The property was purchased in 1981 to begin developing a trail and

Park District project.
"We had the opportunity to buy the property of a man who was looking to develop a trail project," Manger said. "So we sought to buy the property in order to give the public access to an outdoor setting in the county.

"How strangely the battle lines have been drawn in a country when two groups, each with the same grievances caused by the same things, can stand in such diametric opposition to one another."

The Tea Party movement is becoming the latest example of the battles being drawn. The Tea Party has gained a lot of momentum, but there are those who oppose it and believe that it is not the right approach. In this article, the author discusses the Tea Party movement and its supporters, and how they are not necessarily united in their goals.

The Tea Party movement is a group of people who are opposed to the federal government's overreach and believe that it is acting too much like a big business. They believe that the government is too big and too powerful, and that it is not serving the needs of the people.

The author argues that the Tea Party movement is not necessarily united in its goals, and that there are those who support it and those who oppose it. The author also notes that the Tea Party movement is not necessarily effective, and that it can be divisive.

Overall, the author argues that the Tea Party movement is not a good thing, and that it is not serving the needs of the people. The author suggests that there are better ways to address the problems facing the country, and that the Tea Party movement is not one of them.

The author concludes by saying that the Tea Party movement is not a good thing, and that it is not serving the needs of the people. The author suggests that there are better ways to address the problems facing the country, and that the Tea Party movement is not one of them.
BG set for four games of MAC action

By Brant Wise

Coming off their final non-conference game of the season, the Falcon softball team continues Mid-American Conference play with a doubleheader against Western Michigan Friday and 11 a.m. Saturday at Bowling Green. The Falcons are 7-17 overall and 0-9 in MAC play. Western Michigan is 2-3 in MAC and 4-17 overall. Six Mid-American Conference games remain this season.

The Falcons will play all four games at home starting with Wright State Tuesday at 1 p.m. and 3:15 p.m., and NIU at 2 p.m. Saturday and 1 p.m. Sunday. The Falcons struggled to start last season and built some momentum for the rest of the season.

Patience at the plate

Meisler brings discipline to BG leadoff role

By Ryan Bestwick

Logan Meisler has always been a patient hitter. However, the growth of that patience has significantly progressed throughout his career at BG. "I've always been a leadoff hitter until I came here, and now again this year recently," Meisler said.

"We just need to, overall in every event area, have everyone produce what they're capable of producing. I don't think we've seen that to this point," Meisler said. "That's the leadoff guy job, not to strike out, to see a lot of pitches to get on base and get on base and to see what the other pitcher is throwing." During his career at BG, he has walked once more than twice.

Track team to compete at All-Ohio

By Brad Frank

The BG track and field team is heading into its toughest outdoor meet of the season with more rest than usual as they prepare for the All-Ohio meet. At this point in the season, the team is having a little more focus on qualifying for the regional meet in the next week. The team hopes to get the best performances from each athlete in every event. "We'll back off a little this week in preparation for the All-Ohio meet and kind of turn our attention more toward competing in the meets coming up and adjusting the training at this point," said coach Gami Weir, "hoping they'll be a little rested." Today the Falcons will return to Athens, Ohio for the second consecutive weekend at the annual All-Ohio Championships. Few differences in this weekend's meet compared to BG's three previous meets this season are the types of scoring and the level of competition.

The BG women's golf team will also face Toledo, all in-state schools this season, with spirits run-ning high. "It's always an advantage for the girls when they are able to sleep in their own bed the night before a tournament and then go out and compete at a course that they know well," coach Stephanie Young said.

The field this weekend will consist of 11 teams, with five coming from the Mid-American Conference. It is the largest overall field as well as the largest MAC representation in tournament history. Young attributes the inter est partly to the tournament being moved to the weekend as also to the increased star ting salary of the event.

After an inconsistent start, Young believes that her team has turned itself into something very positive last week. She is confident that the once-a-year opportunity to play in front of family and friends will further elevate the already high spirits.
