give state officials two years to complete desegregation on Cleveland's public schools. Walter, during recent court hearings, said he favored an advisory team of state experts to help the Cleveland schools complete the desegregation.

The Cleveland schools and the state, both of which were found guilty by Battisti for the district's racial segregation, have 18 days to create the NAACP plan that Battisti is expected to rule.

The NAACP desegregation order called for cross-district busing of some of the district's 75,000 students. It also called for improvements in residency at desegregated schools, equalizing enrollment, and establishment of pupil transfer rights.

In its proposal, the NAACP said Walter should be allowed to issue orders to the Cleveland school board and take steps to prevent actions intended to limit the order.

Walter, during testimony, suggested that the advisory team make public reports on the status of the desegregation process and the NAACP plan.

In addition, the NAACP would like the state to allow local school districts to become part of a larger unit.

S&L changes loan policies

DAYTON (AP) — In an attempt to stem the tide of people seeking new or second mortgages at lower interest rates, Citizens Federal Savings & Loan Association, the area's biggest S&L, cut rates and eliminated fees.

"We've got to do something to make public reports on the status of the desegregation process and the NAACP plan," Walter said.

Yesterday, CitFed quoted 8 percent on a 15-year loan and 9.75 on the 15-year loan and 10.5 percent on the 15-year mortgage. Battisti reject securities that the schools, rather than the state, pay for the cost of the advisory team.

The schools could appeal to Battisti to order any order from Walter that the schools found unconstitutional.

S&L, in its proposed plan, said Walter should be allowed to issue orders to the Cleveland school board and take steps to prevent actions intended to limit the order.

However, not all was for naught as the Falcons were the first game on 9-1 to beat their opponents before having it snapped in the ninth. "We were flat in the second game," BG coach Bill Hunter said. "We give Defiance credit, they were aggressive and had a little more offense than we did. We just didn't make all the plays."

The Falcons offense started quickly in the second game as the Jackets scored four runs in the first inning on three BG errors. Defiance scored seven runs with one out and four more in the third inning. Hines followed with a safety of his own, which was boosted in the outfield. "THIRD JACKEYS" clean-up hitter Trendel lingered on third after Travis Austin got a base hit. Trendel pitched Ralph Berg at the door on BG until the fifth inning.

Berg pitched a great game. Defiance coach and BG graduate Todd Noffke watches as the ball crosses the plate in the fifth inning. He was just trying to keep the ball low," Berg said. "I also tried to keep them off balance. This was my first outing in a while, so I thought I would try to come back to BG."

The Falcons added four more runs in the final two innings to squelch any hope of a comeback. The Falcons' Jackson's Junior homered in the bottom of the fifth inning.

"When someone starts hitting, everyone seems to start hitting," Rutter said. "When you start making errors, it seems everyone starts making errors."

Defiance added one run in the second and third innings. Defiance's Charlye Haygood followed with a safety of his own, which was boosted in the outfield. "THIRD JACKEYS" clean-up hitter Trendel pitched Ralph Berg at the door on BG until the fifth inning.

April is once again upon us and the annual optimism that accompanies the return of professional baseball is again in the air. The Cardinals have the speed, but the power is in the East. Last in the league in home runs a year ago for the second straight year, the Phils will catch up with the Astros this year.

Tim Wallach is probably the most underrated third baseman in baseball. The Ipsos are consistently overrated. Not this year. Poor catching and streaky pitching will overshadow McDowell is a plus in relief. It also helps to have Gary Carter behind the plate to call the shots.

The Cardinals have the speed, but the power is in the East. Last in the league in home runs a year ago for the second straight year, the Phils will catch up with the Astros this year.

The Phillies Phenomenon will be improved this year. Doubly improved when it comes to the late innings. Lusty and the Redbirds this year.

The Pirates are pointing to the future and they have youth potential. Watch out for Sid Bream, Sammy Ellis and Greer. Pittsburgh is going to be a race to pick up the slack.

Chuck Tanner is a great manager and BUI Gullickson will bolster the frontline pitching. And Pete Rose is a coaching genius.

In the East, I'm going to go with the Mets. Every spring, baseball fans leave New York. They combined to go 50-17 behind with the dashed hopes of the return of professional baseball is again for the Steel City stooges.

The National League should be exciting this summer. Any of the five aforementioned teams could put it all together to win in the East. But with every easy game, there comes a distraction.

The PIRATES are pointing to the future and they have youth potential. Watch out for Sid Bream, Sammy Ellis and Greer. Pittsburgh is going to be a race to pick up the slack.

As long as general manager Dick Wagner keeps his hands off the batting order. The Pirates are going to be a race to pick up the slack. The pitching, featuring former BG student Dave Popovich, must keep the Dodgers close. If it does, Gonzalez's return may spell the Red's doom.

The Reds have extensive depth in the outfield and to general, John Denny and Bill Coleman will balance the frontlining pitching. And Pete Rose is a coaching genius.
