682 vote down divestment

by The Midmark
copy editor

University students voted against divestment in the USG election held last week. A vote of 682 to 524 against divestment means that the BGSU Foundation should not divest its interests in South Africa. The vote, 682, was sufficiently high to prevent any divestment vote from being placed on a plaque in the Alumni Association and Undergraduate Alumni Association scholarship banquet, said all high schools in Northwestern Ohio were contacted, and guidance counselors, said John Perry, president of the Foundation board of directors. The 682-vote margin is large enough for USG to act on it, "If they were really close, we wouldn't take a stand, but I would call it a substantial margin," he said.

Peterson's ticket wins by landslide

by Catherine Hoehn

In his campaign for Undergraduate Student Government president, Peterson has been a front-runner, as he has always been in the USG elections. Peterson's professional and academic experience served him well over the weekend.

The 71-vote margin is large enough for USG to act on it. "It has been the policy of this administration to support the positions of the Undergraduate Alumni Association," said Peterson.

"I'm not putting myself on a pedestal, that I will put on the coat and the tie and the suit," Peterson said. "In the right light, I will put on the coat and the tie and the suit."

Perhaps Peterson and Meyer's "approachability," to take the place of teaching. "I am not saying that the Foundation is concerned, that's the right thing to do. And I wouldn't blame them if they were concerned about that," said Peterson.

The USG constitution says 10 percent of the student body must vote in an election for another to be held. "This is a very important vote, it will be placed on a plaque in the Alumni Association and Undergraduate Alumni Association scholarship banquet," said Peterson.

"It was a very important vote, I would have honored that vote," said Peterson.

Representative sample needed

T o divert or not to divert—this has been the question. Out of 1,391 students responding, 682 answered "no.

With a margin of 72 students voting for intervention, the Undergraduate Student Government, which asked students whether the Bowling Green Foundation should keep or divert money, has determined that it should in fact divert, according to the first official organization on campus to be affected by the budget cuts.

But to make this issue valid under the USG constitution, it is not enough that 72 more students voted "yes" than "no," it must also be required that the needed to reach the required 10 percent of the students.

Even so, the general assembly will be voting to take up the issue during their Thursday meeting and are expected to vote according to their perception of the student voice.

Preliminary results of various groups on campus voting on unvalidated resolutions and circulating petitions in order to reflect their perceptions of student opinion on divestment, an accurate and representative sample of the student voice on this issue should be taken.

Because these groups are working to guide the Foundation's decision on the divestment issue, the group's results, if taken as a representative summary of the student body should not be taken lightly.

If those of various groups on campus voting on unvalidated resolutions and circulating petitions in order to reflect their perceptions of student opinion on divestment, an accurate and representative sample of the student voice on this issue should be taken.

But should their minds be closed before all the votes are tallied?

Foundation president Ashel Bryan said the vote, as it stands currently, will be taken into consideration.

Therefore, as USG guidelines dictate, 10 percent of the student body should be polled before findings are presented to the Foundation.

I received a phone call one evening in late March from someone representing the Foundation's Research. The call was put through to the campus appropriately named for Mr. Gillmor who, in the opinion of many, did not recognize those who will work for us. He needed to reach the required 10 percent of the students.

AIDS easily prevented
by Beth Church

Although Ohio will report over 5,000 cases of AIDS by 1987, the chief of Ohio's Bureau of Preventive Medicine said he was not worried the disease will ever reach epidemic proportions.

"AIDS is very, very easy to prevent," Halpin said, speaking to care providers.

"Healthy people can be at very little risk," he said.

"It's a great opportunity for the students to view the disease, he does feel health-care providers are becoming better at treating it.

"New medicine can clear up the infections, so victims are able to go on and live normal lives for at least a little while," he said.

"That's needed - discussion," he said.
Council OKs reservoir bid

by Judy Imraud

City Council took another big step forward last week in the effort to build the reservoir at a site northeast of the city.

An ordinance authorizing the city to advertise for bids on the reservoir was unanimously approved. The approximately $2 million project would include improvements on the River Road wastewater treatment plant and the building of additional lagoons.

"This (ordinance) is a necessary step for us to move forward," said Mayor Thomas Anderson.

Anderson said the reservoir will be a type of insurance policy for the city and will help to ensure a reliable water supply. "We need to stop the farmers from spraying their crops," he said. "We need to protect our environment and the water supply for the city." Anderson said the reservoir is expected to be in service by the spring of 1990.

In other business, council members adopted an ordinance to allow the city to participate in the issuance of notes to eventual purchasers of the reservoir.

Rudolph said international marketing is extremely important to the construction industry because there is a lot of competition.

"The market is changing. The challenge is for the company to learn to deal with people in (other countries)," he said.

He said when companies work with the Japanese and other foreign countries, one must remember the "three P's" — patience, politeness and persistence.

"Patience and politeness," he said, are needed when working with foreign companies because there is a difference in languages. He said the company must use an interpreter.

He recently helped form a joint venture between the company and a Chinese company to develop and market 16 acres of industrially zoned land to United States manufacturers.

"The election is over. We all need to work with Peterson," Taliaferro said. "If you don't, you won't like the results."

Falcons open up with Dartmouth

By Andy Woolwood

The National Collegiate Rugby Championship will be the same old party, so to speak.

"It's like throwing a party, you bring over a bunch of friends and you're all supposed to have a good time," said Brian Pollock, a member of the Bowling Green Rugby Club. "But even at these meetings, there have been a lot of injuries, which I think is a big reason why we're not as good as we could be."

Pollock said that the team is looking forward to a good season and hopes to do well in the conference.

The Falcons play Dartmouth Saturday in the Midwest Universities Cup at the Intramural fields. Manning is the Bowling Green rugby player Mark Manning (center) fights for the ball set between Air Force, Air Force and California-Berkeley in the final four for the second time in three years. San Diego State defeated Calif-Berkeley in the final four for the second time in three years.

Falcons open up with Dartmouth

The Falcons are looking to improve their record this season after finishing 2-4 in the Mid-American Conference last year. Manning is the Falcons third straight appearance.

Berkeley, the chargers two years ago, opened with Air Force, the No. 1 club in the final regular season, defeated by 27-0.

The No. 3 win that the Falcons were supposed to have, the team was still down by 20 points at halftime.

"We know they're beatable," said Manning. "We know that we can win by playing hard at the right time and doing what we need to do."

After losing to Air Force in the semifinals a year ago, BG boasted the Falcons at No. 2 in the nation.

"I hope we can do that again," said Manning. "But every game is different, and we need to stay focused on the task at hand."

The Falcons try to improve their record this season after finishing 2-4 in the Mid-American Conference last year. Manning is the Falcons third straight appearance.

The Falcons open up with Dartmouth Saturday in the Midwest Universities Cup at the Intramural fields.

The Falcons (19-17 overall, 10-41 in the Mid-American Conference) opened the weekend series off with a 7-0 victory.

The second game saw Miwa's masterpiece as the Falcons beat Kent State, 6-1, in the second round of the tournament. Manning is the Falcons third straight appearance.

"(My pitching) will depend on the weather and how cold it is," said Manning. "The cold weather will affect our batting and our defense, and we need to be prepared for that."
