According to campus police, the concert was cancelled because only 25 percent of the tickets were sold. Why should any of the students care since they weren't buying tickets anyway? Besides, it's the University's fault anyway, bringing in a non-top-40 band and expecting students to go. Spike Lee can't jump around. I think any Hanson could beat up both They Might Be Giants. Laziness: the plague of our generation

Jud Laiply

As a senior citizen on the Bowling Green State University campus, I have been repeatedly asked to fill out surveys and forms to rate the instructors employed by BGSU. My personal favorites are the ones that state that you have to tell the students that you have to do the work. I have never heard of a teacher who would not be upset at a ticket. Never in my life am I more irri-

Germany unveils Kosovo peace plan

BRUSSELS, Belgium — In a bid to bring peace to Kosovo, Germany unveiled a plan yesterday, calling for a one-day sus- pension of activities in Yugoslavia. President Slobodan Milosevic, began withdrawing troops from the province. European Union leaders, however, set the idea aside in favor of a similar initia- tive by U.N. Secretary-General Kofi Annan.

There was no indication that Milosevic would agree to any of the proposals.

German Chancellor Gerhard Schroeder, current president of the 15-nation European Union, convened a special EU summit earlier this week to discuss Kosovo. But the German plan was not directly addressed. Instead, the EU leaders united behind a five-point U.N. initiative announced Friday.

"The heads of state and gov- ernment reiterated their determi- nation not to tolerate the killings and deportations in Kosovo and believe that the use of the sever- est measures, including military action, has been both necessary and warranted," Schroeder said.

Eleven of the EU’s 15 mem- bers are also members of NATO, which has been boosted Yugoslavia to cripple Serbia’s ability to crack down on ethnic Albanians who have been fighting for independence.

The EU leaders said Annan’s five points summed up the demands of the international community.

"The leaders stressed ‘it is now time to the Yugoslav authorities to fully accept the international demands and begin immediately with their implementation,’" Schroeder said.

The EU, he said, will continue to support a political settlement based on the agreement negoti- ated at Rambouillet, France, in February — signed by the Kos- ovo Albanians and rejected by the Serbs. He said the EU was pre- pared to run the interim adminis- tration of Kosovo under such a plan.

Pakistan tests nuclear warhead missile

The Associated Press

ISLAMABAD, Pakistan — Pakistan tested its newest ballistic missile Wednesday, a weapon capable of carrying a nuclear warhead, officials said, in a test that could set off an escalating arms race in South Asia.

Pakistan's foreign minister said the test was not a surprise, with analysts anticipating Pakistan's new weapon would be similar in range and payload to India's Agni II.

The Ghauri II was launched from Balakot, a town near the western border with India, and the test was greeted with controversy by the United States and other nations as news spread of the missile test.

The White House on Wednesday said the missile test could "trigger a new arms race in Asia." It said the missile testing could cause instability in the region.

"The missile testing could be detrimental to peace and stability in the region," the statement said.

Pakistan is an official opponent of India's Agni II and said it tested its newest ballistic missile, the Ghauri II, in an advanced version of a previously tested missile that has a range of 1,240 miles, making it the longest-range missile in Pakistan's arsenal, they said.

It can carry a payload of 2,300 pounds of two conventional or nuclear warheads.

The governments of both Pakistan and India have tried to outdo each other in nuclear missile tests, and the Ghauri II has a range of about the same range and payload capacity as Pakistan's Ghauri II.

Pakistan's military has said the Ghauri II has a range of 1,240 miles, making it the longest-range missile in Pakistan's arsenal.

India has also conducted a series of missile tests, and analysts have said India's Agni II missile could now reach Pakistan.

Track dominates meet

By PETE STELLA

Sterling Martin

Men's track coach

"I was really pleased with the way the guys competed, especially coming off of a short week." Steve Chap took first in the 3,000 steeplechase (9:37:09) and Eric Holes dominated the 400 and 200 meter dashes with winning times of 48.79 and 22.13.

"I thought Steve Chap did a great job in the 3,000 steeplechase being that it was his first steeplechase race," Martin said. "Eric Holes did really well, he got some big points and pretty much dominated his two events."

Other top placers for the Falcons were the 1,600 meter relay team (3:35:19), Pete Lisi in the 600 (1:56:73), Brian Smith in the pole vault (13:24), Dan Corlotta in the discus (144.1) and John Husler in the javelin (163.5). Tom Campeledl in the 800 hurdles (2:05) and Alex Sprague in the pole vault (13:26).

"Tom Campeledl ran a great race and did a great job to get second in the 800 hurdles," Martin said.

Saturday BG will head to Kent State, Mich. for a 2-meet against Western Michigan, Ball State and Central Michigan. Despite the fact that the 2-meet will be a scoring meet, Martin said we need to watch for key individuals.

Spring showcase

By PETE STELLA and DAN NIED

So far we have seen nine starters coming back on offense and seven on defense," said the Bowling Green head coach. "We have had a really good spring practice so far, I want to come out of this healthy."

With spring practice winding down, the annual Brown and Orange game takes place Saturday in Dayt Perry Stadium at 1 and will give the public its first glimpse of the 1999 Falcons.

Without many changes in their personnel, their team that BG遗憾ly will not look like the team that tied for third in the Mid-American Conference East division and handed the Mid-American Football Championship to Marshall the only loss of the season.

The only graduation casualty the offense will see in the loss of quarterback Bob Namet, fullback Adams Laje and tight end Tony Holcomb. Hitting in for Namet is junior Ricky Schneider, who split time at the position last year.

"The thing I like about Ricky Schneider is he didn't assume he had the starting role," Blackney said. "He's one of those guys every day with the attitude that he has to hand out to live up to and the coaches' expectations."

The receivers will feature the MAC's all-American of the year Kurt Gerling and sophomore Robert Redd.

"Both Kurt Gerling and Robert Redd have had excellent spring practices," Blackney said. "Both have gotten better and both have gotten stronger in the weight room. They understand the offense better and are reading the defense better."

Sophomore tailback Godfrey Lewis will rush behind an offensive line with no losses from last year, when they were recognized as one of the best in the conference. Senior captain Brent Marshall will take over the tight end position. Senior Kevin Shriver will replace senior Linebacker. Shriver will take over the tight end position.

"I think everything is going really well and we are really coming together as a team," Martin said. "The offense and the defense have both improved a lot during spring ball."

The secondary of the season will be made up of sophomores Chad Long and Karl Ross and junior Kevin Dubbe, all of whom saw action last year. Junior college transfer Will Washington should add some depth to the squad.

Senior Joe O'Neill returns for his senior middle infielder spot with junior Chris Wells expected to back O'Neill on an outside back-up. CLYDELAND — Dick — the "Big Guy," who is running out of the Cleveland Browns.

When NFL commissioner Paul Tagliabue officially opens the 1999 NFL Draft Thursday night in New York City, he'll be looking to Washington to determine how much time is left on the clock.

The Browns, who have 13 picks in this year's draft, have chewed through the "noose" (as they're called at One.)

The Browns already have traded away the No.1 overall pick will have been traded to 15 precious minutes.

Cleveland coach Chris Palmer, football operations director Clark and president Jimmy Haslam III have to laugh or break down crying.

With just seconds remaining, the Browns say they have at least one more pass left to do.

"I've definitely had some sleepless nights over this thing," Clark said.

The No. 1 overall pick has wrestled with it at a stolen baseball for weeks.

When he was in the third grade and Blanchard was memorized by the music of the then-current hit, "The Fighting 69th," he was inspired to play trumpet, and his parents put him into lessons. "The Fighting 69th" was written by one of New Orleans Center of Creative Arts' first music instructors, Howard Manfred and Oman. Growing up in the rich musical environment following in his father's footsteps and crafting his art over years of playing, Blanchard has been hailed as bringing new life and vitality to the contemporary jazz scene with a "life-affirming" trumpet sound.

He hit the jazz scene full force about a year ago as a member of Art Blakey's Jazz Messengers. Since then, Blanchard has released a steady stream of his own albums and appeared on many others. He played with everyone from Louis Armstrong to Benny Green. Blanchard has also had the unique opportunity to work on film soundtracks, starting with Spike Lee's "Do the Right Thing" in 1989. Since then he has done several more soundtrack jobs, including Maxine X, Primetime and E.T.

His newest CD is Jazz from the '90s, a homage to past jazz soundtracks. The tracks listed on the CD are "La Scouette Named Eve," "Tchaikovsky's "Duet," and "Scariott di Capua's Religious" and the late Kenny Kirkland, do all possible justice to these songs. Carried by Blanchard's trumpet, which creeps in and takes over any song at will, each track on this album has a personality. Some are driven by a simple riff, some roll, nick high and low, and all - but the most impressive thing on this CD is the trumpet and Blanchard's interaction with the trumpet.

Blanchard, along with fellow trumpetists,rolls, surges, and is Blanchard's main tool in creating the full potential of the trumpet and teaching us young players some old school jazz sound. Blanchard does an excellent job. The whole of Jazz in Film is an excellent example of why jazz has captured its magic and vision and lives of people everywhere.

"ED TV" may become a hit at the box office, but this soundtrack is not a hit for me. It is a collection of songs that are performed for and not by the characters, and it does. The first single released from the album is a retail winner "Real Life". This song will be the band's first new material in years. It's a hit because it's about living life. Ron Jen far must enjoy this time, but the track is put together with only 50 percent effort. With a lit- tle more work it could have been better.

"True Crime' grips audience

"True Crime"

NOW SHOWS: Another one of Eastwood's directional efforts within the conventions of the criminal and law enforcement genre. Starring: Clint Eastwood, James Woods

"True Crime' follows a group of criminal reporters who attempt to negotiate their credibility by saving a condemned man's life. The film is based on a novel by Andrew Klavan.

Steve Bennett (Eastwood) is a reporter for The Oakland Tribune. He claims to have a "nose" for news, but it turns out that his "nose" has gotten him into previous turmoil, not to mention that he's a recovering alcoholic. By chance, he's given a last-minute assignment to cover the last day of convicted murderer Frank Beechum (Eastwood's real-life Washington) life. But after hearing Beechum's story, Eastwood is convinced that his "nose for news" is telling him that Beechum is really an innocent man.

Going back to the scene of the crime, Eastwood tries to piece together evidence that supports his intuition of Beechum's innocence. However, nobody supports his ideas, believing him to be a drunkard, bookstore reporter. He sets out to prove them wrong and fight for a man's life.

Eastwood did a wonderful job playing the unrepentant character Steve Everett. His presence is very believable, except the parts in the film in which numerous women lust for him. (However, some viewers may find his bare chest, complete with wrinkles and rolls, attractive... what do I know?) Isaiah Washington does an outstanding job as Frank Beechum, the convicted killer. I feel that he does excellent work, especially considering the nature of the character.

People who are on "Death Row" for a while are named to be very repentant and screwball, but audiences usually do not see this side of criminals in the movie theater. The scene where Frank has to say goodbye to his daughter before his planned execution is particularly heart-wrenching.

This movie is filled with suspense right up until the very end. I sat on the edge of my seat quite a few times. The plot is a little predictable, although it is filled with a few unexpected twists and turns along the way, but nonetheless, "True Crime" is a very good film. It is action-packed, filled with suspense, has a great plot, and is portrayed by excellent actors.

with some surprisingly subtle and non-violent jobs at author- itarian figures (1960s influence) and overworking with a squad that makes it sound like Hyppia Lee and Harry Reems are about to pop up at any second. "Death Race 2000" is a deliciously over-the-top movie that embraces the attitude of 1980s sci-fi and, by the way, the general attitude about making movies during this period.

When one watches these pictures there is a daunting irony that can be sensed from behind the camera. The filmmakers and actors are clearly having a great time committing the excesses of the time and visions to the world of cellul.

Instead of the mood power b.s. that esteems much of current cinema, film- makers of the '70s were inventing ideas and integrity into every frame.

These guys were thrilled just to be making a movie and instead of thinking that sci-fi is some sort of pop art, they thought about the genre. They housed their cam- tara and went forth to simply make the best film possible.

Now when one sits down to watch any sci-fi or fantasy flick, odds are they will get something the "Armageddon" where ideas are secondary to blowing stuff up. Science fiction plots have become more about the money (namely huge budgets shooting out of giant buildings) than making a good movie.

So where does this leave sci-fi in the 1990s? I won't deny enjoying a little of the ultra-violence now and again, but for a genre to survive it can't resign itself to simply being an excuse to let Ben Affleck, T-shirt adorned, run amok as an oil rig declaring his love for Liv Tyler. It is interesting to note that Cinemascope magazine declared a comedy, "Kids" in the Haji Brain Cereal," as the best sci-fi film of the last few years. Why did they dish this dreadful gem best sci-fi? Because it dealt with a scintillating concept (drug-induced eupho-
