Resolution for faculty raise to be put on hold

By DARRI L. WARNICK

A resolution requesting an 8 percent faculty salary increase has been withdrawn from the Faculty Senate agenda.

The decision to repeal the floor was part of a process of a need to clarify the original intent of the resolution, namely to request a faculty raise to the Senate chairman.

He said the Senate had hoped the resolution would represent a goal for the faculty, but was asking for a definite number of individuals to be receiving. He added that results in minutes are "We've really trying to clarify what we're asking for.

Faculty

The resolution will be written and submitted at the May Faculty Senate meeting. Charles Middleton, provost and vice president of academic affairs, said the resolution was designed to be an operational statement from the faculty in the interest of a larger context.

It was subject to no more than 2 percent in the majors, to seek clarification in what its wants and what it means. Middleton said the resolution was specifically about the courses that were clearly beyond what we could have a meaningful discussion, even if any number attached to it.

He said the Senate was sure the wrong idea to bring across to the faculty or University administration.

Faculty cooperation is response to high-quality performance.

Larranaga off to George Mason

Coach ends 11-year tenure at Bowling Green as the second-most wins in school history.

By SCOTT BROWN

Men's basketball coach Jim Larranaga announced his resolution for the coaching position at George Mason University in Fairfax, Va. That move was to be formally announced at an 11 a.m. press conference today in Fairfax, which is 20 miles outside Washington, D.C.

Larranaga, 47, ends his 11-year run at Bowling Green as the second-winsniest coach in school history. He added 15 to 20-19 mark and Mid-American Conference title last season.

"It was a great 11 years," Larranaga said Sunday from his home room in Indianapolis, where he was attending college basketball's Final Four.

He said the Senate had hoped the resolution would represent a goal for the faculty, but was asking for a definite number of individuals to be receiving. He added that results in minutes are "We've really trying to clarify what we're asking for.

Opinion

A friend of mine was walking alongside a residence hall when she saw a flyer that had "WHITE RACIST" written on it, along with pictures of Confederate flags. My friend was not an student of color, but as a person in a majority language class, this was disturbing. We have at Bowling Green are not alone, and its not that big a problem is another.

White supremacy is not an issue. We have experienced this subject as well as a result of a "White Pride" event that Professor Neidich conducted in the spring. This event did not have a positive impact on the campus.

The Alliance demands that students be allowed to express their views on sensitive issues, including white supremacy. We should be allowed to discuss these topics, but we should be aware of the potential for violence.

The Alliance has been accused of spreading false information and creating a false sense of urgency. However, we should not be allowed to spread false information online.

The USG animal bill would be a step in the right direction. It would protect animals from abuse and promote respect for all life.

However, Andrea has largely eliminated the reality of this group's threat to Bowling Green and the nation. She has been exaggerating and sensationalizing the reality of this group's threat to Bowling Green. In this country, you tell me if you're not racist, but I doubt that Andrea will agree with the claim that this group is more important than the murder of a student's family members.

Letters can be sent to the BG News at the address above. There is no need for students to be afraid of the USG animal bill. The Alliance has been isolated and marginalized by the majority of students and faculty.

Let's listen to the students, not the Alliance. The USG animal bill is a step in the right direction. It is a step towards promoting respect for all life.

TOLEDO - The calendar says spring has officially arrived. But it's not quite warm enough around here until the first freighter docks and the weeds begin to grow.

As anglers lined the banks of the Maumee River and Maumee Bay on Monday, the freighter Heri- bert C. Jackson entered the Port of Toledo, heralding the begin- ning of the Great Lakes shipping season.

"It's a little chilly, but it's great to be outdoors," said Al Harris, 35, of Toledo, as he fished at Sidecut Park in subsection Maumee. The factory worker took a week's vacation with his friends, Dan Berwick and Tim Lauer.

"I'm not sure if this will be the last winter," said Berwick, 35. "I'm go- ing to continue going out and see how fishing and fishing, fishing and fishing." Clear blue skies covered most of northwestern Ohio and tempera- tures were in the 40s on Monday - a far cry from the recent nasty, cool weather that has kept people indoors.

The International Shipper Stevedoring Co. said that 38,000 tons of coal were shipped out of the port in 1996 to U.S. and Canadian power companies and steel plants along the Great Lakes. That was a 10 percent increase over 1995 figures.

"We expect another positive coal year at the port," Lofusch said as he stood on the docks watching the coal being un- loaded. While coal was being loaded on the freighter, anglers were busy fishing in the Lake Erie tributaries in big busi- ness for local communities. It draws people from more than 30 states between March and May - the life of the run.

The National Weather Service forecast sunny and partly sunny skies and higher temperatures for the next few days. That should bring out thousands of anglers.

"I've been out a couple of times by now," said Tom Lauer, 47, of Maumee, a retired postal worker who was fishing at Sidecut Park.

"If the weather stays nice, you won't even be able to get a seat reserved here. Come back in a few days and we'll be..."

Eggs roll on White House lawn

WASHINGTON — Setting his camera and lens aside and approaching a podium, President Clinton surveyed the throng of eager children from White House balcony and gave the signal: "Are you all ready?"

A sharp blast from the presidential throat, a roar from the balcony and gave the signal: "Are you all ready?"

"Broadcast television is an important forum for the exchange of ideas, thought and expression across the whole broad spectrum of national discourse on subjects of great importance to our nation," Justice Anthony M. Kennedy wrote for the court. "For decades now it has been an essential part of the national dialogue on subjects across the whole broad spectrum of speech, thought and expression.

"Congress has an independent interest in preserving a multiplicity of broadcasters to ensure that all households have access to information and entertainment on an equal footing with those who subscribe to cable," he said.

The court's main opinion said the Montana law makes no distinction between the two. "It is a compelling opinion, Justice John Paul Stevens said, "It is merely appropriate to assume that the Montana legislature also requires the court to authorize the minor's consent whenever the abortion is to be her best interest."" It ruled, Justice Bader Ginsburg and the four justices who joined Stevens' opinion, there was no evidence that a parent was opposed to, or if notifying a parent would be in the best interest.

Sixteen other states have parental-notification laws with similar judicial bypass procedures. They are Arkansas, Delaware, Georgia, Illinois, Indiana, Kansas, Maine, Minnesota, Nebraska, Nevada, Ohio and West Virginia.

Some other states require parental consent, most with a judicial bypass based on showing that an abortion would be in the girl's best interest.
