Lucasville riot death toll rises

The Associated Press

LUCASVILLE, Ohio - The death toll at a besieged maxi- mum-security prison rose to 10 on Tuesday when an inmate was found dead in a cell near where hundreds of prisoners and eight hostages were barricaded.

A guard on routine patrol at the Southern Ohio Correctional Facility found the body in a cell in the K cellblock, on the south side of the 69-acre prison complex.

The unit is linked by a corridor to the L cellblock, where 450 prisoners have been barricaded since a scuffle among a few prisoners escalated into a riot Sunday.

Tessa Unwin, a spokeswoman for the Ohio Department of Rehabilitation and Correction, said the inmate was killed or committed suicide. Six other inmates have died since the siege began.

Prison officials said inmates killed the six men, all of whom had been beaten.

She said no way could the prisoner have been attacked by one person "apparently recent" but would give no other details.

The K cellblock was designed to hold 600 prisoners. About 221 prisoners from the barricaded cellblock were moved there Sunday after they told prison officials they did not want to participate in the siege.

The rest of the prisoners' 1,593 inmates, including death row inmates, were in cells away from the affected area of the prison, about 70 miles south of Columbus.

Negotiators were not encour-aged to speak with the barricaded prisoners, who said they wanted to speak with the barricaded prisoners, who said they wanted to speak with prison guards being held hostage.

The prison guards have reported a parallel upURNING of the facility's permits. The administration, which they say made a campaign promise to stop WTI, administration to shut WTI down.

EAST LIVERPOOL, Ohio - Operators of a hazardous-waste incinerator on Tuesday corrected problems that the plant entered its first full day of limited commercial operations.

The Waste Technologies Industries Incinerator is an example for limited commercial operation Monday by the Ohio Environmental Protection Agency. The comments begin about 10 p.m. Monday.

Plant managers said Tuesday the plant was performing well and will operate on a 24-hour basis.

The incinerator is burning such wastes as asbestos, oil residues and paint-related waste. More wastes will arrive soon, Zelik said.

"We've made lots of contacts with people who will be sending waste here, and probably by the end of the week there should be more than enough to stream of trucks coming in," he said.

Last fall, opponents of the plant tried to disrupt shipments of waste by demonstrating outside the plant gates. Zelik said he doesn't know whether opponents would try a similar tactic now.

WASHINGTON - U.S. troops could be sent to Haiti to pro-vide counterinsurgency if the country democracy is restored to the Caribbean nation mired in political and economic turmoil, Pentagon officials said Monday, speaking on condition of anonymity.

"This isn't a way to go," said one senior Pentag-ın official. "It would only work with the Haitian's ap-proval."

"They need a lot of help. They need to get their police, their military, get every-thing back in shape," another official said.

Conditions in Haiti, one of the world's poorest nations, have deteriorated even further under the strain of a hemi-sphere-wide trade embargo imposed after the military ousted the democratically elected President Jean-Bertrand Aristide in September 1991. Human rights groups have reported a parallel upURNING in military repression.

President Clinton has pledged a determined effort to reconstitute Aristide and has said a $500 million, five-year aid package can be ini-tiated in the event of 6 million people once that happens.

"National trends show that cen-sors centers have been growing for the last decade and more likely will continue to grow," he said.

A Jan Brady fan found coverage of the actress' speech offensive. This writer, Mary Katharine Okorn, must not be a "Brady fan," I was just as excited before the speech as any other fan would be. I think it was a huge oversimplification to say that Plumb talked about "dumbing down the American educational system." The majority of Americans to break from a profit-driven system of health services. Shouldn't we ask ourselves how many millions of children will die this year because they are not told that quality health care isn't a human right.

My friends all fell in the same category. Finally, you should be honored if Plumb thought you were a "Brady fan" because she beat the pants off people who thought of her as a "Brady bum."" You don't have to be a "Brady bum" to get your kids to the movies.

I thought Plumb's lecture was a lot more interesting than Martin Luther King's "I Have A Dream." Because I'm a "Brady manic," I have an hour before the lecture started and obtained second row seats. I thought her lecture was very entertaining. Everyone else I talked to enjoyed it, too. Students at the University, addressing Mary, should appreciate what Plumb traveled all the way to a rural town in Ohio, just to speak to college students.

Mary, maybe you will appreciate Plumb's visit more after you take the same WERE at 4:45 a.m. Then, you will view "Brady Bums" reverse.

Senate approves bill

The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, Ohio - The Senate on Tuesday voted to modernize services for the mentally retarded and eliminate some red tape for companies that bear the extra expense for certifying corporations that employ certified public accountants.

Sen. Gary Blackney, R-Clay, said most big corporations employ certified public accountants and the requirement is no problem for them. But many are privately held "home-grown Ohio companies" that bear the extra expense for certification, he said.

Furthermore, the Senate sent to the House a bill that would authorize state reimbursement for changing client needs. It also extends programs to prioritize waiting lists based on changing client needs. It also expands programs that qualify for state reimbursements for providing services to students with mental retardation.

The votes in the restored Senate Office Building, which was restored at a cost of $15 million, were made in the Senate Office Building, which was restored at a cost of $15 million.

The offices will be permanently located in the century-old building that is now connected to the Statehouse by an atrium.

Sen. Grace Drake, R-Solon, said most big corporations employ certified public accountants and the requirement is no problem for them. But many are privately held "home-grown Ohio companies" that bear the extra expense for certification, she said.

Earlier this week, senators completed moving their offices in the century-old building that is now connected to the Statehouse by an atrium. The offices will be permanently located in the structure, which was restored at a cost of $15 million.

Opposition disappointed about landfill expansion

The Associated Press

OREGON, Ohio - Opponents of a plan to expand a hazardous waste landfill said Tuesday they are angry that the Ohio Environmental Protection Agency rescinded a permit to expand the facility.

"This is disappointing. Very disappointing," said Judy Janga, an environmental activist and member of Hazardous Environments Leaks Prevention, a group fighting the landfill's expansion.

"The information didn't show anything substantially different from data already on the record," he said. Oregon Clerk-Auditor Sandy Bilin said she was discouraged by the decision.

"I don't understand how Schwedagard could find that the tests don't mean anything," she said.

Opponents were hoping disclosure of the tests would stop the project.

The Ohio Supreme Court refused to consider its original decision if there were sand seams in the new waste pit. He said the board originally rejected the permit because it was sure of the tests would stop the project. It had examined the report.

"I don't understand how Schwedagard could find that the tests don't mean anything," she said.

Opponents were hoping disclosure of the tests would stop the project.

The board approved the expansion in May 1991, reversing an earlier decision. A year later, the Ohio Supreme Court refused to hear the city's appeal.

Without the permit, Envirosafe would have run out of landfill space as early as this year and would have been forced to close.

Former board member Richard Sakari said he had heard the board never knew Envirosafe conducted tests that showed large sand seams in the new waste pit. He said the sand seams could cause waste to spread to Lake Erie tributaries.

He said the board originally rejected the permit because it was sure of the tests would stop the project. It had examined the report.
Report on prisoners denied by Vietnam

The Associated Press

NANJING, Vietnam - Vietnam denied today unceremoniously any list of prisoners of war held by the U.S. and accused journalists of seeking persons missing in Vietnam.

The Associated Press was told by a Vietnamese official today that the original report of the Associated Press last week was a fabrication.

"This is a pure fabrication, and we completely reject it," said Tran Van Tu, deputy director of Vietnam's official agency in charge of searching persons missing in the war. Tran's office works with U.S. government representatives to resolve the fate of Americans still missing in Vietnam.

Nguyen Quoc Phong, acting director of the American Department at Vietnam's Ministry of Foreign Affairs, also called the document a fabrication.

Phong said he suspected the document was created by exiles who oppose the restoration of diplomatic relations between the United States and Vietnam.

Drive-by gunman terrorizes capital

WASHINGTON - Residents of a neighborhood still recovering from civil disorder two years ago say they feel like hostages in their homes because of a drive-by shooting in progress.

In each case a drive-by attacker has remained at night inside a 10-block area of town homes, small shops and ethnic restaurants. The area has an abundance of back alleys and an abundance of off-duty police officers who feel like hostages in their own homes.

"We are afraid to go out of our houses not only at night but also in the daytime," said Blaine Simons, 25. "It's like our freedom of movement is being taken away until the police decide to catch whoever it is that is terrorizing our neighborhood. People are beginning to feel desperate. Valenzuela’s return to baseball a special one

The Associated Press

ARLINGTON, Texas — Fernando Valenzuela said Monday he is returning to the major leagues after a one-year absence with a new pop in his belly and a sense with new pop in his appearance for the Orioles on Friday night when he came out of the bullpen. He pitched a 1-2-3 seventh in a 4-4 loss to the Seattle Mariners.

It was Valenzuela’s first major league appearance since July 12, 1991, when, as a member of the California Angels, he lost 8-2 to the Milwaukee Brewers and was managed to score one run neat a month later.

Valenzuela’s major league career appeared over two years ago. The Los Angeles Dodgers released him in March 1991, after he was 13-3 with a 4.29 ERA in 1990. The Angels released him after he was 0-2 with a 12.15 ERA in two tests for his effectiveness to bounce back against non-conference for Wright State.

"Andy Tracy pitched an outstanding game for us," said Falcon head coach Danny Schmitz.

The freshman right-hander from Bowling Green pitched six strong innings, allowing only four hits and one run earned. He struck out seven Cardinals and walked two.

Tracy had to be at his best be-cause the Falcons struggled to cause the Falcons to struggle to

"I think right now is harder because a lot of people are expect-ing a lot from me," he said. "But that will mean a little more pres-sure. When you're a rookie, you're coming up and nobody expects you, if you're doing good or doing bad.

The story of the second game was Falcon freshman Andy Tracy, who made his first colle-giate appearance. Up to now, Tracy had been more well-known for his hitting exploits, but if he continues pitching as he did on Tuesday, that will soon change.

"Andy Tracy pitched an out-standing game for us," said Schmitz.

The Falcons next scheduled home game is April 20 against Valparaiso. The date will be announced later.
