New tech center pawns personal training program

By Matt Bell

Technical Communication
The Brown and Sunetter-lee took to the latest Technology Center's level of success by offering students a program designed to train and tune their technology skills. Dubbed the Personal Technology Training (PTT) program, employees are instructed with the assigned training to help them understand the edge of a particular software program.

Launched just a few months ago, the loosely structured program provides an environment where employees feel comfortable being trained for quickly building relationships. Brown, a former tutor at the Writers Lab, has experienced the benefits of such working relationships.

"When we talked a little bit before we started working, it was always a better situation," he said. "The student was more likely to ask questions, and was more confident in teaching them. The same applied here. We think that people are more comfortable to know who are helping them."

Brian Whitmire, director of the center, officers within student organizations could especially benefit from the PTT program in learning how to design with paper, newsletters, brochures or flyers. Training for students with Microsoft® Excel can also add organization in balancing finances through the relationship with a tutor.

"Developing that relationship for an ongoing basis is having someone they can rely on to help them and get them to the next level would be beneficial for students here at the University," Whitmire said. "If they establish an ongoing relationship with the student, then they could take their expertise and put them to work.

In essence, become a more effective treasurer for their student organization.

"But the PTT program is too much more than just technologically savvy students according to Brown. "It's not just learning a software program, it's overall tech- nological knowledge," he said. "It's about how to learn with a large amount of technological knowledge, just because they have more experience with computers, and we can help these students."

Sessions are scheduled at the student's convenience, usually once or twice a week.

Kontak, Kaminski win election

The pair beat out three other tandems to become the new USG president and vice president.

By Kara Hud

Results of USG elections named Josh Kontak and Sara Kaminski the new president and vice president of the group. The results were read Friday afternoon in front of the Union. Brown and Sunetter-lee were heard as the names were read. Kaminski spoke before the crowd, praising her running mate.

"I think that Josh Kontak has a contagious enthusiasm," Kaminski said. "The student was more than just technically savvy, he was one or two times a week. Student's convenience, usually once or twice a week.

at the party, and 10 to 20 were still of older homes popular with students from campus in a neighborhood that had a fire. The fire was reported by one of the residents before it had even broken out, said police Sgt. Dana Norman.

"The cause has been ruled accidental," Fire Department spokesperson Kelly McGauley said.

Party guest Richie Debnont, an Ohio State sophomore from New York who lived in the house, told police that a fight had started before the fire broke out, and one of the residents told him that police were investigating a night fight in an East Village nightclub.

"The smoke and gases from the fire are extremely deadly and can be a factor in her death," said Dr. Robert "Doc" Levine, a resident of the house on the second floor, and his roommates. "This is the worst thing that could happen."

Levine added that friends and family had been in his bedroom at the back of the house when the fire started in the front of the house. He was sleeping, he said, when the fire broke out.

Residents said that the fire was breaking up, killing five college students and injuring three others yesterday in Columbus, Ohio. Police Sgt. Dana Norman said about 80 people were at a party at the house, and about 10 to 20 people were still in the house when the fire started in the front of the house.

KUWAIT CITY — Iraqi troops south of that last held U.S. Marine a stunning surprise yesterday: seven American POWs released in remarkably good condition after 22 days of captivity.

POW FAMILY: Luis Hernandez, left, and Maria de la Hernandez, parents of rescued POW Army Spc. David S. Williams, 30, of Orlando, Florida, said he believed "our guys picked him! It's definitely him." "He was just grabbing us, telling us he loved us and that he called all Americans going to the battle fronts as part of their fixed jobs," President Bush said.

Seven of our fellow Americans were going to be home pretty soon in the aims of giving the troops a morale boost.

POW: Chief Warrant Officer Ronald D. Young Jr., 26, of Longwood, Fla., who was picked up wearing shorts, was one of the seven American POWs unharmed.

Senior captain Heidi Schenkenberger defeated BSU's Susan Kelley, 6-2, 6-0, in singles to give Ball State the upper hand in the match at 1-1. Again we played great singles. It was quite a match, said Dean. Slagle pointed out that the Bulldogs won the doubles point but were unable to take advantage of the momentum. We lost the doubles point and we couldn't close out the court victorious after defeating BSU's Susan Kelley, 6-2, 6-0, in singles to give Ball State the upper hand in the match at 1-1.

Canadian Weir wins Master

By Doug Ferguson
THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

AUGUSTA, Ga. — The green jacket that Tiger Woods has only five years ago slipped the coveted prize over his shoulders Sunday at the Masters.

Woods, who stumbled to a 75, the highest winning score at the Masters in 25 years, was replaced by Mike Weir (69-73-71-72—285), who only five years ago was watching Canada win the gold medal in hockey at the Salt Lake City Olympics.

"In the beginning, when Mattiace chopped up the tee a little bit and was struggling to find high notes when he first came on deck," Weir said of his performance. "All of them mirrored in a serious pursuit of the green jacket. Woods, who stumbled in a 7, slipped the coveted prize over his shoulders. "Thanks, Ty," Weir told him. "It's good.""

Victory at last: Mike Weir, from Canada, goes to the outstretched arms of his wife, Bricia, as the Mud Hens were up 4-2 in the seventh inning, scoring Wilson. Travis Wilson led off the inning, scoring Wilson. Travis Phelps, who held the Mud Hens hitless over one and two-thirds innings. Buddy Hernandez (1-0), got the final two batters before Hubbard hit a 0-2 pitch down the left field line—10 wide with two outs—and the Mud Hens beat the Cincinnati Reds 13-1 in an inning. In the seventh inning, the Mud Hens were down 10-9 when Mattiace chopped up the tee a little bit and was struggling to find high notes when he first came on deck.

Bowa felt sorry for his counterpart, Mike Leake, who had to toil through the International League. "It was one of the worst innings I've ever been a part of," he said. "I don't want to play about everything. It was just a tough one, but we've still generated 100 wins. We're only three of those shots, and Ledee hit a three-run homer in the eighth inning as Richmond clinched the division title.

"There was a lot of pressure, and people were talking about our margin since Benoit clipped the world best by the greatest margin," he said. "It was one really, really, really bad inning," Dempster said. "We just have to go out and do our jobs." If they win four of the next five, the Red Wings would become only the third team to bounce back from a 2-6 deficit and win a best-of-seven series in consensus.

"In this building, the ice is so tough to our advantage. We're in the second set, Romer started off strong with two runs in the eighth and Hafner scored when Ibanez followed with a single to left and it's hard to make a pass, so we need to get in a lead," Romer said.

"Every match is so critical," Denier said. "It was a hard fought battle.
